SCHOOL BOARD GIVES UP AUTOS TO SAVE $30,500

$3,650,565 Economy Program Launched.

Battle Over Inquiry

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school trustees' economy program which was presented at a session of the board yesterday afternoon and on which action was deferred until next Tuesday, contemplates a grand total economy of $3,650,565."

The business specialty [illegible] jobs of [illegible] the abolition of bureaus and various activities of individuals and [illegible] some jobs.

MRS. W. S. HEFFERAN.

All of the proposed savings have the endorsement of the department heads, according to the announcement of President Myers; and it is understood there is virtually an agreement among the trustees to put the plan into effect with the exception of two items. One of those is a saving of $1,000 by having the teachers contribute a week without compensation, and the other is a donation by the employes of a week's work, which would amount to $300,000.

Trustees Give Up Autos.

The plan provides for trimming the school department $1,717,015, the law department $37,200 and the business department $1,876,350. In addition Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, a trustee, persuaded the trustees to relinquish their auto service, which costs the board $30,000 a year. This was a bitter pill for the trustees and they had to make two efforts to swallow it.

"The auto maintenance with a chauffeur at $200 a month, which runs to $30,000 a year, is an expense which we can eliminate," argued Mrs. Hefferan.

"That is a graceful move on the part of Mrs. Hefferan," said Trustee Robert F. Carr in seconding the motion. "Eliminating this luxury of the trustees will make an appeal to the public."

The Vote on Proposal.

Little more was said before the roll call started. The call ended with Trustee Brandenburg and Durante voting for the retention of the cars, Trustee Caldwell, Hemingway, and Miss Haley declining to vote and with Trustees McJunkin, Savage, Hefferan, Carr and Myers voting to eliminate the expense.

Declining one vote to have a majority, Trustee Carr appealed again to the board to "save the day."

"I'm more fortunate than some of my colleagues," said Trustee Savage. "I have three autos, but I have used the board of education car on school business."

Auto Talk a Joke, He Says.

He said that he visited the schools, as many as eight in one day, and in instances where the use of cars saved money for the property owners. He went on:

"I voted to eliminate the cars because some of those who need the cars opposed their votes. It is unfortunate that the lady who made the motion did not think of it before we bought her a new car recently. I was told that since she has been on the board she has had three new cars and a need car. When her car was in for repair, I am told that she complained vigorously. This auto talk is a big joke."

"It is no joke," insisted Mrs. Hefferan.

"Please let me," interrupted Trustee Myers.

"Let mother talk," retorted Mrs. Hefferan. "I am ashamed to be seen getting out of an expensive car by a chauffeur who has not been paid in two months."

Trustee Changes Vote.

"To relieve the situation," spoke up Trustee Brandenburg. "Before I came into the meeting I was asked to vote against elimination of the autos, and now I see that I was asked for that vote by one who passed his vote

WALKER FIGHTS 15 ROUND DRAW WITH SHARKEY

Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion, fought a 15 round draw with Jack Sharkey of Boston at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, last night. A crowd of 25,000 paid $200,000 to see the bout.

Walker weighed 169½ pounds, 29 pounds less than Sharkey.

LIQUOR SELLER SHOT; FLEES IN CAR, CAPTURED

Found at Home of Indiana Friend.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 23 [Thursday].—[Special.]—Two federal dry agents were shot and killed near here last night and two others were injured when George Adams, paroled bootlegger, shot his way out of a trap laid by the agents. Adams, suffering from a bullet wound in the neck, was captured early today in front of the home of a friend.

The slain operatives were John I. Wilson, head of the special unit of the Indianapolis prohibition offices, and Walter M. Gilbert of the dry department at Cincinnati. Those injured are C. E. Green of Portland, Ind., and Oliver J. Gettle of Indianapolis. Wilson formerly was assigned at Chicago, Detroit, and Springfield, Ill.

Bargains for Whisky.

Early last night Agents Gilbert and Green, the latter a special government informer, visited with Adams in his home at 2426 Smith street. They bargained with him to sell them some whisky and arranged that it should be delivered near Stell Horn bridge, on lower Huntington road, about two and one-half miles south of here.

At the appointed hour Adams drove up to the bridge in his car. Wilson and Gettle were sitting on a culvert. As Adams appeared Gilbert and Green veered their machine in front of him, blocking a getaway.

Adams, expecting to meet only two men and seeing four, realized his entrapment and whipped out a revolver as he sat in his automobile. Gilbert, seeing the move, sent a shot through the windshield of the man's car.

Adams Asks Who Fired.

"Who fired that shot?" demanded Adams angrily. Then seeing Gilbert's gun, he shouted, "I'm going to kill you."

As he elevated his automatic pistol Gilbert fired another shot, the bullet inflicting a slight neck wound on Adams. But Adams swung into action at the same time. He fired at the nearest agent, Wilson, and sent him down with four bullets. Gilbert attempted to dodge, and as he turned Adams fired. The bullet pierced Gilbert's back and caused his death an hour later. Wilson died almost immediately.

The other agents, Green and Gettle, stunned by the shooting, stood defenseless, their guns in their car, a short distance back, as Adams quickly reloaded his weapon and menaced them. They pleaded with him not to shoot and then suddenly bolted. They leaped toward the bottom of the culvert and into a barbed wire fence, from which they suffered lacerations as Adams fired at them.

Escapes in Automobile.

Adams escaped in his car. He appeared next 12 miles south of here at the home of Lloyd Krouse, a friend, where he said he had an automobile mishap and received medical aid. Krouse then drove Adams to the home of Frank V. Kendierski at 1906 Rudisill boulevard, Fort Wayne. As the car stopped Policemen Raymond Kelm, Carl Ormiston, Edward McGrath, and Jack Taylor surrounded him and forced him to surrender.

Adams was holding his pistol and two boxes of cartridges in his lap. He was taken to the station, where he refused to talk. Prosecutor Walter E. Hemke announced he would charge Adams with first degree murder.

The slayer was sentenced to Leavenworth prison Oct. 7, 1929, by Federal Judge Thomas Slick at South Bend for a term of two years for violating the liquor laws. He was paroled last January.

ARGENTINA PUTS MUZZLE ON THREE CRITICAL PAPERS

BUENOS AIRES, July 22.—(AP)—Three newspapers were ordered suspended by the government today. The papers were the morning tabloid El Mundo, the Socialist party organ Vanguardia, and the Socialista Independiente, which represents the independent Socialists.

The government issued a communique in which it said the newspapers had violated a promise not to publish "mischievous statements or commentaries" giving a false impression of the situation in the country.

The suspension of El Mundo was for 48 hours. The others were closed for an indefinite period.

The coffin, empty and apparently new, was found on a dilapidated and abandoned motor truck between Albion and Loyola avenues near the lake. Alongside it on the floor was an envelope containing several photographs of caskets of various designs. The envelope was addressed to C. R. Barnhill of 19 South La Salle street from W. W. Dowdel of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Acting Lieut. Eugene Lee conducted an investigation and learned from residents of the neighborhood that the truck and coffin had been abandoned several days ago.

Shoots Self in Quarrel with His Girl Bride

A domestic quarrel between Charles Krauter, 22 years old, and his bride of four months, Fay, 17 years old, of 242 West 62d street, ended last night when he shot himself in the right side. He was taken to St. Bernard's hospital in a critical condition. The quarrel arose over Krauter's objection to his wife's wish to visit her family at Reardon, Ill., police said.

Tragic Death Message Halts Dinner in Club

News of a tragedy in the northern Wisconsin resort country last night interrupted the repast of two men, who were dining at the Tavern club, 333 North Michigan avenue.

Charles Daniel Frey, proprietor of the advertising agency which bears his name, was dining with Wilfred O. Floing, art director of the agency, when a page approached with word that Mr. Floing was wanted for a long distance telephone call from Eagle River, Wis.

"It must be my wife," the artist said, starting for the booth.

Tells of Wife's Death.

A few minutes later Mr. Floing returned to the table to tell Mr. Frey that his wife was dead. The two men left the club immediately, Mr. Floing going to the Lake Shore Drive hotel to pack his bag.

He rejoined Mr. Frey a half hour later at the Union station. They boarded a Milwaukee road train at 10:30 p. m. for Eagle River.

Thomas McGregor, sheriff at Eagle River, confirmed the report of Mrs. Floing's death. She had shot herself in the heart about 6 p. m., the sheriff said, after receiving a telegram containing bad news from Chicago.

The coroner, Pat Gaffney, had taken charge of the case and also of Mrs. Floing's funeral, it was learned. Friends of Mrs. Floing had brought the body to his mortuary and it was he who notified Mr. Floing of her death by telephone.

Coroner Silent on Details.

Beyond confirming the fact that Mrs. Floing was dead, the coroner refused to discuss the case. An inquest would be held this morning, he declared, and any information concerning the suicide would be made public only after Mr. Floing's arrival.

Mrs. Floing was about 40 years old, the coroner said. Her husband is 46. They had no children. The couple have been living in Chicago for the last two years, Mr. Floing having previously been associated with the advertising staff of the General Motors corporation in Detroit and New York.

The suicide occurred at Everett's resort, fashionable summer place just outside Eagle River. Attendants said Mrs. Floing had spent the summer regularly there for a number of years.

GREAT PILLOW CASE MYSTERY SOLVED BY SORTING AND SORTING

Mrs. Doris Milkallunas of 5762 South Racine avenue appealed to Desk Sergeant John Fogarty of the Englewood station yesterday. "I had $196 at home," she said, "and now I can't find it."

"Where did you keep it usually?" asked the sergeant. "Everywhere," responded the woman tearfully. "Sometimes I hid it in a pillow case, and then I'd put the case in with the laundry."

Sergt. Fogarty learned Mrs. Milkallunas had sent out the laundry, pillow cases and all, in the afternoon. He assigned Policemen William Kenny and Steve Harrington to the case, with instructions about pillow cases. The policemen accompanied Mrs. Milkallunas to the Metropolitan Laundry, 6553 South Kedzie avenue. There the policemen were confronted with a mountain of laundry. Mrs. Milkallunas' laundry was somewhere in the pile. Kenny and Harrington began work. They sorted and sorted and sorted. Suddenly Mrs. Milkallunas recognized her bundle.

The bundle was opened and inside one of the pillow cases was her $196.

SCORN AND JAIL FOR SLAPPING WOMAN SMOKER

Indianapolis, Ind., July 22.—[Special.]—After describing C. W. Hardwick, fifty, as an "outrageous rascal" because he knocked a cigaret from a woman's lips and slapped her three times, Wilbur Royse, judge in Municipal court here, today fined him fifty dollars and sentenced him to ten days in jail on a charge of assault and battery.

Hardwick was arrested on a warrant signed by Mrs. Marjorie Palecco, who asserted he approached her while she was in an automobile downtown Tuesday, flipped the cigaret from her mouth and slapped her on the face.

The defendant testified that "some kind of wave" swept over him when he saw Mrs. Palecco light a cigaret and that he told her she ought to be in an insane asylum because she smoked.

"You're the kind snooping around in other persons' business," said Royse to Hardwick. "You really should be sent to the Indiana state penal farm for about three months."

Nab Club Cashier Wanted Here in $10,000 Theft

Chicago police were notified yesterday by Los Angeles authorities that Albert F. Slyder, former cashier of the Medinah Athletic club, who is accused of having absconded with $10,000 of the club's funds on Aug. 4, 1929, had been arrested in Los Angeles under the name of George Monahand.

Doctor Given 15 Years for Girl's Death

Dr. Thomas J. Ney, 7010 Stony Island avenue, was found guilty of murder by abortion late yesterday and a jury before Judge Joseph B. David fixed his punishment at 15 years in the penitentiary. Two and one-half hours were required for the verdict.

Ney, the jury decided, performed an illegal operation on Miss Elma Bromps, 20 years old, of Angora, Minn., who died on April 25 in Chicago. He is also under indictment for another death by illegal operation, that of Miss Eunice McElroy, 21 years old, who died on Nov. 14, 1928. This case has been in the courts for almost three years, Ney having obtained 27 continuances.

David Speeds Up Court.

Judge David sent the Bromps case to the jury at 2:23 p. m., after four busy hours, during which he not only heard the conclusion of this trial but tried fourteen other cases to relieve the county jail of some of its inmates.

The jury, headed by Foreman R. E. Gratz, 6033 North California avenue, returned its verdict at 5 p. m. It was learned that the jurors had found Ney guilty on the first ballot and had spent the remainder of the time arguing over the penalty.

After the verdict was read Attorney Ward Swalwell polled the jurors, and when all signified their agreement in the decision Swalwell turned to the bench and asked for a new trial for Ney.

New Trial Is Refused.

"There is no reason to spend time on a motion like this," replied Judge David. "There is no reversible error in this case. I overrule the motion."

Attorney Swalwell then tried for bail for his client, who was put in jail two days ago after the state objected to his $20,000 bond. Murder by abortion is not a bailable charge, Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and John L. Murphy maintained at that time, and the court sustained them. Yesterday's motion for bail was quickly denied and Ney was led back to jail.

Judge David then asked what the state wished to do about the McElroy case and Lavin asked for a few days' time in order that the matter might be decided. Judge David was reluctant to put the matter off any longer, but finally continued it until Friday.

"It is a sad commentary on the administration of justice," he declared, "that this case has dragged along for such a time."

In addition to trial of the McElroy case, Ney also faces a license revocation hearing requested by the state department of registration and education.

Sweetheart Is Witness.

The state's principal witness in the Bromps case was Robert Berry, 24 years old, 2253 Indiana avenue, sweetheart of the dead girl, who testified that he paid Ney $50 on April 16 to engage him for the operation. Berry introduced Miss Bromps to Ney as his sister and made five visits to Ney's Stony Island avenue office with her.

Miss Bromps did not improve and when her illness became acute Ney and Dr. William White, under indictment in another abortion case, went to her flat at 2253 Indiana avenue.

Their visit there was described by Mrs. Katherine Kolb, the landlady, who said she heard the girl screaming when the doctors were inside her room. They refused to give their names when they left, Ney calling himself Dr. Snyder, Mrs. Kolb said.

LONDON PARLEY ASKS EXTENSION OF SHORT LOANS

French Block Plan for Greater Help.

Turn to U. S. Again

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—Once again tonight German hopes turned to America to stave off the possible fall of the Bruening government, to prevent the assumption of power by Adolf Hittler, German Fascist leader, and to call a halt to growing radicalism. Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius made an appointment for a meeting tomorrow with the American secretaries, Stimson and Mellon.

They hope to persuade the Americans, at the 11th hour, that from their viewpoint the suggestions to be presented to the seven power conference tomorrow by the finance ministers' committee are insufficient unless the chancellor and his foreign minister can return to Germany with cash in their pockets.

Disquieting reports came all day from Berlin, stating that radicals of the right and left were already gloating over what they branded the "failure" of the German ministers' mission. Nationalist newspaper correspondents seriously told their foreign colleagues they were in a quandary whether to remain in London until tomorrow, for they might be needed in Berlin in connection with rapidly moving events there."

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 22.—The seven power conference, called to rescue Germany from financial collapse, will wind up its work tomorrow. As far as can be ascertained tonight, it has decided on nothing except to recommend to the central banks and the Bank for International Settlements that they renew for ninety days the $160,000,000 credit recently granted by the world bank, the American Federal Reserve bank, the Bank of England, and the Bank of France. This credit is due to expire in a few days. Private bankers are also to be asked to leave their credits now in Germany in German hands.

It also recommends that a world bank committee be appointed to consider further financial aid to Germany and the conversion of existing short term credits to long term credits.

French Balk Stimson Proposal.

A proposal for a new $125,000,000 loan to the Reichsbank was turned down hard by the French, and when Secretary of State Stimson suggested that the short term credits might be redistributed among the nations, Premier Laval asked him if he were joking, and said if he was the joke was not very funny.

The finance ministers of the seven nations, after a session lasting nearly four hours, this evening agreed on a report, of which the items mentioned above form the chief part. The contents of the report were strictly guarded tonight and will be presented to a plenary session of the conference tomorrow morning.

Confession of Failure.

In its present shape the report is a confession of failure of governmental effort to control the movements of money. All the ministers of six great powers are able to do is to ask the bankers please not to withdraw any more money from Germany. Presumably they are counting on the bankers to prove compliasant.

Late tonight a report was circulating that the conference will be regarded as a permanent session, and that it will be recalled if the measures put forth tomorrow fail to revive German confidence and restore its economic stability.

None of the delegates here tonight seemed really enthusiastic over the result. The Germans were frankly gloomy and refused to comment.

French Are Delighted.

The British, Americans, and Italians profess to be satisfied, but did not display much enthusiasm. The French alone were delighted. They think the conference has been a real success.

Premier Laval told a friend tonight that within three months he expected to see the Germans, hat in hand, going to Paris and accepting France's political conditions in return for real help.

The Germans and Frenchmen tonight announced their intention of leaving for home tomorrow. They may attend the king's garden party at Buckingham palace before leaving.

As soon as they have gone the committee of experts, which was formed to solve outstanding details of the Hoover moratorium plan and which has been marking time during this conference, will begin their work. The questions they will seek to settle are quite distinct from the problems discussed by the ministers here.

Three eminent foreign bankers are going to Germany soon to advise the government on measures calculated to stem the flight of capital from that country. These bankers are Oliver Mitchell Sprague, American adviser to the Bank of England; Sir Robert Kindersley, a director of the Bank of England, and Dr. Knut Wallenberg, Swedish financier. The German delegates said they were ready to welcome such a delegation.

The events today which led up to tonight's decision to end the conference tomorrow were equally as disappointing to the delegates. The plenary session of the conference met this morning to hear the report of the finance ministers on the progress of their five and one-half hour meeting last night. This meeting, it developed today, was based on President Hoover's new "suggestions."

Discuss "Concerted Action."

An official communique was issued following this morning's meeting which said the ministers "gave further consideration to methods of restoring confidence in and stability of the German financial position by concerted international cooperation."

The progress the ministers made, and certain technical questions, were then referred back to the finance ministers. The latter met for four hours and agreed on the report as explained above.

The finance minister also discussed means of removing the fundamental causes of the present crisis, but decided that this would take too long and that the task now was to save Germany from an immediate crash.

Snowden and Stimson Clash.

Philip Snowden, Great Britain's iron chancellor of the exchequer, figured in two clashes at this morning's meeting. The first was with Secretary Stimson and the second with Premier Laval.

Mr. Snowden, during the discussion, suggested that no permanent relief for Germany was possible until the question of reparations and war debts had been settled. Secretary Stimson, speaking with considerable heat, interrupted, declaring that this conference had not been authorized to discuss anything but immediate relief for Germany, and that if any other questions were introduced he would have to leave. The matter was then dropped.

Later Mr. Snowden proposed to extend the German short term credits of $100,000,000 for three months, to allow time for a calm discussion of further and more permanent measures. Premier Laval, speaking sarcastically, said this proposal had been made by the French ten days ago at Basel, but was rejected by Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England.

Calls Proposal Strange.

Mr. Norman, Laval said, had insisted on only an eight days' extension. The Frenchman declared that it was strange that the British should now come back to the French proposal which they had already rejected.

It is becoming more and more apparent that Great Britain and the United States are drawing together into virtually a financial alliance. France is determined to let Germany sink until she meets the French terms, and the French have been bringing pressure to bear on Great Britain by a steady drain of gold from the Bank of England to the Bank of France. Today nearly $17,250,000 was withdrawn, bringing the net loss since a week ago Monday to $86,760,000. The Bank of England, however, has received assurances from the American Federal Reserve bank that it will be supported in case the drain of its gold becomes dangerous.

Stimson Is Apologetic.

Secretary of State Stimson was in an apologetic mood when he met the world's press today and explained that yesterday's mixup over the new Hoover plan was all a matter of definition. He was asked about a "new plan," he said, and had replied there was none, because he had presented the essentials of this plan in Paris last Saturday and Prime Minister MacDonald had adopted it in its entirety in his opening speech at the London conference.

At the same time it was evident that he was peeved because Washington gave the plan out without apparently warning him it was about to do so.

There were a series of political meetings outside of the conference tonight. Foreign Ministers Briand and Curtius of France and Germany, respectively, met at 6 p. m. at the Carlton hotel, and were still at it late tonight, and meetings were said to have been arranged for later on between Foreign Minister Curtius and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy. The French delegates have been invited to a lunch tomorrow at the German embassy. It is described as a farewell luncheon.

Figures Show Germany Has 3,956,000 Unemployed

BERLIN, July 22.—(AP)—Germany's unemployed on July 15 numbered 3,956,000, a decrease of 6,000 from June 30. In the same fortnight last year there was an increase of 75,000, but it was pointed out that on July 15 the labor market had not begun to feel the effects of the present crisis.

HOOVER ACCEPTS LONDON SCHEME TO AID GERMANY

Resembles the Proposal Made by Him.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—On behalf of President Hoover, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. stated tonight that the plan worked out by the finance ministers of the seven power conference in London for the economic stabilization of Germany is acceptable to the United States.

Mr. Castle made the announcement following a radiophone talk he and the President had had with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in London. The plan, as described by Mr. Stimson, resembles to a considerable degree what is known as the Hoover proposal which was made public by the state department yesterday with the statement that it had been submitted to the London conference.

Will Extend All Credit.

The finance ministers, according to Mr. Stimson, will recommend to the conference tomorrow that the governments concerned shall use their influence to procure a three months' extension of the 100 million dollar gold credit given Germany by the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the federal reserve banks of the United States and the Bank of International Settlements.

A second recommendation is that banks and other institutions shall renew their present short term credits to Germany. A third proposal indorsed by the finance ministers is that a committee be appointed to consider further financial aid to Germany.

Mr. Stimson told the President that in his opinion the conference will accept the recommendations of the finance ministers tomorrow and then adjourn.

Stimson Upsets Hoover Boosters.

Developments today only thickened the fog enveloping the authorship of the plan presented to the seven power conference from Washington for the economic stabilization of Germany—thickened it, in fact, to about the consistency of a "London particular."

The White House press agents reiterated that Mr. Hoover was the sole author of the proposal to extend credit to Germany. But either they had failed to give Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson his cue or Mr. Stimson chose to ignore it in the interest of a higher consideration than political capital. For Mr. Stimson in London pronounced the plan as much British as American and said it was actually submitted to the conference by Prime Minister Ramsay McDonald of Great Britain.

Castle Registers Shocked Surprise.

Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. said that Mr. Stimson had never reported the existence of a British proposal. All he had said was that the British were sympathetically disposed toward the Hoover plan.

The text of the Hoover plan, made public at the state department, said Mr. Castle, was the text of the instructions Mr. Hoover had cabled to Mr. Stimson and Mr. Mellon last Friday. There had been communications with them before that along the line of the eventual proposal, as Mr. Hoover had been studying what means he felt might best meet the situation. His ideas were at least formulated in the instructions to Mr. Stimson and Mr. Mellon.

If the British, in their own investigations, Mr. Castle went on, had reached the same conclusion, so much the better, but the proposal made public here yesterday was worked out in Washington without any consulation with the British.

Signals Mixed Once Before.

An inquiry as to whether Mr. Hoover got his scheme from Mr. Stimson, who got it from Mr. MacDonald, was answered in the negative by Mr. Castle, who said that the instructions were sent to Mr. Stimson in Paris and Mr. Stimson did not see Mr. MacDonald till he got to London.

The incident is reminiscent of what took place at a critical juncture of the London arms conference last year. Mr. Stimson in London was saying that the American delegation would be favorably disposed toward American participation in a European consultative pact under certain circumstances, while Mr. Hoover in Washington was saying exactly the contrary.

It transpired during the day that before President Hoover cabled Secretary Stimson the German relief proposals he had in his pocket a confidential memorandum signed by a dozen of New York's foremost bankers agreeing not to withdraw from Germany any "deposits, advances or credits" during the present emergency.

Morrow Gets Some Results.

The memorandum was drawn up after a week of missionary work by Sentor Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey, former partner of J. P. Morgan, in persuading banking colleagues that it was to their interest to act in coöperation with the White House in saving Germany.

Among the banks which signed the confidential memorandum are the Chase National bank, the National City bank, the Chatham-Phoenix bank and the American Exchange-Irving Trust company. In each case the memorandum is signed by one of the highest officials of the bank, usually the president.

The bankers were inclined at first to take the view that if they could salvage a few millions from Germany it was to their best interests to act immediately. Senator Morrow, on the other hand, argued that the problem was essentially a banking one and one in which all the bankers would have to coöperate.

Persuades Bankers to View.

He pointed out that New York banks had approximately $500,000,000 of German acceptances in their hands, that the recent restrictions of President Hindenburg to halt the flight of the mark had made it impossible to liquidate these acceptances and that it was to the bankers' best interests to coöperate to protect their frozen credit.

Because of the important part which both Mr. Mills and Senator Morrow have played in formulating this new proposal, it is being tagged the "Morrow-Mills plan" and is being set down in the long succession of plans—the Dawes plan, Young plan, and Hoover plan—brought forward for the solution of Germany's debt and reparation problem.

German Plants Hit Hard; Many at Point of Closing

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANKFORT, Germany, July 22.—The smaller cities and towns generally are less hard hit by the financial crash than Berlin.

Business here is moving along at about the same tempo as before President Hoover's moratorium proposal. Prices of all commodities are down in an effort to coax trade, but even the bargains offered fail to tempt foreign buyers much. Numerous American buyers are here on their annual visit to seek novelties, but the manufacturers and jobbers are pessimistic over the outlook.

The big leather and glass works at Hanau and Offenbach, near here, are working half time and some are at a point of closing because of the steadily accentuated depression. Reports from Austria state their Vienna rivals are obtaining some new American business through more advantageous terms.

Pay Dole as Usual.

Most of the people having deposits in the Frankfort banks are able to obtain enough funds to keep them going personally and business men are legally entitled to withdraw for salaries, payment of materials, and operating expenses.

The municipality is handing out the dole to the unemployed regularly, and all civic and state workers are receiving their wages on time.

The big business houses here are praying fervently that the London conference will result in the granting of new credits to Germany in order to give industry a breathing spell and to finance operations over the winter, but they realize that the world's buying power is steadily diminishing and a further reduction in sales is expected.

Billion and Quarter Withdrawn.

Statistics shown me by bankers here reveal that in the last nine months since the Hitler party success in the elections, more than $1,250,000,000 has been withdrawn from Germany. This exceeds by a considerable amount the payments which the reich would had to have made under the Young plan for the next three years, when it is recalled that a large portion of reparations is in the form of deliveries in kind.

The only bright spot seems to be the Rhineland chemical industry, which, although it is crying for credits and loans, is still doing comparatively better than most other lines in Germany. The big Darmstadt chemical works are working with only slightly reduced forces and other plants along the river to Cologne are keeping their heads above water.

BRITISH CREDITS TO SOVIETS STIR ANGER OF TORIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 22.—The house of commons settled down tonight to an acrimonious debate over the government's scheme to extend further export credits to the soviets. At the same hour an official report was issued showing that while Great Britain was taking great credit risks in promoting trade with Russia, the United States was grabbing the cash business.

H. Dalton, parliamentary under secretary of the foreign office, admitted that Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson was going to see the soviet ambassador tomorrow to learn why the bolsheviks have not stepped livelier in coming to a settlement over $900,000,000 in British claims.

British imports of Russian goods reached a value of $119,000,000 in 1930. While American exports to Russia totaled $140,000,000. Sir P. Cunliffe-Lister, who criticized the government for granting $12,500,000 in credits to Russia during the first six months of this year, said: "The exports credits department is quickly becoming a branch bank for Russian trade." He charged the Russians were buying sugar from Great Britain under the credit scheme and selling it for cash to central Europe. Tom Johnston, lord privy seal, concluded with the assertion that Russian orders were being made at the rate of $500,000 daily, and that arrangements had just been made for $30,000,000 worth of machinery.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO.

Taylorville, Ill., July 22.—[Special.]—Walter Sloan, 17 month old son of L. J. Sloan, was perhaps fatally injured here today when he climbed onto a running board of a parked car across the street. When the car was driven away the boy was thrown to the pavement.

INSISTS AUSTRIA RETAINS LIBERTY IN CUSTOMS DEAL

THE HAGUE, Holland, July 22.—(AP)—From Plato, Woodrow Wilson and Karl Marx, Dr. Erich Kaufmann today drew precepts before the permanent court of international justice in his arguments on behalf of the projected Austro-German customs union. His manner was one of dogged, stolid exposition as he sought to prove that the customs agreement would in no wise violate Austria's independence as safeguarded by the league of nations under the various post-war treaties.

"There is nothing in those treaties," he said, "which justifies an interpretation which would amount to creating an Austrian protectorate to the point of annihilation."

In the post-war negotiations, he said, it was decided only that Germany should recognize Austrian independence, and no rigid restrictions were placed on intercourse between the two nations.

GERMANY ISSUES $143,000,000 IN SILVER CURRENCY

Measure Aimed to Relieve Shortage of Money.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 22.—The German reichsbank today sought to alleviate the shortage of currency by issuing $143,000,000 worth of silver coins. This action was taken under the recent emergency decree allowing the bank to mint $7.50 worth of silver coins per capita instead of $4.80, as previously. It is expected that this measure will almost double the amount of small change in circulation.

The government in another decree, aimed at placing all bank notes issued in Germany on the same gold coverage basis, authorized the four private banks of issue in Stuttgart, Munich, Dresden, and Karlsruhe to lower their gold coverage from 40 per cent to 33 per cent to conform with the gold coverage of the reichsbank.

Aimed to Give States Money.

Experts point out that this is merely a technical equalization, but some circles believe the measure was taken to permit Wuerttemburg, Bavaria, Baden, and Saxony to draw on this additional money in case the federal government is unable to remit to the states their monthly share of the national taxes.

Cabinet ministers from the state of Baden visited Berlin to request the federal authorities to grant towns in their state an advance on the money due this month, because they are on the verge of financial collapse, with no reserves to pay their local officials.

The ministers of finance of all the other German states held a long conference with Vice Chancellor Dietrich, who told them the regular remittance could not be made at the end of the month because there was not enough money in the national coffers. Dietrich promised, however, that after the federal salaries had been paid, the government would remit to the states the balance left in the national treasury.

Farmers Boost Prices.

A big traffic company in Berlin today cut the wages of its employes 10 per cent. Numerous companies announced that they will have to close down because they are not selling any goods.

The population is incensed by the energy with which the police are making use of the powers granted them under the emergency decrees. The Frankfort police today raided numerous houses of private citizens on the strength of anonymous information that the owners of the houses were hoarding foreign currency. None was found.

How traffic has been paralyzed by the decree imposing a $23 tax on all persons leaving the country may be seen by the fact three coaches on a train from Berlin to Vienna today had a total of four passengers, only one of whom was a German. Airplanes leaving Germany carried only one or two foreigners.

The communists announced tonight that they will join with the Fascists and Nationalists in their plan for a referendum on Aug. 9 to overthrow the Republican parties in power in Prussia. The Nationalists announced that they prefer to make common cause with the Reds rather than continue under present conditions.

AUSTRIAN BANK RATE IS BOOSTED 2½% TO MEET FINANCE CRISIS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, July 22.—The Austrian national bank rate today was raised from 7½ to 10 per cent because of the disturbed condition of the international finance markets. It was hinted that the action would be reconsidered if an agreement should be reached in London to help Germany.

The quotation of the Hungarian Pengo also was canceled in today's clearing house traffic. The Hungarian government announced the continuance until July 30 of the restriction of bank payments and exchange traffic, adopted last Friday, when the three day "financial holiday" first proclaimed to cope with the situation caused by Hungary's failure to obtain a $25,000,000 loan expired tonight. It is understood that the Hungarian Parliament, instead of adjoining tomorrow, will be kept in session until the country's financial crisis is over.

However necessary the present restrictions may be, they are having highly unfavorable effects on Hungarian trade. Wheat prices dropped 10 cents per 100 kilos yesterday. Farmers must bring their harvest to market soon but at the moment, because of the lack of cash, no buyers are in sight.

Killer Blames Victim's Insult for Shooting

Pasquale Mottollo, 55 years old, 569 Gilpin place, who was arrested by the Woodlawn police after he had shot and killed Samuel Messina, 60 years old, who lived at the same address, told the Maxwell street police yesterday that he had killed Mottollo because the latter had "called him a name."

SWINDLER KEEPS OUT OF PRISON; INQUIRY BEGUN

Assistant State's Attorney A. C. DeWitt began an investigation yesterday to learn why Frank J. Dore, convicted of a confidence game in 1929, whose sentence was confirmed fourteen months ago by the Illinois Supreme court, has not been sent to Joliet to start his one to ten year term. He said that Dore's $7,500 supersedeas bond was subject to forfeiture.

In June, 1929, a jury found Dore guilty of passing $9,000 worth of bad checks on the Garfield State bank. He appealed and on March 5, 1930, the Supreme court affirmed the conviction, Dore being on bond at the time. From that point the records in the state's attorney's and sheriff's office are blank.

Reports at the Criminal court yesterday were that Dore is now operating a hand book somewhere in Chicago.

Mr. DeWitt said he would ask for the forfeiture of Dore's bond this morning and the sheriff's office promised to try to apprehend him.

CERMAK TELLS NEW YORK CITY HE'S FOR LEWIS

Shows No Liking for the Roosevelt Boom.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago stepped into town today and told New York that they had "the squanderbund and crime on the go" in his city. The mayor arrived on a New York Central special along with 150 other fight fans from the middle-western metropolis to attend the Sharkey-Walker bout.

The mayor was spinning around from place to place like a top from the moment he arrived and the rest of the party circulated through Hotel Pennsylvania like running ice water. Sam Taylor, Mayor Cermak's colonel aide de camp, took charge of all pomp and ceremony and arranged the executive's reception chamber with the art and finesse of a graduate interior decorator. When seen by the press, Sam was eating pork chops in the midst of the splendor.

Mayor Talks Finances.

Mayor Cermak gave his only interview of the day as he was alighting from his Pullman. He discussed the financial situation in Chicago, declared "conditions are getting a little better," told how his administration was meeting the situation by trimming expenses in all departments and advised his greeters that "Chicago is far from broke."

"I am glad to report," said the mayor, "that in the month of June there was less crime in Chicago than in any similar period in the last ten years."

Mayor Cermak declined to discuss Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's chances for the presidency, pointing out that his administration had a favorite son, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis. He expressed confidence, however, that Illinois would go Democratic in 1932.

Wants a Wet Plank.

Mayor Cermak favors a wringing wet plank in next year's Democratic national platform and a candidate for President who will tie in with such a platform declaration.

"A straddle on the prohibition issue," said the Chicago mayor, "simply will not do. There must be a fortright repeal plank."

The Cermak proposal does not coincide with some followers of Gov. Roosevelt's political fortunes and foreshadows a lively fight in next year's Democratic national convention.

"We will present Senator James Hamilton Lewis' name to the convention," said the mayor, "and will give him our support, but what the convention will do I am not in a position to say."

Mayor Cermak said there was considerable sentiment in Illinois for Gov. Roosevelt. He smiled when it was called to his attention that Senator Lewis was reported considering a nomination for second place on the Roosevelt ticket. Senator Lewis without a week visited Gov. Roosevelt at Albany.

Samuel Represents.

The mayor's many friends here kept him engaged during the afternoon and early evening, but Sam, the ebony greeter, kept open house on the 17th floor of the hotel and ably represented his absent chief.

"Now, the boss," said Sam, "might be most anywheres, and regarding his present whereabouts I am even less advised than you folks. I'm looking after matters and doing the arrangements."

"No, suh," said Sam, "the boss isn't about. You just take my card and tell his excellency the message is in thoroughly reliable hands which will see to it that the boss gets it."

Assuming Sam explained that he had been with Mr. Cermak "going on four years," or ever since "I assisted with the sanitary board and Mr. Tim Crowe, I used to accompany down here."

He Arranges Things.

Throughout the conversation Mr. Taylor with true efficiency was directing the arrangement of furniture in the reception room. He directed through the reflection of a large, gold framed mirror, thus obviating the necessity of turning his head from the plate of pork chops.

"Just set that table in the corner with the end of it like I was standing behind it with my head under that beam," advised Sam, with masterful clarity. "Drag them chairs back against the wall, I want lots of room in the middle."

The furniture arranged to his satisfaction, the master of ceremonies turned to current events.

"No, suh," he said, rolling an after luncheon cigar in his mouth, "Mr. Gary couldn't come. He had a lot of meeting to do in Chicago. He sure is a hustler. Why, Mr. Gaw is getting more publicity back home than the boss.

"How about New York. It is a good enough town, but the rents are too exorbitant. I have been here lots of times before and things are always high. Times ain't like they was. There ain't no money flowing like the money used to flow."

Tomorrow Chicago's mayor will call on New York's mayor, James J. Walker, or the "little guy," as he is referred to by Sam. Then the party will head homeward Friday afternoon.

MOVIE STARS MARRIED IN ARIZONA

MRS. STUART ERWIN (JUNE COLLYER).

Brothers Witnesses

Yuma, Ariz., July 22.—(AP)—Stuart Erwin, 28, and June Collyer, both featured moving picture actors, were married here today by Superior Judge Henry Kelly.

The only witnesses were Richard and Clayton Heermance, brothers of the bride. In applying for the license Miss Collyer gave her real name, Dorothea Heermance.

FRENCH RAILWAY STATION BOMBED; IT'S A MISTAKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REIMS, France, July 22.—At 10:30 last night a switchman at the little town of Challerange, near here, was standing on the station platform talking to an assistant when he heard a sound that was only too familiar in this region during the war—the sinister drone of an airplane motor.

The sound was muffled by the heavy storm clouds which were hanging over the town, but the plane seemed to be circling as if it was looking for something.

"Mon Dieu, I know what that sounds like," the switchman remarked—at least that is what he said he remarked, when being interviewed by correspondents this morning. "You would think the Boches were coming over again. May be we ought to turn out the lights."

Bombs His Roof.

Just then there was a shrill whistle, and something crashed through the roof of the station, exploding with a blast that knocked both the men off their feet. A large smoking shell hole appeared in the concrete platform just in front of the station master's office.

"It was a bomb, run for the cellar" the switchman cried. They just had time. A couple of seconds later a second bomb exploded in the middle of the tracks, and then two more, one in the court of the station and the other through the roof of the engine house.

By this time the whole of the village was awake and panic stricken, thinking that war had broken out again. The local gendarmerie rallied to the defense of the public, and cautious investigation disclosed that four small bombs, each carrying several pounds of high explosive, had been dropped on the station.

The military authorities here were on the point of calling on Paris to declare a general mobilization when it was learned that the 22d air regiment was encamped at Chalons and engaged in bombing maneuvers.

Was Target Practice.

The captain of the regiment explained to the gendarmes this morning that one of his planes, which had been scheduled to bomb an empty hut in a field near the encampment, had become lost in the storm and mistook the station of Challerange for his objective. He added that the series of maneuvers which have been going on all over France since Marshal Petain took charge of the aerial defense, have been unsatisfactory because the airmen were using dud bombs, and it was decided to use real ones. According to the local paper, which has Socialistic leanings, Capt. Villetard de Laguerie apologized to the Challerange authorities for the unintentional bombing and expressed regret at the damage. However, he said he was even more disappointed at the failure of the bombs, which were of a new secret type, to live up to expectations by destroying the station.

The local population was greatly aroused, particularly since a crowded passenger train had pulled out of the station only ten minutes before the bombs had hit the spot. The names of the four overly enthusiastic flyers are being withheld from the civil authorities.

"SEA SERPENT" TURNS OUT TO BE PYTHON; STILL MINUS HOME

Sandusky, O., July 22.—[Special.]—Lake Erie's "sea serpent," captured last night, turned out to be a python. But where it came from and how it came to be swimming about in Lake Erie remains a mystery.

The skeptical call on the two Cincinnati men to explain how they caught the python off Sandusky bay last night and why they call it "Molly."

Clifford Wilson and Francis Bagenstose, said they were the Cincinnatians fishing from a boat in Sandusky bay when Molly wriggled alongside. Wilson said he whacked her over the head with an oar while Bagenstose pulled her into the boat. They speedily rowed ashore, put her in a box and nailed down the lid.

Dr. Harold L. Madison of Cleveland says Molly is a healthy 18-foot specimen of "Python Moluius," commonly called Indian python. He said these snakes are not poisonous, become very tame and even affectionate and often are exhibited in carnivals.

No carnival troupe in Ohio has reported any missing serpents, so far as can be learned.

A python got loose in a mail car en route to Chicago some time ago. As a matter of fact the baggageman thought there might have been two.

FOREST FIRES IN WYOMING PERIL DUDE RANCHERS

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 22.—(AP)—High winds today scattered three forest fires over more than 40,000 acres in Wyoming and several dude ranches were threatened as 1,000 tourists, forest rangers and ranch hands fought desperately to halt the flames.

The fires spread so rapidly in the extremely dry forests that much game was believed to have perished. Officials were investigating reports that a pyromaniac had started eight fires in the Teton National forest and near Lander.

The most disastrous fire was in Yellowstone National park where 25,000 acres on Basin creek were burned over. Dude ranches were threatened by a fire on Jockey's fork, a stream near Dubois in the center of one of the states favored scenic sections.

Four thousand acres were burned on Jockey's fork and on Whiskey mountain and forest officials described it as the worst fire ever to occur in that region. Most of the damage was done in the Washakie National forest.

In the Teton National forest a fire burning for two weeks was still out of control with between 7,000 and 8,000 acres burned over.

RECTOR FATHER OF HER SON, GIRL AVERS IN COURT

Camden, N. J., July 22.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. Camille Estornelle of this city who, is suing his wife for divorce on the ground of desertion, today heard a 23 year old girl testify that he was the father of her son.

The girl mother is Miss Anna McKenna. She testified that she had many meetings with Dr. Estornelle in the rectory and when she informed him of her condition he induced her to sign a paper releasing him from responsibility.

Among those present, she said, when she signed was Dr. Robert S. Gammon of Camden, who attended her. Dr. Gammon, also a witness, told of conversations he said he had with Dr. Estornelle who, the physician testified, did not deny the girl's statements.

Mrs. Estornelle testified she was slapped in the mouth by her husband during a quarrel over women.

A number of witnesses testified to alleged actions of Dr. Estornelle toward women. The Rev. Dr. A. L. Jones testified that a Camden woman sat on Dr. Estornelle's lap. He also said Dr. Estornelle served gin in ginger ale in his rectory and told improper stories.

Two young women witnesses testified that Dr. Estornelle had kissed them.

Three Holdup Men Confess Slaying Ice Cream Seller

Three young bandits yesterday confessed they murdered Oscar Erickson, 33 years old, 340 West 116th street, an ice cream seller, during an attempted robbery on June 4. They confessed to Capt. Michael Grady of Kensington police and later repeated their statements in the presence of Mrs. Mathilde Erickson, mother of the dead man. The robbers are Joseph Bielecki, 18 years old, 1501 2d avenue, Phoenix; Stanley Sroka, 17, of 640 East 155th place, Phoenix; and Edward Smith, 20, of 326 East 147th street, Harvey. The three were captured late Tuesday in Harvey.

"Chicago is a bum town," orated William Pope, minor west side hoodlum, to a crowd at Halsted and Harrison streets early yesterday. "Every time a dog barks the police pick you up." "Not a bad idea," mused Sergt. Patrick McShane of the detective bureau, who was passing. "Come, William." Pope had been released on Tuesday after questioning in connection with a bank robbery. Sergt. McShane decided to hold him for the evening showup before victims of miscellaneous crimes.

LINDY AND WIFE BEGIN FLIGHT TO ASIA NEXT WEEK

Route to Tokio Mapped; Rest Uncertain.

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh announced tonight that he and Mrs. Lindbergh expect to start on their long projected flight to China and Japan some time next week.

"I do not know what day," the colonel said. "One or two instruments must be put in the ship and then we will be ready."

Leaving here, they will fly first to Washington to complete arrangements for papers for themselves and the plane to clear through the various countries they are to visit and then will hop back for a possible overnight stay here.

Starting Day Uncertain.

No set time for arrival or departure in any of the places they plan to stop has been made, and they do not know when they will start back.

Since first discussing the trip, both Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh have qualified as wireless operators. Their plane, a Lockheed Sirius low wing monoplane, carries two sets, each with transmitters and receivers, as well as camping equipment, provisions, and water for two months.

LINDBERGHS' AIR ROUTE

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's route to Tokio, via Point Barrow in the arctic circle will cover nearly 7,000 miles computed by rough draft maps on an air line. This is almost half the distance flown by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in their recent trip around the world.

The first hop from New York to Ottawa is some 550 miles over well-established airways, and thence to Moose Factory in the lower southwest corner of James bay is about 480 miles.

The colonel and his wife will then enter the wilderness of northwest territory of Canada, but their route is peppered with outposts of the Royal Canadian Mounted police. From Moose Factory it is approximately 750 miles to Churchill along the shore line of Hudson bay.

Fly Over Canadian Lakes.

From Churchill the flying pair will enter the Canadian "big lake" region, turning northward to Baker lake, which is some 390 miles from Churchill.

Next comes the longest jump of the projected flight, northwestward across the arctic circle and within easy reach of Great Bear lake or the Beaufort sea, according to which the colonel favors. If he chooses to cross Great Bear lake his flight to Aklavik will be slightly over 1,100 miles. Aklavik is a river town near the junction of the Husky and Moose rivers, which empty in Mackenzie bay, an arm of Beaufort sea.

Thence the route lies across the northern coast of Alaska, 550 miles to Point Barrow and a similar jump to Nome on the western tip of that American possession.

Nome to Siberia.

Probably the most dangerous flight of the trip lies 900 miles ahead from Nome to Karaginsk, Siberia, which may be flown along the Siberian coast line or straight over water, according to choice. Regardless of which way the colonel goes, he is almost certain to encounter dangerous fogs or adverse winds.

From Karaginsk to Petropavlosk, both of which are in Russian territory and on the eastern coast of Kamchatka peninsula, it is 370 miles. Thence the flight will lead along the Kurile islands of Japan to the northmost large island of the oriental group, the Nemuro. It is approximately 650 miles from Petropavlosk to Nemuro, Japan. Along the eastern edge of the Japanese island to Tokio is the last hop, and it is 470 miles long.

3 BANDITS ROB 2 VICTIMS.

Three robbers in a touring car committed two holdups early yesterday. At South Ogden and Damen avenues they took $250 from William Blume, 1301 South Lawndale avenue, and at South Loomis and West Jackson boulevard they took $50 from Samuel Guarino, 520 North Curtis street.

SHATTER HOPES OF POLICE FOR BURKE REWARD

Killer's Captors Get Only a Vacation.

Four Missouri policemen who had rosy visions of the things they would do with the rich reward to be paid for the capture of Fred Burke, notorious killer, heard the knell of their hopes yesterday. The policemen who were members of a party which went from St. Joseph, Mo., last March and captured Burke while he slept in the farmhouse of his father-in-law near Milan, Mo., had expected to share in rewards near the $100,000 mark.

FRED BURKE. [A. P. Photo.]

But yesterday the board of commissioners at St. Joseph, Mo., gave the policemen—Capt. John Lard and Detectives Melvin Swepston, A. W. Thedinga and E. R. Kelly—two weeks' vacation with pay, so that their efforts in the arrest of the desperado, who is now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Marquette, Mich., for the murder of a policeman, would not be entirely unrewarded. They were told they could hope for no further payment.

Identified in Massacre.

It was the St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago in 1929 that first put a big price on Burke's head. After the seven Moran gangsters had been killed by a machine gun gang in a North Clark street garage, pictures of Burke were identified as those of one of the killers. Chicago and Cook county shortly offered rewards totaling $40,000 for the arrest and conviction of the murderers.

Then came reports from all over the country to the effect that Burke had been identified as a bank robber, postoffice robber, train robber, and murderer, and more rewards were offered.

The desperado, manwhile, was living quietly in a bungalow near St. Joseph, Mich., under the name of Fred Dane, unnoticed by the police until Policeman Charles Skelly of St. Joseph tried to arrest him in December, 1929, after the gunman's auto had collided with another. Burke shot the policeman dead in the street and sped away.

Gets Life Sentence.

But Burke kept out of sight until last March when the Missouri policemen arrested him. He was hurried to St. Joseph, Mich., where he pleaded guilty to the murder of Policeman Skelly and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

His captors, however, were told that they were too late to collect the $1,000 reward in St. Joseph, that the offer had expired on Dec. 31, 1930, and had not been revived.

In Chicago Coroner Bundesen asserted that inasmuch as Burke had not been convicted of the crime of which he was accused here, Chicago could not pay any reward.

FOUND DEAD FROM GAS.

Everett Walters, 44 years old, 2033 West 21st street, was found dead in bed by his mother yesterday. The door and windows were closed and the gas jet had been ripped from the wall. Police said they believed he had committed suicide.

PREDICTS 100,000 CANADIANS FACE HUNGRY WINTER

MONTREAL, Que., July 22.—(AP)—Howard McConnell, provincial treasurer and minister of municipal affairs for Saskatchewan, today predicted that 100,000 persons would have to be fed by the provincial and federal governments next winter.

"The drought has been so bad," he said, "that even potatoes have not grown in some sections of the province. That is why we will have to feed so many people throughout the winter. It is without a doubt the most severe rainless spell the west has had since the beginning of the century."

$2,824,268 PAID TO DEPOSITORS IN 10 CLOSED BANKS

State Auditor Reports on 30 Receiverships.

Depositors in ten of the thirty Cook county state banks placed in receivership since November, 1929, with total deposits of $35,926,706, have received $2,824,268 in dividends paid by receivers, according to a report made yesterday by State Auditor Oscar Nelson on the present status of the banks' affairs. At the date of closing the thirty banks had total resources of $49,389,815.

AUDITOR NELSON. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Thus far twenty of the banks, sixteen of which were closed this year, have paid nothing on the depositors' accounts

$154,909 Paid to Receivers.

The report also discloses that receivers for the thirty banks thus far have been paid a total of $154,909 for their services, while attorneys have received $179,595 in fees. The report does not cover receivers' salaries in the cases of eight banks, nor of attorneys' fees in twenty of the banks. These are yet to come.

The state auditor has been paid $44,534 for expenses incurred in the closing of the banks. This amount has been paid into the state treasury.

So far the receivers for the thirty banks have collected a grand total of $10,938,413 from the assets of the closed banks, and they have disbursed $7,609,068. Under the heading of disbursements in Mr. Nelson's report are included the payments mentioned above and in addition expenditures for clerks' hire, accounts payable, such as rent, light, telephone; preferred claims, and common depositor claims.

Dividends of Ten Banks.

The table below shows the ten banks which have paid dividends to depositors. The percentages of the dividends are also shown.

Bank—	Common claims paid.	Per cent— age.
Citizens Trust and Savings	$ 291,218	30
City State	703,922	27
Crawford State Savings	14,576	20
Exchange State of Chicago	95,679	20
Cosmo Trust and Savings	21,720	100
Lake View State	1,122,574	20
Millard State	214,087	30
Peoples State of Maywood	90,327	20
Progressive State	170,341	30
West Central State	125,923	25
Total	$2,824,268

The largest amount paid to a receiver was $40,000 granted Abel Davis in the case of the City State bank, which, when it closed, had deposits of $3,718,478. Ray Massen, attorney for the receiver, received $45,000—the largest amount paid to any of the attorneys to date. This bank has paid a $703,922 dividend to depositors—27 per cent.

$25,000 to Chicago Trust Company.

The Chicago Trust company received the second largest amount as receiver for the Citizens Trust and Savings bank—$25,000. Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, attorneys for the Progressive State bank, received the second largest fee—$20,000.

In the case of the Lake View State bank, which has paid a $1,122,574 depositors' dividend—20 per cent—neither the receiver's salary nor the attorneys' fees are given. There is a $47,656 item for clerks' hire.

Including the thirty institutions covered in Mr. Nelson's report, there are sixty-two state banks in the Chicago district which are in the auditor's hands. Of these fifty-one are in receivership, while there are eleven banks for which receivers are yet to be appointed. Most of the twenty-one banks in receivership which were not included in yesterday's report were closed too recently to have had analyses made. Reports to the public are to be made later, Mr. Nelson said.

Three More Receivers Named.

The auditor yesterday named receivers for the Diversey Trust and Savings bank, 1166 Diversey parkway; the Mid-West State bank, 5937 Roosevelt road, and the Twelfth Street State bank, Berwyn.

Glen C. Hodges, formerly a state bank auditor, is receiver for the Diversey Trust, and Barrett, Barrett & Wermuth were named as attorneys. The bank when it closed on June 13 had resources of $1,193,554 and deposits of $904,852.

Arthur A. R. Nelson, cashier of the Berwyn Trust and Savings bank, is to act as receiver for the Mid-West State bank, while Floyd M. Kenlay is attorney. The bank when it closed on June 19 had resources of $222,932 and deposits of $104,373. Mr. Nelson and Mr. Kenlay were also appointed receiver and attorney, respectively, for the Twelfth Street bank which closed on June 29 with resources of $385,886 and deposits of $249,999.

Bank Receivership Collections Shown

The following table, forming a part of State Auditor Oscar Nelson's report on thirty state banks now in receivership, shows the total resources of the banks at date of closing, their deposits, the amounts collected so far by their respective receivers and the amounts disbursed by the receivers. The disbursements include auditor's expenses, receivers' and attorneys' salaries and fees, rent, light, telephone, clerks' hire, preferred payments, payments to depositors, etc.:

BALLOON SENDS RADIO BROADCAST FROM 10 MILES UP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 22.—(AP)—The first radio broadcast from the stratosphere was heard this morning when a small balloon, with automatic registration instruments and vest pocket radio sending apparatus attached, told members of the Graf Zeppelin crew it had reached an altitude of 50,000 feet.

The balloon, eight feet in diameter, was being tested on the dirigible's last trial flight before its arctic expedition, in which similar balloons will be employed for gathering meteorological data. The test balloon signaled additional facts about the humidity, temperature, and air pressure.

Forty-six men who will go into the arctic on the Graf Zeppelin's cruise starting next Friday were in the big ship today during a three hour test flight over Lake Constance. They wore the heavy clothing they will need in the north and the scientists who are participating rehearsed the important rôles they will play.

More Quit U. S. for Ireland than Leave for America

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 22.—Only 476 persons left the Irish Free State for America during the first six months of this year, as compared to 8,461 during the corresponding period of last year. During the same period this year 1,080 persons returned to the Irish Free State from the United States, according to government statistics issued today. The fall in the free state's emigration figures is attributed to unemployment in America.

16,000 AUTOS GET TESTS IN SAFETY LANES IN 3 DAYS

More than 16,000 automobiles passed through the seven safety lanes in Chicago during the first three days of this week, according to reports compiled last night by the Chicago safety council, joint sponsors of the motor vehicle inspection with the city council traffic committee.

Most of the police and fire vehicles of the city were inspected at the safety lanes yesterday. The remainder of the city cars and trucks are scheduled to go through the lanes today.

POLICE DECLARE WAR ON S. SIDE BEACH HOODLUMS

Midnight Din Must Stop, Says Captain.

Hoodlums, who for the last month have been cavorting at all hours of the night about the street and beaches between 71st and 74th streets, disturbing the sleep of nearby residents, were given final notice last night that further disturbance would not be tolerated. The order came directly from Capt. Patrick McCauley of the Grand Crossing police station.

"I'll put a stop to that immediately," Capt. McCauley said. "I had a few complaints from residents in that locality a short time ago and I thought the situation had been remedied, but if it hasn't, it will be, starting right now."

Details Beach Guard.

He then detailed four men, including a sergeant and a squad car, to patrol the district with orders to chase all bathers off the beaches at 10 p. m.

Judge John J. Lupe, who presides over the Grand Crossing court, backed up Capt. McCauley by saying that any offender brought before him would be charged with disorderly conduct and fined from $1 to $200.

Capt. McCauley and Judge Lupe were moved to take action when W. S. Farrant, 2666 East 73d street, appealed to them as chairman of a delegation of fellow neighbors.

Writes for Relief.

In a letter stating their grievances, Mr. Farrant wrote:

"Thousands of people swarm all over these shores right under the windows of the homes of families who must retire at a certain hour and get up at a certain hour every day. They come at all hours of the day and night. Their yelling and hoodlum antics make sleep an utter impossibility. Between 11 p. m. and 2 a. m. the din is simply appalling."

Crazed Man Stabs Priest with a Butcher Knife

A demented man, Michael Serocki, 30 years old, 3138 Wall street, yesterday attacked Msgr. Thomas B. Bona, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, 32d and Morgan streets, as the priest was marching out of the church in the procession following mass. He inflicted a slight wound in Father Bona's throat with a butcher knife. Serocki was taken to the Psychopathic hospital.

FOUND DEAD IN HOME.

M. W. Dean, 60 years old, was found dead yesterday by police who were forced to break down the door of the two room house at 844 Rose avenue, Des Plaines, where he lived alone.

THREE SEEK MONEY FOR STOLEN RACING BET, AND GET CELLS

The temptation to cash a stolen $157 mutuel race ticket proved too strong for a pickpocket, and the move landed three men in a cell at the detective bureau yesterday.

A. Carmichael of the Western hotel, 544 South State street, bought the ticket on Saturday, betting on Fair Beth, which ran second in the last race at Arlington. He left the track before the race was run, having placed the ticket in his wallet, which also contained $200 in bills. When he heard the result he reached gloatingly for the wallet, but his pocket was empty.

Carmichael notified the detective bureau, which in turn called the track authorities. They examined the winning tickets, found that one had not been cashed, and stationed detectives at the pay windows.

Yesterday morning a man appeared, presented the ticket, and was immediately arrested. He said he was Samuel Fine, 1501 Roosevelt road. His two companions were also arrested. They said they were Ben Berger and John Burke.

Unhappily for them, these names had long records as pickpockets in the files of the detective bureau. There, too, Fine was identified as David Levine, who served four years in London for burglary, going to prison in 1902; three years in Antwerp, Belgium, for robbery, being sentenced in 1912, and a stretch in Detroit several years later for burglary.

One Dead as Police Fire on Rioters in Bulgaria

VIENNA, Austria, July 22.—(AP)—One man was killed in a battle with police at Yamboli, Bulgaria, in communist riots which reports received here said flared in several places in Bulgaria today. Shots were fired by the police at Varna, Bulgaria, and 200 communists were arrested at Sofia, the dispatches said.

EMMERSON CHINS WITH GLENN; '32 ALLIANCE IS SEEN

Explode Rumor Governor Seeks Senatorship.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

"No politics" was the sign hung on the hotel doorknob yesterday by Gov. Emmerson, but despite the notice the tongues of the politicians kept up the habit of wagging politically. The governor had a walk with Senator Glenn.

[Fellows Photo.]

Afterwards the governor made brief comment—"no politics was involved." Political circles, however, buzzed a bit with conjectures that it meant the possible establishment of an entente cordiale for the 1932 compaign between the governor and the senator. However this may, the effect was to start apparently a rumor that the governor might run for senator. This was put on the shelf at Springfield some months ago, but as a hot mother dish it was taken out of the oven a few days ago by the politicians.

Glenn Appears Unopposed.

As for the senatorship has been given scant mention in the political talk, this for the simple reason that Senator Glenn appears to have no opponent out in the open. As in a friendly feeling between the governor and senator, the Republican chiefs point out that both are Egyptians, Glenn coming from Murphysboro, which is not far from Emmerson's home town of Mount Vernon.

Emmerson as a dry vetoed the repeal of the state prohibition law. Glenn as a liberal has voted with the wets in congress. Both have made speeches extolling the Hoover administration. Senator Glenn spent the last week-end with President Hoover at the Rapidan camp, but—"no politics was talked." Former Senator Charles S. Deneen is reported friendly towards Senator Glenn, while during the last campaign Glenn was active on the platform for Ruth Hanna McCormick against James Hamilton Lewis.

Expected to Be Neutral.

Friends of the senator maintain the facts indicate that Glenn will have no active opposition at the Republican primaries, and that with friends in two or three of the factional camps his attitude will be to keep out of the contest over state office nominations in April.

Meanwhile the Republican machems appear to be doing a lot of guessing over what Mrs. McCormick is going to do in the campaign. She is sitting tight, from all indications, and is letting them do all the worrying.

On Saturday Mrs. McCormick is giving a party at her farm at Byron for the editors and publishers of all newspapers published in the new 15th congressional district. This district, which embraces nine counties in the northwestern part of the state, is rated the greatest outside of the metropolitan area. The newspaper party is to be strictly nonpartisan, although there are only a few Democratic papers in the area, and it is aimed to establish a district editorial association, of nonpartisan type.

Gov. Emmerson today is to dedicate the new Joe Page bridge across the Illinois river at Hardin. The bridge, the largest state bridge in Illinois, was named after the veteran Democrat editor of Jerseyville by joint resolution of the legislature. It opens up Calhoun county, a great apple county, a narrow strip lying between the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, which has no railroad.

During the day the governor had a talk with Joseph K. Brittain and other members of the revenue commission. "They seem to be digging up some highly important material on revenue," commented the governor. "But there'll be no announcement about a special session until they reach some sort of conclusions and a definite program is prepared. Meanwhile there's no politics. The fishing season is no time for politics, anyhow."

Digs Into Revenue Questions.

Senator Adelbert H. Roberts, who was appointed by Lieut. Gov. Sterling as the one Chicago senator on the new state commission on taxation and expenditures, also is digging into revenue questions. A meeting was held at Springfield a few days ago. Senator Martin Carlson of Moline may be chairman.

The commission, which is to report not later than Jan. 15, 1933, is empowered to investigate everything having to do with state and local debt, taxation and public administration and finance. It has an appropriation of $25,000.

Captures Thieves

MISS ALICE M'CARTHY.

Miss Alice McCarthy, south park policewoman, caught two young automobile thieves yesterday and forced them to drive to a police station at the point of a revolver.

She saw Stanley Ulbas, 16 years old, 642 West 54th street, and Robert Ludford, 20 years old, 5248 South Peoria street, get into a parked car on the outer drive at 49th street and start the motor.

Suspecting that they were stealing the car, she took a revolver from her handbag, stepped to the running board and ordered them to drive to the Hyde Park police station. There her prisoners were locked up after it was found that the owner of the car is David Martin, 11409 Forest avenue.

FALL VISITED BY WIFE; HE'S NO. 6991 NOW

Santa Fe., N. M., July 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Albert B. Fall entered the New Mexico penitentiary today for a short visit with her husband, the former secretary of the interior, now federal prisoner No. 6991.

Tomorrow Mrs. Fall and her daughter Mrs. C. C. Chase will return to their ranch at Three Rivers, N. M.

Another daughter Mrs. Jouett Elliott will remain in Santa Fé. The visit today was one of farewell, Mrs. Fall and her daughters having accompanied the ambulance in which the ex-cabinet member was brought to the prison late Monday.

Fall, under sentence of a year and a day for acceptance of a $100,000 bribe from E. L. Doheny, wealthy oil man, was reported in good spirits.

FOUR POLICEMEN DISMISSED, ONE FOR 'GOSSIPING'

Details of a Speakeasy Battle Revealed.

Sergt. Thomas J. Mulcahy was discharged from the police department yesterday by the civil service commission on the charge, among others, of "gossiping about members of the department and making remarks about their personal character and conduct, to their detriment."

The gossip was the cause of a speakeasy brawl which resulted in the dismissal also of Patrolmen Michael J. Murtha and Lawrence J. Cleary of the Maxwell street station. It was charged that Mulcahy made some remarks about Lieut. Maurice Wall, his superior at the Deering street station, which were resented by the patrolmen.

Bites Antagonist in Ear.

"During the altercation," the charges said, "while lying on the floor, Sergt. Mulcahy bit Officer Cleary in the left ear. The fight stopped when Officer Murtha drew his revolver and shot Sergt. Mulcahy in the cheek."

In addition to gossiping, Sergt. Mulcahy was charged with neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer, and the two patrolmen were charged with neglect, unbecoming conduct and intoxication. Their dismissal, with that of Patrolman Bernard P. Kean of the Fillmore street station, raised the total of policemen ousted by the present civil service commission to twenty-eight. Kean, it was charged, detained a citizen in an unwarranted manner, while intoxicated.

Fined 20 Days' Pay.

Patrolman Alfred M. Stevenson of the Rogers Park station was fined 30 days' pay on charges of using "coarse, profane, and insolent language to a citizen" and conduct unbecoming an officer.

The complainant was Judge Philip J. Finnegan, who testified that when he found the curb in front of his home at 1055 North Shore avenue blocked by parked cars, and sought to park at a street end nearby, Stevenson forced him to accept a summons for a parking violation and called him "a smart aleck judge."

Patrolman George Schacke of the Deering street station was fined 30 days' pay for persuading the complaining witness against him in a case growing out of an automobile accident not to appear in court when the case was called.

Four Captains of Police Before Special Grand Jury

Police Captains Joseph Johnson of the detective bureau, Michael Hughes of the Deering district, and William Killeen of the major crime bureau were quizzed about their bank accounts last night by the special grand jury investigating the police department. Capt. Daniel Lynch of the Warren avenue district, who had previously been questioned, also spent a few minutes in the jury chamber. Another session will be held next Monday.

DRY OFFICIAL CHARGES N. Y. POLICE TRIED TO BALK BREWERY RAID

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Prohibition Administrator Andrew McCampbell and a high federal official said today that police interference with federal raiders on several occasions frustrated attempts to capture the $2,000,000 Phoenix brewery, which was successfully raided yesterday.

The officials further declared charges arising from alleged interference will be placed before a federal grand jury.

"There was interference by police with the actions of my agents," Mr. McCampbell said. "We raided the place last August, but they 'dumped' the beer before we got there."

Police stationed about the brewery, pretending to ascertain whether the raiders were gangsters, stopped federal agents and delayed them long enough to permit those in the brewery to destroy all evidence, Mr. McCampbell charged.

BIGAMY CHARGE FILED AGAINST WOOER OF "MA"

Longview, Wash., July 22.—(AP)—A charge of bigamy was filed by County Prosecutor Cecil C. Hollin today against G. Edward Hudson, who married Mrs. Minnie [Ma] Kennedy here June 28, and a warrant for Hudson's arrest immediately issued.

The prosecutor charged Hudson was not divorced from Mrs. L. Margaret Newton-Hudson at the time he married the mother of Aimee McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, here.

Mrs. Kennedy filed suit in Los Angeles last week, seeking annulment of her marriage to Hudson. Mrs. Newton-Hudson has filed suit for divorce, and yesterday a $250,000 breach of promise suit was filed against Hudson by Mrs. Ethel Lee Parker Harbert. She charged Hudson had refused to marry her after taking her on a prenuptial trip in 1929.

HILLIG SELLS SEA PLANE TO WOMAN; PLANS ROME HOP

Liberty, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—Otto Hillig, local photographer and trans-Atlantic flyer, late today completed negotiations for the sale of his monoplane, Liberty, which carried him and Holger Hoirlis to Denmark, to Mrs. Umberto Loffredo of Buffalo, who plans to fly it in a trans-Atlantic flight to Rome, Italy.

Hillig said he received $23,000 for the plane, which had cost him $22,000 before the flight to Denmark last month.

Hillig and Hoirlis arrived here yesterday afternoon. The town closed up shops and turned out en masse to show the world how a little place can welcome its returning heroes.

Prince Michael to Take Up Flying in Army School

VIENNA, July 22.—(AP)—Reports from Bucharest today said King Carol had ordered the minister of war to admit Crown Prince Michael to the army air school, to begin a course in aviation immediately.

U. S. BACKS DRY NAVY MEN WHO SHOT PICNICKER

But Lowman Is Sorry for Innocent Victim.

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—[Special.]—Three investigations were started today into the shooting late last night on Lake St. Clair, which endangered the lives of passengers on the excursion steamer St. Clair and resulted in the wounding of one man. The shots were fired by customs border patrol men chasing a rum laden speedboat.

SEYMOUR LOWMAN.

He said nothing could be done because "the customs men were within their rights."

One investigation, being conducted by Congressman Robert H. Clancy, seeks to determine whether the inspectors were justified in shooting. Another is being handled by Capt. Frederick J. Simpson, vice president of the Detroit and Windsor Ferry company, owner of the boat, and the third by Herbert E. Munro, assistant prosecuting attorney.

The steamer, commanded by Capt. Charles Anderson, had been chartered by the Young Men's club of the St. Hyacinth church, and carried 1,000 passengers.

Arthur Gajeski, 22 years old, was shot in the right arm below the elbow. The customs men involved are Clarence E. Fish, the operator of the boat, and Arthur Wesolowski.

AMERICA INSISTS THAT CHINA TURN OVER DR. TUCKER

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—The American government today demanded that Chinese authorities who are holding Dr. Francis F. Tucker, an American missionary, surrender him to United States officials, in accordance with provisions of the extraterritoriality treaty.

Dr. Tucker, member of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, is under arrest at Tsinanfu for fatally shooting a Chinese employé of the mission hospital at Techow whom he believed to be a burglar. Under the extraterritoriality treaty between the United States and China, Americans can be arrested by Chinese authorities, but must be turned over to this government for trial in the United States court in China.

The state department instructed American Minister Johnson at Peiping to insure a thorough investigation by competent American authorities and the handling of the case in accordance with treaty provisions relating to jurisdiction over Americans in China. The department's action was based upon a report from Johnson. Chinese authorities are said to have demanded the missionary's execution, an apology from the American minister, and the payment of an indemnity.

Chinese Tong Secretary Sentenced to U. S. Cell

Hone Wu, assistant secretary of the On Leong tong, was sentenced to 27 months in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Barnes yesterday. He was convicted of conspiracy to bribe narcotic agents.

PLANS ANOTHER EFFORT TO RAISE SHIP ROTARIAN

Another attempt to raise the old steamship Rotarian from the bottom of the river at the Clark street bridge will be made within "three or four days," Attorney Miles J. Devine, part owner of the boat, announced yesterday. He said he had given John E. Murphy, former owner of the ship, a $5,000 contract to remove it.

"Murphy is bringing in a 132 foot scow and if he doesn't get her up nobody can," Devine declared. Walter J. Powers, who, according to Devine, owns part of the boat, has not offered to help remove it, Devine said.

A $1,000 fine was assessed against Devine a few days ago for failing to remove the boat which has been sunk since last October. Powers has been summoned to appear in court today.

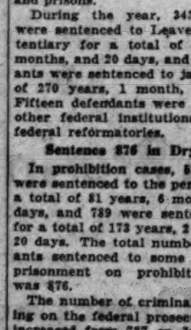
60 PCT. OF U. S. CONVICTIONS FOR RUM VIOLATIONS

Report Shows Dry Law Is Jamming Jails.

Sixty per cent of all federal law violators sentenced to imprisonment in the Chicago district during the fiscal year ended June 30 were dry law offenders, according to the annual report of United States Attorney Johnson, issued yesterday. The statistics mean that enforcement of the prohibition law has more than doubled the population of jails and prisons.



GEO. E. Q. JOHNSON.

During the year, 343 defendants were sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary for a total of 628 years, 4 months, and 20 days, and 1,059 defendants were sentenced to jail for a total of 270 years, 1 month, and 4 days. Fifteen defendants were sentenced to other federal institutions and 25 to federal reformatories.

Sentence 876 in Dry Cases.

In prohibition cases, 52 defendants were sentenced to the penitentiary for a total of 51 years, 6 months, and 25 days, and 739 were sentenced to jail for a total of 173 years, 2 months, and 20 days. The total number of defendants sentenced to some form of imprisonment on prohibition charges was 876.

The number of criminal cases pending on the federal prosecutor's docket increased from 787 on June 30, 1930, to 930 on June 30, 1931. A total of 1,801 cases were commended during the year and 1,658 were terminated. Of those concluded, 1,429 resulted in convictions, 28 in acquittals and three cases were nolle prossed or discontinued. A total of 198 cases were terminated on quashed indictments or dismissals because of duplicate indictments.

Trials by Jury Few.

There were 1,200 pleas of guilty, 39 trials by jury and 219 jury waivers. The low number of trials by jury was brought about by the Supreme court ruling that a defendant may waive a jury with the government's permission in felony as well as misdemeanor cases. A total of $414,786.03 was imposed in fines, forfeitures and penalties and a total of $123,915.22 realized.

Civil cases pending on docket at the close of the fiscal year totaled 732, as compared with 572 on June 30, 1930. This increase, as well as that in the number of criminal cases, shows that the congestion in the courts, attributed to dry law prosecutions, is increasing from year to year.

The most notable convictions obtained by Mr. Johnson during the year were those of County Assessor Gene Oliver, Jack Guzik, Capone gangster; and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, all on income tax evasion charges and Al Capone, chief public enemy, on a charge of contempt of court. In addition, pleas of guilty were entered on tax evasion charges by Al Capone, Frank Nitti, Terry Druggan, Frankie Lake, and Sam Guzik, all gangsters, and Capone also pleaded guilty on booze conspiracy charges.

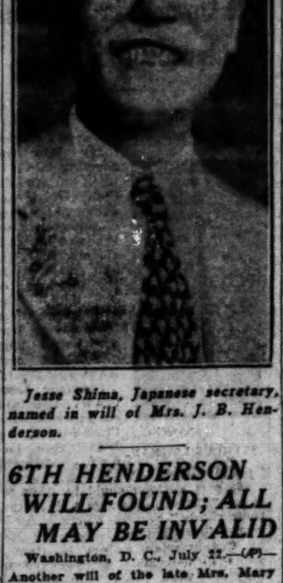
Suicide Verdict Returned in Drowning of Youth

A Lake county coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide yesterday in the death of Frank Brugman Jr., 20 years old, 1163 Park avenue, Deerfield, who while attending an early morning beach party at North beach, Waukegan, dove off a pier, refused the aid of friends, and was drowned. Miss Peggy Stephens of North Chicago told the jury that although Druggman had expected to escort her to the party, there was a misunderstanding and she took a taxi. The girl expressed doubt that Brugman drowned himself in a pique, however.

RAID STILL IN CICERO.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided a 2,500 gallon recooking alcohol still in a house at 2723 South 58th court, Cicero. Joseph Ryerson was arrested as the operator.

WILLED $200,000



Jesse Shima, Japanese secretary, named in will of Mrs. J. B. Henderson.

6TH HENDERSON WILL FOUND; ALL MAY BE INVALID

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—Another will of the late Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, wealthy senator's widow, was found today and was added to the other five filed for probate. The possibility that Beatrice Henderson Wholean, the granddaughter disinherited by Mrs. Henderson, might yet share in the family fortune was seen by attorneys.

A legal contest over the estate, estimated at between five and six million dollars, might result in invalidation of all wills executed by Mrs. Henderson, and in division of the estate under the laws of descent. The wills of the dowager's husband and son both named Mrs. Wholean as an heir of the family.

The will filed today explained that Beatrice and her husband had been denied reception in the Henderson home "for several years," because after the dowager secured a commerce department foreign post for Wholean "he resigned and returned to this country."

CHILEAN CABINET IS SWORN IN; TO BE MORE LIBERAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 22.—Headed by Francisco Garces Gana as premier, Chile's new cabinet took office today. The following statement was immediately issued:

"The fundamental program of this cabinet, in the present difficult circumstances of the country, is of ample respect to the constitution and legal regime, and for the full use of all liberties and rights within its order, the fulfillment of the strictest economies towards the salvation of the delicate present economic situation, and the maintenance of the monetary system, national production and protection."

Spanish Strike Riots Grow; Troops Use Machine Guns

SEVILLE, Spain, July 22.—(AP)—Known fatalities in the syndicalist fighting with government forces rose to seventeen today with the killing of a soldier and three civilians in the suburb of Triana.

As a result of the clashes Gen. Jose Bosies placed Seville under martial law after a conference with Gen. Ruiz Trillo, district military commander.

Troops with machine guns fired on strikers in the suburb, wounding many, in a renewed outburst of the rioting in and around Seville.

Strikers on their part fired on troops who were guarding alleged anarchist prisoners aboard a ship awaiting transportation to Cadiz for deportation to Africa. The troops returned the shots, dispersing their assailants. Some of the strikers were thought killed or wounded, but comrades recovered their bodies.

300 Persons Jailed.

Official estimates placed the arrests at 300. Because jails were packed to capacity it was necessary to improvise prisons in the old Ibero-American exposition buildings.

Two guards were patrolling the main street of Triana when snipers on housetops fired on them. The guards replied with shots, which brought a barrage of pistol fire from surrounding roofs. A machine gun squad arrived and splattered walls and windows with bullets. One of the dead was a 16 year old girl who was struck within her home.

The fighting began this morning with an unsuccessful attack on the governor's residence. Police who dispersed a group attempting to burn the telephone building were fired on, while at Puerta de Triana, where another group was resisting arrest, shooting caused a panic in a city bread line.

Reinforced troops continued to occupy Seville and all syndicalist centers were closed by order of the governor.

Cabinet Crisis Postponed.

MADRID, July 22.—(AP)—Whether the new born Republican government will fall under the assault of a "syndicalist revolution" seemed tonight to be postponed until Monday or Tuesday, when the parliament will complete its formation. Cabinet ministers met minority leaders of the assembly in a secret conference of an hour and a half.

Previously the minority leaders had blocked a motion for a vote of confidence for the government, denying the government's right to enforce Minister of War Maura's decree for suppression of syndicalist disorders without the assembly's sanction.

After the conference it was announced the assembly would be constituted Monday or Tuesday, depending on when a majority of the deputies' credentials are approved.

Zamora May Resign.

This, then, will put the assembly in a formal condition to deal with impending problems. It generally was interpreted as meaning Provisional President Zamora would resign. Foreign Minister Lerroux and Minister of War Asana were mentioned prominently in connection with the post of premier.

Maura, whose decree for the suppression of syndicalist disorders was an issue, said today he did not want the civil authorities in Seville, where fatal riots have occurred, to turn over the situation to the military for solution.

Round Up 47 in Bomb Plot.

Meanwhile police announced the arrest of 47 syndicalist leaders in a Madrid roundup, alleging they were attempting a plot against the capital. Several new bombs were found in various parts of the capital. Former Monarchist Governor Fuentes of Madrid was among those arrested.

The legal commission studying relations between the church and the state today reported to the government that church property in Spain is valued by ecclesiastical officials at 70,000,000 pesetas [about $6,500,000].

The commission recommended that religious orders be required to furnish new reports on the value of their property, as it estimated the total was larger. The commission also recommended that church orders be warned they be expelled from Spain if their reports were incorrect.

Bomb Street in Barcelona.

BARCELONA, Spain, July 22.—(AP)—A group of men armed with pistols exploded a bomb and wrecked street car tracks in Paseo De Garcia here today. The authorities ordered the closing of syndicalist centers and the arrest of the guilty persons.

IT PAYS TO PRESERVE WITH refined cane sugar

Cane sugar insures ideal results in all kinds of canning

ALL over the country you will find housewives using refined cane sugar for making their jellies, jams, and preserves. It is an acknowledged standard.

If you take advantage of the low price of sugar, also the constantly appearing bargains in fresh fruit, you can put up preserves of all kinds for your winter meals, made just the way you like them.

Canned fruit and preserves — home-made or purchased — as well as sweet relishes belong in the diet. They make meals tasty, enjoyable and economical. Jellies are fine accompaniments for meats as well as a spread for bread, and canned fruits make delicious, wholesome desserts and salads. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute,

TRIES 14 CASES IN TWO HOURS TO THIN JAIL CROWD

Some Sent to Penitentiary by Judge David.

Hustling the cases on his docket with the speed of a machine, Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court yesterday inaugurated his campaign to reduce the population of the county jail by disposing of the cases of fourteen defendants in two hours. Some went to the penitentiary, others to the House of Correction, and a few were freed.

JUDGE DAVID.

In the early morning heat a few women among the witnesses fainted in the courtroom. Through it all the judge roared his rulings above the din, shouted objections, and administered sentences in explosive bursts.

Thirty-five cases were on his call, all selected by Assistant State's Attorneys Jack Baum, George Lavin, and Albert Woll with the aid of Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach. They had expressed the jail for prisoners ready to plead guilty or waive jury trials and the cell behind the courtroom was packed with uneasy men.

The First Case Called.

The case of John Broderick, accused of failing to support his wife, Anna, was called first.

"Everywhere I get a job that woman follows me around," he complained. "I'm kept on the run."

"Support her on the run—next week," exploded the court. Reporters saw a little hazy on the meaning of the sentence, but they had no time to inquire. Broderick left the courtroom on the run.

Next came Henry Biesterfeld, charged with stealing a wrist watch from a woman. She took the stand. She was sitting on a porch with a man friend at a party, she said, when Biesterfeld robbed her.

"How do you know he is the man?" asked the judge.

"By his general appearance," she replied.

"How can you tell a man by his general appearance? Isn't there any other way you can identify him?" he was asked. There was not, the witness replied.

Prisoner Is Acquitted.

"Case dismissed, not guilty," was the ruling of the court.

"We have other witnesses," protested Mr. Lavin.

"I'm guilty," emphasized the court.

George Cartello, 24 years old, of Blue Island, succeeded Biesterfeld. He was accused of assault with intent to kill Wilbur Krueger of Blue Island in connection with a free-for-all fight at election time. Krueger was stabbed.

"Guilty?" inquired Judge David.

"I guess so," said the defendant.

"Thirty days in the House of Corrections and stay away from elections," said the judge.

"Guilty, I guess."

EXPLORER PLANS SOUTH POLE TRIP ON MOTORCYCLE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, July 22. — Maj. Tryggve Gran, Norwegian polar explorer, probably will undertake his next trip over the south polar plateau on a motorcycle.

In a few days he will go to Jostedal's glacier, in west Norway, and there will test a motorcycle to determine its feasibility for such work. The explorer says Jostedal's glacier is the same height as the south polar plateau, and he believes the difficulties encountered there will be the same as in the southern area.

Maj. Tryggve Gran is a widely known explorer and was one of the members of the Capt. Robert F. Scott expedition to the south pole nineteen years ago. He was much criticized in 1929 when he was credited in an interview with doubting that Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd had flown over the south pole. Maj. Gran denied saying this, but did comment on some of the exploits of the Byrd party.

ATTENDS CONVENTION AT 96

FIRST AUTOGIRO FLOWN IN U. S. PUT IN MUSEUM

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—A little silver, black nosed airship dropped on the lawn of the Smithsonian institution today and was trundled, amid official ceremony, into the national museum's hall of transportation.

It was the first autogiro to be flown in the United States. Only two and a half years old, it is now obsolete. It flew its last journey perfectly.

Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the institution, officially accepted the plane after James G. Ray, vice president of the Autogiro Company of America, piloted it from Willow Grove, Pa., in two hours, brought it down at Hoover field, and then flew it to the museum grounds.

"It is a very notable and deserving pioneering accomplishment of the human mind which we are met to recognize," Abbot told the spectators, including leaders in commercial and government aviation.

Fatal Stabbing by Woman Held Accident by Jury

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Edward H. Brandt, 45 years old, a switchman, was killed accidentally Tuesday when he died of knife wounds inflicted by his sister-in-law. The jury believed that the woman, Mrs. Leah Tippett, accidentally stabbed Brandt when she ran into him in the kitchen of her home, 6938 Dante avenue.

WOMAN DIES OF POISON.

Mrs. Rose Bassett, 38 years old, 1131 South Kedzie avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital of poisoning. Her husband, Leader, said he knew no reason why she should attempt to take her life, leading authorities to believe she swallowed the poison accidentally.

WOMEN PARADE BY THOUSANDS AT BENEFIT PAGEANT

Queen Is Crowned and 2 Governors Speak.

Before a huge crowd of spectators an outdoor pageant in which thousands of women and girls marched was held in Soldiers' field last night by the Woman's Benefit association. Miss Betty Lou Davis, 17 years old, of Port Huron, Mich., was crowned queen of the pageant. The association, with headquarters at Port Huron, is holding a quadrennial international convention here. The convention will continue today and tomorrow.

Guests of honor were Gov. Emmerson, Gov. and Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker of Michigan, Senator Glenn, and David E. Shanahan, speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, all of whom spoke briefly. They were introduced by Mrs. Bina West Miller, supreme president of the fraternal organization.

Two Governors Speak.

Gov. Emmerson spoke of the long history of the Woman's Benefit association, which was organized in 1892, and urged the delegates to return to Chicago for their next quadrennial convention. Gov. Brucker said the spectacle of the pageant revived the days of antiquity, with their romantic setting of kings, queens, and knights. He praised the work of Mrs. Miller as "eminently worth while."

Senator Glenn declared that the large crowd present was to him "a guarantee of the future and prosperity of America."

As Miss Davis, the queen, who is a niece of Mrs. Miller, walked slowly from the south entrance of Soldiers' field to a throne at the north end, with ladies in waiting, bowing low on either side, powerful lights operated by the Illinois National Guard played upon the procession.

The pageant opened with the march of women dressed in various colors and massed as to color. Two hundred color bearers in red, white, and blue added to the colorful effect.

The next event was the arrival in automobiles of Mrs. Miller and the governors, accompanied by twenty girls. Escorting the automobiles was the Black Horse troop.

In the third section 1,000 girls in evening gowns, carrying garlands of roses, entered from the south end of the field and proceeded to the throne, where they seated themselves as the "temple of youth." Simultaneously they were flanked on either side by masses of women in lavender, the "pioneers" of the organization, members for twenty-five years.

Mrs. Hannah Caystile, 96 years old, is the oldest delegate attending the convention. She was accompanied to Chicago by her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Pausch, 76 years old. Both are from Racine, Wis.

Not a Cotton Stocking in Iowa, Says Ex-Governor

Akron, O., July 22.—[Special.]—William L. Harding, former governor of Iowa, the center of agrarian complaints and demands for farm relief, today made this comment:

SERRITELLA GETS VENUE CHANGE IN CONSPIRACY CASE

State Senator Dan Serritella, city sealer in the former administration, was granted a change of venue when he was arraigned yesterday before Judge Philip Finnegan in the Criminal court, charged with conspiracy to cheat the taxpayers by allowing short weights. With him as a co-defendant is Harry Hochstein, his former assistant and a henchman of Morris Eller, 20th ward Republican boss.

DAN SERRITELLA.

Attorney Miles J. Devine told the court that the defendants regarded Judge Finnegan as prejudiced. The case was shifted to Judge John Prystalski, who set Monday as the day for hearing preliminary motions and for setting the trial date. Devine tried to have the case put over until September, but the judge rejected this suggestion.

Attorneys to Be Dropped.

Total savings of $37,200 through the abolishment of three jobs are contemplated in the law department. The jobs to be abolished are:

Special assistant attorney	$10,000
Special attorney in tax division	4,200

James Todd, former attorney, was elected to the position of special assistant attorney at a salary of $10,000 a year Dec. 10. William Saltiel, who was city attorney during the last administration, was appointed special assistant attorney at a salary of $50 a day on Jan. 19. Mrs. Elizabeth Fihe was appointed on March 17 as special attorney in the tax division. These three attorneys will be dropped.

In Business Department.

Total savings of $1,875,850 are to be effected in the business department, as follows:

JOBS ABOLISHED.

10 temporary clerks	$14,400
3 temporary assistant inspectors of school property	5,040
15 temporary assistant engineers for three months	40,500
2 district supervising engineers	9,240
1 business bureau inspector	6,200
3 temporary laborers	4,500

APPROPRIATIONS CUT.

Auto maintenance	$ 3,000
Fuel	65,000
Extend vacation of janitors 2 weeks	60,000
Closing of Garfield and Swing schls.	12,000
Gas and electricity	50,000
Salary budget	664,135
Elimination of repairs	136,835
Repairs on entrances	43,000
Refinishing desks	25,000
Painting	107,000

The foregoing economy measures will be acted upon by the board on Tuesday.

COUNTY HIGHWAY EMPLOYES ASSURED PAY THROUGH LOAN

Funds which will pay the salaries of the 504 employés in the county highway department for several months were assured yesterday when $300,000 was borrowed from the series V county highway fund. Security in the form of a 1931 tax anticipation warrant was furnished.

The loan was made under a new law which allows the county to use idle funds for pay rolls.

County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough yesterday declared that through a shifting of funds money to meet the county pay rolls for the first half of July, now due, might be secured within the next few days.

Alien Narcotic Dealer Sent to U. S. Prison for 5 Years

Edward Bender, former German seaman and an alien, was sentenced to five years in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Barnes yesterday on his conviction of violating the narcotics law. Narcotic agents found opium, morphine and cocaine with a retail value of $50,000 in Bender's loop hotel room. The sentence carried a provision for Bender's deportation upon his release from the penitentiary.

GOVERNOR'S QUIZ STARTS DEBATE IN SCHOOL BOARD

Hemingway Raps Inquiry and Carr Replies.

Trustee James Hemingway brought on a sharp debate at the meeting of the school board yesterday when he launched an attack on Gov. Emmerson's revenue committee and its investigation of the school board's affairs. He started by replying to information given to the revenue commission to the effect that the board has on hand a supply of glass and putty for three years. There is only enough for three months, Mr. Hemingway said.

"I do not understand what that baiting, browbeating and bulldozing committee is after," he continued. "After going after one of our officers [Business Manager Ernest Withhall] in that fashion, it was suggested to him that he resign and get salary for his full term.

He Attacks Commission.

"It is ridiculous for big business men to dip down in the garbage cans for material. Some of the members of that commission who are seeking favors or franchises from the city administration attempted to besmirch the board of education.

"Why should two members, Democratic members, of the school board go before that committee? Is that taking the schools out of politics? That committee is attempting to get control of the schools for the city administration, and they would be better employed in bolstering up the finances of their own corporations. What they are doing is a farce and a comedy. I am not going to stand for these lies any more."

Trustee Carr Makes Reply.

"I am interested in your tirade," commented Trustee Robert F. Carr, a Cermak appointee. "The chairman of the finance committee [Hemingway] will be called before the governor's commission to tell what he knows about the school board's finances."

"No reason for them to dig around in the garbage pails," retorted Hemingway.

"When we begin to talk economy at the board conferences," shot back Carr, "you put on your hat and duck."

"You didn't show up at the last meeting," rejoined Hemingway.

"The governor's commission has decided it will not ask for legislation until the local governments show satisfactory and economical results," Carr replied.

"Not a man on the committee with sufficient ideas to prepare any legislation," said Hemingway.

After more bickering Carr went on: "Mr. Withall, the business manager, a very nice man, did not know very much about his business before the governor's commission. I say that openly."

Savage Enters Debate.

Trustee Joseph P. Savage protested against what he called the giving of misinformation to the governor's commission. He said that the board has been misrepresented, that he knows as much about public offices as any member of the governor's commission, and wants an opportunity to appear before the commission.

"You will be given that opportunity," said Carr. Later the board voted to ask an opportunity to have a whole session of the governor's commission.

"You make a hullabaloo and a great political oration, but you do not come in and aid in cutting the board's expenses," Carr told Savage.

"From now on, I will not attend any star chamber sessions," replied Savage. "The discussions will be held out here in the open."

Rebuffs Miss Haley.

Miss Margaret Haley, business representative of the Chicago Teachers' federation, was rebuffed by President Lewis E. Myers when she attacked the payment of teachers in scrip. She presented an opinion by Attorneys I. T. Greenacre and Wiley W. Mills that the scrip plan is illegal.

"I do not want to waste my time listening to that," said President Myers. "In your letter you state that the members of your organization desire tax anticipation warrants in lieu of participation certificates, which you say you can sell. Will you give us the names of the members of your organization so we can see how much we owe them and what your offer means in dollars?"

School Employe Cashes Scrip; Robber Takes It All

Ray Palmer, 30 years old, an employé of the board of education, was robbed early yesterday of his automobile and $120 which he had obtained on a scrip certificate a few hours before. His companion, Miss Ethel Steingraber, 2810 Wilcox street, lost two diamond rings valued at $600. Seeing the bandit approach his car, which was parked in front of the girl's home, Palmer put his wallet on the floor and told her to do likewise with her jewelry. The bandit climbed in the rear seat, made Palmer drive him a block west to South Francisco avenue, and there forced the couple from the car. The robber drove away, the money and jewelry still on the floor of the car.

AUTOIST'S ANTICS JUST IN FUN, HE TELLS THE POLICE

It may have been in a spirit of fun, as he asserted, that Paul O'Donnell swerved his automobile toward the policeman who arrested him for speeding in Evanston yesterday and nearly knocked the policeman from his motorcycle, but Police Chief William O. Freeman of the suburb didn't see the joke.

PAUL O'DONNELL.

O'Donnell, who lives at 1822 Lincoln street, Evanston, was booked on charges of speeding, resisting an officer, and assault with a deadly weapon.

Henry Dr'ker and Ed Fellows, motorcycle policemen, stopped him on Ridge avenue north of Howard street, charging him with traveling 42 miles an hour.

"I'll see you about it tomorrow," said O'Donnell, who identified himself as a former assistant corporation counsel in Chicago.

Fellows pursued him and ordered him to drive to the Evanston police station. Then, Fellows charged, O'Donnell swerved his car suddenly and nearly knocked him from his motorcycle.

"I was just playing when I swerved m' car," he told Chief Freeman when taken to the station.

Wife Is Granted Alimony and Right to Destroy Beer

Circuit Judge William V. Brothers yesterday gave Mrs. Hannah Harnett permission to destroy the 750 bottles of home brew which her policeman husband, John, had in their home at 4948 Maypole avenue. She is suing for divorce. Judge Brothers granted her temporary alimony of $60 a month and issued an injunction restraining the husband from collecting rents on a $150,000 apartment building, which Mrs. Harnett said she owned.

New Petro-Nokol cuts cost of heating homes with oil

Permanency of low oil heating costs assured for a generation at least, by huge world-wide oversupply of oil.

Cost of oil heat was never so low! Oil burner values were never so great! All due to the remarkable advances made by the oil heating industry led by Petroleum Heat & Power Company, the world's largest oil heating organization.

These new oil burners now offer you all the quiet . . . all the efficiency . . . all the reliability at the lowest prices in oil burner history! They assure you even lower oil heating costs than the models that broke all sales records for the past 11 months.

The patronage and goodwill of our customers who have paid $109,000,000 for Petro-Nokol products, has put us in position as a nation-wide public service enterprise, to supply this oil heat at impressively lower prices in 48 states and 7 foreign countries.

You will want to see these new burners with such a background. They are on display in your city. If you cannot call at our display rooms . . . the coupon below will bring you all the interesting facts . . . without the least obligation.

Fully automatic to burn cheaper oil

Is the price of a complete installation (without tank) for a small house. The size, type and cost of an efficient oil burner installation varies just as greatly as the type, size and cost of heating plants and the houses themselves. We have thousands of our automatic oil burners in various size houses installed completely with tank for as low as $390—$450—$525—$675 (depending upon requirements) and on up to a recent commercial installation amounting to $55,000. All approved by leading safety underwriters.

Our new Petro Automatic Boiler for oil or gas has the burner sealed and concealed inside a beautiful cabinet, as automatic and service-free as a modern refrigerator. Saves ⅓ to ½ on fuel. In many sections of the country we also supply our own oil, thus dividing our responsibility with no one.

$25 THRIFT DEPOSIT

EDISON SERVICE . . WHAT IT IS . . WHAT IT DOES

WHAT IF CHICAGO BURNED CANDLES

All the sheep of Australia couldn't furnish the tallow

SINCE primitive man discovered that the light from his cooking fire gave him protection against both beasts and goblins, the human soul has been light-hungry. The first torch that was stuck into the crevice of a cave marked a tremendous advancement in the evolution of the race. A lair was changed into a home thereby.

Because the human soul craved more light, and light where it wanted it and when it wanted it, wise men of long ago brought forth the lamp as successor to the torch. The first lamp was only a bit of fibre in a dish of fat or oil, but for countless generations inventive genius sought to improve its efficiency and unnumbered artists strove to make it beautiful. At last it became a symbol of progress throughout the world.

Our own Western civilization, in its romance days, supplemented the lamp with the candle. Whereupon there was a battle for supremacy—sheep against whales, tallow for candles against sperm oil for lamps. The candle won; it became the measure of light, even unto our day. It also became the measure of social standing of husbandman and merchant, of commoner and noble. The status of a family was fixed by the number of candles that family burned.

The candle typified romance, but it took the inventive genius of our own time to produce a lamp that would satisfy the light-hunger of the world—the electric lamp.

EDISON SERVICE brought the electric lamp to Chicago, and has given this city a quantity and quality of light that all the whalers that searched the Arctic and Antarctic seas, that the more than 100,000,000 sheep that feed on Australian plains could not supply by means of lamps and candles. EDISON SERVICE has on its lines 18,000,000 electric lamps, ready for instant use at all times. This is an illuminating power equal to more than 1,000,000,000 candle power; equal to more than 320 candles to each inhabitant of Chicago.

EDISON SERVICE gives Chicago homes what the inventor of the first rush-lamp may have dreamed about—a lighting service more reliable than the sun itself, with the moon thrown in.

COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY

A Home-Owned, Home-Managed Institution

In the past twenty years Edison Service has increased the number of its employes three and six-tenths times. It has, in the same period, increased the use of its product sixty-eight times, and the number of its customers seven and two-tenths times.

COURT REMOVES BAN AGAINST TAX SALES OF REALTY

Reverses Order Tying Up $10,000,000 Levies.

The Appellate court yesterday reversed the temporary Circuit court order which restrained County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough from advertising and proceeding with the sale of more than 20,000 parcels of Cook county real estate delinquent approximately $10,000,000 in taxes assessed for 1929.

The temporary order was obtained from Judge Philip L. Sullivan recently by 5,550 members of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers of Illinois, who are seeking a permanent injunction against the sale of their property on the grounds that the assessment was illegal because real estate property carried far more than was its share of the tax burden and because of other discriminations.

Declare Against Immunity.

In the reversal the Appellate justices declared that such an injunction would give the complainants special immunity and would leave other taxpayers to pay the taxes.

Judge Sullivan's decision on the permanent injunction is expected this week. County Attorney Hayden Bell and Assistant State's Attorneys L. H. Geiman and John E. Pedderson, who are associated with him, appealed only the temporary order issued by the court.

In commenting on the decision of the higher court, Mr. Geiman said: "We feel that the ruling is helpful to our case and that likely Judge Sullivan's decision will be influenced by it."

Seen to Supreme Court.

Capt. Ferre C. Watkins who, with Perry J. Ten Hoor, represented the taxpayers' association, declared that the reversal was merely a step in the procedure which would take the case to the United States Supreme court.

The Appellate decision in which Presiding Justice John M. O'Connor, and Justices William H. McSurely and David F. Matchett concurred, read:

"In the present case complainants do not complain of any discrimination in the same class of property. . . . Here certain real estate owners are asking that they be relieved from payment of taxes on their particular real estate, while all other real estate which is valued upon the same basis must pay its taxes.

STRICKEN MAN DIES.

Stricken with a heart attack while visiting friends, Walter Ryland, 48 years old, 830 North Clark street, was taken to the county hospital yesterday, where he died.

WINS DIVORCE

MRS. MURIEL W. CARGILL.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Circuit Judge E. I. Frankhauser yesterday granted Mrs. Muriel W. Cargill of the St. Clair hotel a divorce from Frank V. Cargill, head of the directory department of the American Medical association. She charged that she returned from California a year ago, following a trip there for her health, and that Cargill deserted her the day following her return. She was awarded a cash settlement of $6,200, furniture worth $5,000, a $25,000 life insurance policy on which her ex-husband will pay the premiums, and $750 for the fee of her attorney, Harry X. Cole.

DRAFT BILLS FOR A CENTRAL CITY PURCHASE OFFICE

The draft of an ordinance creating a central purchasing department for the city will be ready for submission to the council when it meets on July 30, Corporation Counsel Sexton announced yesterday. He conferred on the matter with Commissioner of Public Works Sprague and John A. Richert, head of the council finance committee staff, who is working on a similar ordinance draft.

The ordinance would give the purchasing department the power to take bids and award a contract, no matter what its size, upon the request of the department head who requires the equipment or materials purchased.

The measure also would broaden the powers of the city purchasing agent. The final ordinance is expected to be a combination of those being drafted by the corporation counsel and by Richert.

MUNICIPAL COURT JUDGES BALK AT IDEA OF PAY CUT

Volunteers Are Lacking for Economy Plan.

The proposal that they, as well as employés in the city hall, be docked two weeks' pay under Mayor Cermak's economy plan brought protests yesterday from the judges of the Municipal court, at least from those who are not away on a summer vacation.

A poll conducted among the thirty-five $10,000 a year judges showed that for the most part they propose to collect their salary checks in full, regardless of the city's financial condition. Although several said they would accept deductions if all the others did, none of those interviewed volunteered to do so individually.

Judges to Discuss Question.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, Clerk Joseph L. Gill, and Bailiff A. J. Horan on Tuesday sent letters to City Controller Szymczak stating that under the law the plan to cut wages could not be applied to themselves and their staffs. Yesterday, however, the chief justice notified Szymczak that he would lay the matter before the judges at their next meeting in September.

"What more can I do?" said the chief justice. "I can't speak for the judges. They are elected officials and it's up to them. There will be plenty of time after September to make the pay cuts if they favor it."

Chief Justice Sonsteby added that it costs the judges so much for political and charitable contributions that the loss of two weeks' salary might work a hardship on some of them.

Expressions from some of the other judges were as follows:

FREDERICK W. ELLIOTT—I understand that the law providing for the pay cuts doesn't take us in. That's all I know about it. I wouldn't say what I would do voluntarily.

FRANK M. PADDEN—The mayor might be invited up to talk to us at our next meeting. Let the majority decide.

THEODORE F. EHLER—I am not willing to forfeit any of my salary. Why? Because what I donated might be given to a favorite contractor by the council finance committee at the end of the year. If I was sure the taxpayers would get it, it might be different. We've earned our salaries and are entitled to all of them.

Urges a Special Meeting.

JAY A. SCHILLER—There are two sides to the question. We ought to get together at a special meeting and agree on a plan.

ALFAR M. EBERHARDT—It would be a sacrifice to me and to other honest judges without a side income, but for the good of the community I am willing to cooperate if the others agree to pay cuts.

JOSEPH A. GRABER—I am not informed about the matter.

SAMUEL H. TRUDE—You'll have to talk to the chief justice about that. I am not going to be interviewed.

W. R. FETZER—The thing to do is to have a meeting of the judges and appoint a committee to investigate the proposal.

Two judges, who refused to be quoted, commented caustically on the publication yesterday of expenditures in the Municipal court offices for luxurious furniture and fixtures. They called attention to the redecorating and new furniture in Mayor Cermak's office. They said they understood city laborers were used for the work.

Photographers Are Ejected.

Newspaper cameramen who sought yesterday morning to photograph samples of the new Municipal court office furnishings were ejected by employés who told them they couldn't take pictures while the heads of the offices were gone; this in spite of the fact that they are public offices. Bailiff Horan attended the Sharkey-Walker fight in New York last night; Clerk Gill is vacationing in Wisconsin. Chief Justice Sonsteby was out of his office during the morning.

Nearly half of the judges yesterday were found to be out of town on vacation trips and the courtrooms of all but a half dozen were deserted after noon.

BUS PASSENGER ARRESTED.

John Piel 25 years old, 4921 Alcott avenue, St. Louis, Mo., was arrested by Lieut. Phil Carroll of the detective bureau yesterday when he stepped from a bus from St. Louis. St. Louis authorities wired asking that he be held on a robbery charge. He waived extradition.

"Help us stamp out the menace of CARELESS DRIVING"

John H. Alcock
Acting Commissioner of Police, City of Chicago

It's up to you . . . will you join this movement to save human lives?

Chicago men and women are aroused at last—determined to correct a condition that took 32,500 lives, and injured 960,000 on the streets and highways in America, in 1931.

Take your car today to one of the City's new "safety lanes." Let them make sure your steering wheel, your brakes, tires, lamps are safe.

Then—as a public expression of your stand for safety, sign the pledge of the Silvertown Safety League. Its common-sense rules were developed by the famous Goodrich Silver Fleet, which traveled over a million miles without injuring a single person!

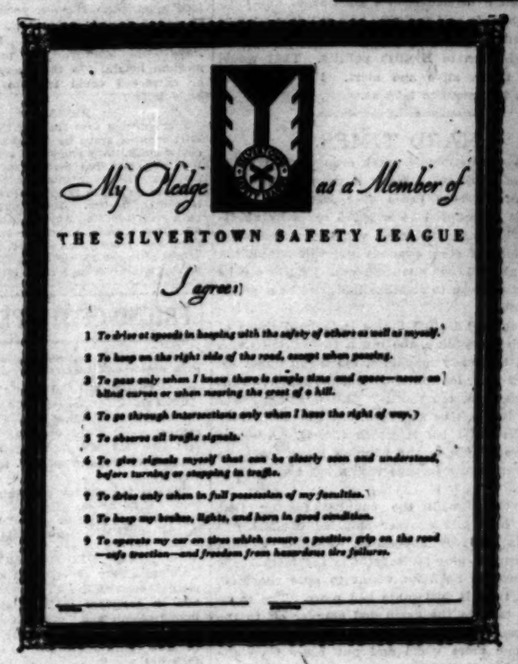
If you will observe these rules—if enough people will come out for them . . . thousands of lives can be saved this year.

Over 5000 people a day are signing this pledge. Make it your stand for safe driving! Go to your Goodrich dealer. Sign the pledge. Get your emblem. Display it. For your own sake, and for the safety of your family . . . join the League today.



"The great movement in behalf of safe driving is one of our major civic accomplishments of 1931. Everyone who helps this movement helps us to cut down the appalling loss of life and of property under which our whole population has suffered in the past. I urge all Chicago to come out publicly for Safe Driving."

JOHN H. ALCOCK
Acting Commissioner of Police, City of Chicago

Let us install a brilliant chromium emblem of the League on the radiator of your car. It tells the world that you are in the fight against recklessness that took 32,500 lives last year

JOIN THE LEAGUE TODAY . . . Display this emblem

Fisher Transitone Radio installed at the factory at small extra cost. Studebaker Free Wheeling plus silenced engine, chassis and body give unparalleled reception.

STUDEBAKER introduced Free Wheeling a year ago. Since then nine (9) other makes have adopted or adapted Free Wheeling and even more makes are planning to fall in line. Before long every new car that is a modern car will be using instead of losing momentum.

In every Studebaker you get Free Wheeling in its finest form—with positive gear control—and engineered as an integral part of the chassis. You get 15% to 20% savings in gas and oil. You get Free Wheeling that's been proved and approved in every state under every driving condition.

Go Free Wheeling in a Studebaker and you'll enjoy in addition all these other triumphs of Studebaker engineering genius:

World Champion Performance. More official records than all other makes combined.

Safety insured by steel bodies, two-finger steering, etc.

Silence of engine, body and chassis.

Thrift, officially proven under supervision of the American Automobile Association.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A PLAN FOR CALUMET HARBOR.

A plan for Calumet harbor has been submitted to the government engineers by Col. Sprague on behalf of the city. The city has adopted the suggestion made in these columns that two new entrances be cut into Lake Calumet, one from the Calumet river and another from the Little Calumet. The Calumet canal would reduce the distance to be traveled by lake vessels in reaching the harbor by 2½ miles, while the other canal would save more than four miles of tortuous navigation for Mississippi barges.

It is estimated that the two canals will cost, in all, in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. This is an expenditure upon which congressmen from the lake and valley states may well unite. In Lake Calumet the two most important internal waterways in the United States will meet. The harbor is destined to be one of the great nerve centers of commerce, industry and agriculture in the country. The national interest in creating there as efficient and economical a port as possible is clear.

The recent federalising of the Illinois waterway gives added reason for a federal appropriation for the harbor. The United States government, which already supervises navigation on the great lakes, is now in charge of the gulf waterway throughout its length. Its interest in the Calumet harbor is therefore beyond question.

Of all the public works undertaken by Washington to relieve unemployment, the Illinois waterway is destined to be most valuable. It will stimulate the construction of new factories and warehouses, the building of ships and barges, the laying of new railroad connections and roads and the creation of new industrial towns. All of this activity will be hastened if the terminal in Lake Calumet is promptly improved. An adequate harbor in Chicago will encourage the use of the new route and by so doing will increase commercial and industrial activity at a hundred points along the gulf waterway and the great lakes.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATORS ABROAD.

The Illinois tourists headed by Lieut. Gov. Sterling and Senator Richard J. Barr who, with wives and children, are to do the prisons of Europe are reported out of Quebec on their way to foreign parts. They have a few Chicago judges as legal advisers. The party has a muster roll of about thirty-five, drawing on a state expense account of $25,000.

Tourist trade in Europe has fallen off this year because the American citizen has been prudent with his cash. The desired trip abroad has seemed postponable. Public funds have been in a notably feeble conditions, as teachers and other public servants can vouch, but these considerations are not of political concern. The general assembly wants to know all about prisons, and it is presumed they do them better abroad.

The tourists' expense account advance should have been made in Chicago board of education scrip. It might pass for money in Europe and the sale of it to the state treasury for this purpose might have given the teachers carfare downtown to inquire about the rest of their pay for the rest of the summer.

HENRYETTA IN ACTION.

The town of Henryetta in Oklahoma is setting an example of local initiative and community responsibility which we hope will be followed by other cities, towns, and villages throughout the country.

Foreseeing, as we all do, that the problem of unemployed relief is not going to disappear at the wave of any political or economic wizard's wand, Henryetta is already making arrangements for caring for the needy efficiently. A building and improvement campaign will be started at once and the head of each jobless family will be provided with work and the necessities of life. Nine civic and county projects have been suggested, including a road to the municipal lake three miles from town. Individuals unwilling to work will not be helped, but state aid will be sought if conditions justify and require it. The local charity and civic organizations and business interests are cooperating to meet the present needs of the unemployed with food relief and to organize a continuing program on sound lines.

This is the American individualism and local responsibility which have in its various aspects accomplished the progress and prosperity of the nation. All who hold the American faith in free democracy believe that it is equal to any emergency in the long run and more truly efficient than the persistent resort to government which Europe relies upon. Government has its functions in times of sudden disaster, and we do not hesitate to make use of its facilities and resources. But it is the American democracy's conviction that in the main it will rely upon the strength and intelligence of American citizens, acting collectively but voluntarily to meet common needs and refusing to build up a huge machine of officialdom for service which freemen can and will perform for themselves.

Perhaps the greatest issue raised by the ordeal through which we are passing is the efficiency of individualism versus paternalism. To turn to government for money and organization seems simple and easy and there are many who think it the best way or the only way. But the people of Henryetta, who are evidently stalwart in the American faith, are showing a better way. Their example should inspire all American communities, large and small. Conditions, we think, are already on the mend, and the eventual restoration of our prosperity is certain. But we have much hard work and sacrifice ahead of us still. American democracy is on trial, but it has had trials in the past and has always conquered them as it will conquer this in the American way. It is the American faith in the individual, realized through courage and intelligence, that is America's contribution to the world and its progress.

FEDERAL ROAD SUBSIDIES.

The effect of federal subsidies to the state governments is well illustrated by the recent tabulation of the state road programs. The federal highway fund was greatly increased by the last congress with a view to stimulating employment. In 1930 congress voted $105,000,000 for state road subsidies. In 1931 the appropriation is $260,000,000. In theory this increase of $155,000,000 in Washington's contribution was to be matched by the states. In fact the states have appropriated $140,000,000 less this year than last. The net gain is thus only $15,000,000.

The inference is easily drawn. The people living in Alabama or Illinois or Kansas or Washington want certain roads built. They are willing to pay for those roads. If the United States treasury wants to pay for them in part, no objections are raised, of course, but the treasury's offer is likely to result in a corresponding reduction of state appropriations.

The subsidies are granted, needless to say, largely at the expense of the taxpayers in the wealthier, more populous states. California is, of course, especially favored and this year will receive substantially 20 per cent of her road costs from the federal government, but even California shares the fate of the other large contributors to the federal treasury by receiving less in return than is paid in. California contributes about 6 per cent to the federal income tax collections and receives about 5 per cent of the total road appropriations. Illinois naturally is less favored. Illinois contributes about 9 per cent of the income taxes collected, but Illinois' road subsidy of $9,100,000 is less than 4 per cent of the $260,000,000 which was appropriated by congress.

Now that it has been shown that federal road subsidies do not materially increase the number of available jobs, the last plausible excuse for continuing federal road subsidies is gone. It never was much of an excuse, anyway.

YOUNG MR. SHAW.

George Bernard Shaw, going to Russia with the Astors, was in Berlin for a train change and was interviewed by reporters. He was, as usual, cagy with the newspaper men, but he admitted that he had just completed a new play. Shaw is over 75, and he and his life are as rosy as ever. He hasn't exhausted his vein, become outmoded or lost his desire to take the world for a ride. What a man! He is as new as tomorrow's newspaper, a congenial companion, as he proved not long ago, for an aspiring young retired pugilist, a superman to put Ramsay MacDonald and other statesmen in their places at Chequer week-ends, and he can twiddle his fingers at time. He'll say it is vegetables, but if he had been a good steak and chop man all his life he'd probably be a still less credible phenomenon. The real secret probably is that he is an Irishman in English politics. That would keep a talent alive and alert. He can't quit. There is too much to hoot at.

HARD TIMES.

This year's California peach crop would provide a pack of 17,000,000 cases if it were used, an increase of 4,000,000 cases over last year. The pack will be reduced to 9,000,000 cases by agreement. The Canners' league will buy and destroy 144,000 tons of cling peaches and will uproot the trees in about 12,000 planted acres. By this means the growers hope to stabilize the price at a profitable figure.

The poor old United States is in hard times of too much everything, too much to eat, too much to wear, too many machines, too many buildings, too much gold, too much cotton, too much wheat, too much corn, too much fruit. A scrappy ball player who can't be managed, but who could play ball if he could be, is worth $50,000. A single race pays $75,000 to the winning horse. A prize fighter can earn a fortune with a left and right to the chin.

Hard times with the country fearing that another crop and another shipload of gold will make its recovery impossible. Fear of a hard winter with a glut of foodstuffs; the farm board importuned to burn its wheat to save the land. Harvest time is just more bad news. The country will take in the grain and stagger off to the poorhouse. The manufacturer will give his machines one more whirl and put himself on the county. The United States is knocked in the head by the horn of plenty.

Editorial of the Day

WISCONSIN AND MICHIGAN.

[Detroit News.]

So far as conservation funds are concerned Wisconsin finds herself in the same boat as Michigan. Both states have had their appropriations cut 50 per cent, which means a reduction in personnel as well as a curtailment of many important activities.

However, Wisconsin differs from Michigan in laying plans to meet this emergency. The first step Michigan took, when it was learned that the next two years would be a period of rigid economy, was to eliminate entirely any thought of forest tree planting for the biennial period. Orders were sent out that reforestation would stop, beginning this fall, so that what funds were available could be used for game and fish propagation and protection, the administration of park sites and other minor conservation activities.

Wisconsin did just the opposite. The officials ordered a cut in every activity except forestry, claiming that this was the most important work the department carried on and under no circumstances would they accept any program that called for a curtailment of forest protection and tree planting. Wisconsin has decided to sacrifice its program of park development and its extensive game and fish propagation program rather than cut down on reforestation.

Those who understand that forest restoration automatically creates recreational grounds and serves as a great aid in maintaining our wild life resources through the establishment of protective cover will agree that Wisconsin has taken the better step.

APPLES.

THE saying, "An apple a day will keep the doctor away," has in it some basis of truth, although not enough to decrease its popularity.

The chief medicinal value of this fruit lies in its vitamin content and especially in that principle which protects against scurvy and even cures that disease. It also protects against pyorrhea, gumboils, spongy gums, and decay of teeth. Apples vary in the amount of antiscorbutic vitamin they carry. The difference is a matter of variety more than of climate, soil, or season. According to a report of the Medical Research council, certain members of the apple family have but little antiscorbutic vitamin. They found cooking apples to have rather more than other varieties. Roasting apples in their skins does not reduce the vitamin materially. This holds true of other methods of cooking. Cold storage apples retain their antiscorbutic vitamin. On the other hand, drying apples in the sun was destructive to the protective principle. Canned apples and apples dried by quick processes were better supplied with it.

Anemia is usually present in scurvy. In fact, it is one of its most frequent symptoms. Apples and other fruits are good for the anemia as well as the basic trouble.

Apple juice and apple cider have the antiscorbutic properties of the fruit from which they are made. Apples, apple juice, and apple cider have some virtues as mild laxatives, particularly if they are taken immediately on arising. Kellogg claims that apples and apple juice are intestinal antiseptics, though most authorities do not accept that point as having been made.

This is about all the evidence there is for the medicinal qualities of apples.

On the other hand they sometimes invite the doctor in, as many small boys can testify. Eating green apples is a prominent cause of diarrhea among boys. A green apple is composed of fiber, starch, and malic acid, and the combination may irritate the digestive tract of children. Careless people sometimes fail to wash the insecticide from apples and thus they occasionally get a dose of poison that is sufficient to cause diarrhea. The worms and eggs at times found in apples do not infest human beings.

COFFEE AND HEALTH.

J. B. B. writes:

1. Is coffee detrimental to health?
2. Does it affect the optic nerve or the eyesight generally?
3. Does prolonged use of coffee induce some organic ailment?
4. What functional disturbance does its use produce, if any?
5. How many cups per day can be consumed without harm?
6. Are six cups a day too much?

REPLY.

1. It is, if used to excess.
2. I don't think so.
3. Used to excess it might contribute to high blood pressure or to kidney stone.
4. Insomnia, nervousness, and some indigestion. The oil and tannates may contribute to indigestion; the caffeine, to insomnia and nervousness.
5. About two ordinary cups.
6. Yes.

GROWING DAYS ARE OVER.

O. S. writes: I am a young man of 20 and 5 feet 5 inches tall. The last year I haven't grown any. I have always been healthy. My parents are medium height. Is there any medicine or extract I could take to make me grow taller?

REPLY.

Your growing days are over. Should you start growing again, by any chance, hunt a doctor quick. Any renewal of growth means that something has gone wrong with you, probably with your pituitary body. This refers to growth in height. Growth in girth is another matter. You should grow in girth until age 30. Any increase in weight after that bespeaks something wrong. However, the probability is that increase of weight after age 30 will not mean that there is any serious or important disorder.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

ORDERED TO VACATE.

Chicago, July 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What is the state law regarding vacating premises when the rent is in arrears? 2. What is the least number of days a person is given to vacate? A. H. S.

The statute authorizes putting a tenant out on five days' notice. The court proceedings would take at least an additional ten days. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MAY DENY ENTRY.

Chicago, July 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I entered the U. S. A. from Canada in January, 1922, walking by the immigration and customs inspectors, neither having questioned me. I resided in New York state for one year and took out my first papers. I then came to Illinois and resided here eight years. I am now on a brief trip in Canada. Will I be stopped when I try to enter the U. S. A.? What can I do about it? J. M.

Inasmuch as this man entered the United States illegally in January, 1922, he will not be permitted to reënter this country unless he is in possession of an appropriate immigration visa issued by an American consul in Canada. S. D. SMITH, District Director of Immigration.

DISTRIBUTING CHILDREN.

Chicago, July 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister had five children by her first husband. When the youngest was a few months old she left her husband and later obtained a divorce. The husband agreed to keep two of the children until my sister was physically able to take them again. However, he was very negligent and the children are now being taken care of by foster parents, who refuse to give them up. 1. What is the law in Michigan regarding obtaining custody of these children? 2. Is there an age limit, no adoption papers have been signed, as to when they can decide for themselves? 3. Could these people be required through the law to give up these children if they are paid the amount the children actually cost them? W. R. E.

1. There is no hard and fast rule. The apparent best interest of the child is the controlling consideration. Where the parent has permitted the child to remain a long time with another family and has not contributed, a court is likely to sympathize with the foster parents.
2. Some weight is given to the preference of children over 14 years old.
3. Not necessarily. We could advise to better advantage if you had told us how much time has elapsed, whether the mother has paid for care of the children, etc.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A NEW YORK JUDGE told a man who refused to pay his divorced wife the one hundred dollars a week alimony that had been ordered by the court that if he continued not to pay the hundred dollars the amount would be raised to two hundred dollars. We can't see how that is going to do much good; the lady won't be able to buy any more groceries and clothes and things with two hundred dollars that she doesn't get than with one hundred dollars which she doesn't get. Or would she?

THEY'VE CAPTURED THE SEA SERPENT in Lake Erie again and it's from thirty feet to a half mile long, with a yellow tail and green head and a polka dot body and a hide like an alligator's and long wings like an eagle and goes "oof, oof," like a tiger (or would that be a tiger?). The hootch that comes across Lake Erie from Canada nowadays isn't what it used to be.

LA POSADA.

La Posada, drenched in moonlight,
Sultry gold in noonday sun,
Silver dusk in southwest twilight,
Frailest pink when night is done:

Always henceforth you'll be haunted,
As the suns come and go,
By two lovers—nothing daunted—
By dark Lethe's feaseless flow.

Ever now, your ways shall echo
Throughout centuries of time
Past your gray-tiled patio
To a lover's silver rhyme.

La Posada, love forever
Now shall grace your 'dobe walls,
Nor the knife of time shall sever
Two who haunt your Spanish halls.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION OF RUM RUNNERS at Newark, N. J., disliking the publicity that attended their meeting, moved over to Jersey City. It seems strange that the gentlemen engaged in what has become not only a basic industry but an industry that's actually making money cannot hold a national convention without being disturbed by vulgar and unsought publicity! What are we coming to?

A. A (that's his whole name) of Chicago insists he has the champion short name of the world. He probably has the very shortest—but what of it? A. A may claim that it takes less time to write it on a check or hotel register or to pronounce it. True, but think of the many minutes it takes to explain to people that A. A is really his name and not a joke. Why, you couldn't convince a custom house officer or a police sergeant in less than two hours. And we've met custom house officers and police sergeants who would argue the matter for half a day and finally end up with, "O, tell it to Sweeney."

WASHINGTON dispatches say the White House appears somewhat irked because while the State Department made public the American proposals to the London conference Secretary Stimson, who is over there, told the reporters no proposals had been made. But the White House talked the matter over with Secretary Stimson on the telephone. That explains all. The White House probably dialed the wrong number. Or maybe the telephone girl in London said the party didn't answer, or that his telephone had been taken out, or he had died or something, and the White House didn't understand.

HELEN KELLER won't go on a visit to England because they would shut her little dog up in quarantine for six months. Miss Keller is quite right. When the old doc comes around to almost every little dog in about fourteen years with the lethal pills or the gas box, six months is too much of that dog's life to spend in jail. The law was passed in England after a big hydrophobia scare caused by the importation of Oriental dogs. Which is all very well; we've got no use for chows anyhow, they seem to have a grouch at the whole human race, but any dog doc will tell you there is no necessity whatever for such a strict law as England has. We spoke to an Englishman once about the utter stupidity of the silly law and he said: "O, quite. A rotten law, very. But once a law, even it's most absurd, gets on the books it's quite liable to remain there. You know how it is yourself; you've got some sort of law called the eighteenth something or other, haven't you? Something that has to do with prohibition, I fancy. You don't like it. But try to get it taken off the books; ah, that's another matter as you will see. What?"

And all we could offer for an answer was, "Quite!"

THE LOOTING OF THE DEERING HOME in Evanston by thirst bandits of a beautiful stock of pre-war liquor carries a warning to all and sundry who still have or have still valuable property in bottles down in the cellar. We advise all who have such to dispose of same without delay. If they are in doubt how to do this and will only call us up we will go right out and look their stock over. And after we get through we will promise that if bandits should come around the joke will be on the bandits.

TWO CHILDREN have been enjoined by a Chicago court from killing their father. If they should murder father now it will be contempt of court. It is so nice that a visitor from Mars does not come to earth to study our civilization and culture. They are so complex that they would be hard to explain. And most embarrassing.

R. H. L.

A SERIOUS SHORTAGE IN THE SHAKEDOWN CROP

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 23, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Again it is up to Berlin to determine the future relations of the United States and Germany. President Wilson's note declaring that any repetition of the sacrifice of Americans aboard an unarmed, unresisting merchant vessel of either belligerent or neutral nationality will be viewed as an unfriendly act is on the way to Berlin.

PETROGRAD.—The Novoe Vremya publishes what purports to be details of a massacre by the Turks of Armenians which exceeds in number any record in history. In one section of the article it is stated that the Turks, after massacring wholesale the population of Bitlis, collected 9,000 women and children from the surrounding villages and drove them to the banks of the Tigris, where they shot every one of them. They then killed another thousand which had escaped the first slaughter.

CHICAGO.—Jane Addams returned to Chicago from her peace mission in Europe and gave to a crowd at the Auditorium theater the message she has brought home. She said the civil authorities of Europe are willing to bring about peace if it can be done with honor.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 23, 1901.

BOSTON, Mass.—Rear Admiral William T. Sampson today for the first time took a hand in the famous controversy over his and Rear Admiral Schley's share in the Santiago battle, and practically assumed responsibility for Maciay's history, recently issued. This is the history in which Rear Admiral Schley is denounced as a "coward and a caitiff," and Sampson admitted that he read the proofs of the book.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The President today made the following appointments: Richard L. Sprague, Massachusetts, consul at Gibraltar; Edward A. Creevy, Connecticut, consul at Glauchau, Saxony; Samuel Smith, New Jersey, consul at Moscow, Russia; R. S. Reynolds Hitt, Illinois, third secretary United States embassy, Paris; Jesse C. Moore, Danville, Ill., Indian agent at Colorado river agency, Arizona.

CHICAGO.—While Cardinal Martinelli in Milwaukee yesterday refused to discuss the Muldoon placard episode that stirred Chicago Catholic circles, Dr. Frederick Rooker, the secretary of the apostolic legation, announced positively that the cardinal would leave for this city tonight, and that the consecration of Father Muldoon as auxiliary bishop would take place on July 25.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 23, 1881.

LONDON.—The Irish land bill passed through the committee stage in the house of commons. Amid loud cheers it was then reported to the house. The bill will be read a third time next week and then it goes to the lords.

WASHINGTON. — The President's afternoon fever did not abate as early tonight as heretofore and there was a slight rise in the pulse and temperature between 8 and 10 o'clock. These unfavorable symptoms, however, did not long continue and at midnight the fever had subsided. The patient's skin is moist and he is sleeping quietly.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE furnishes its readers this morning with a curious piece of hitherto unpublished history. It appears that a month after the assassination of President Lincoln, Secretary Stanton sent a dispatch to the Hon. Edwards Pierrepont asking him to commence criminal proceedings against Horace Greeley and the owners of the New York Tribune for having for four weeks made persistent efforts to incite assassination and to finish their work by assassinating him. He also proposed a civil suit. The dispatches are certainly very interesting.

CHICAGO.—William H. Vanderbilt and party, including Capt. J. H. Vanderbilt, Gen. George J. Magee, and W. K. Vanderbilt, arrived in the city last evening and put up at the Grand Pacific, where, after dining, the party was busy talking "horse." They are inspecting improvements on the New York Central, Michigan Central, and Michigan Southern railroads and thought they would stop over in Chicago and see Maud S. trot.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE ROLE OF THE SPECULATOR.

Syracuse, Kas., July 18.—President Hoover recently announced that steps should be taken to stop short selling in the wheat market. Without the freedom or right to short sell on the board of trade, there could be no freedom of buying on the board of trade; even if the short selling was limited to people who actually owned wheat, the operations would be so small that the board of trade would close. Then think what the situation would be.

The millers would sit back and buy wheat from hand to mouth just as their needs require, which would make the present market look like a high one in comparison. Of course, the President and farm board are in bad with their farm board holdings, and the only way out is for them to try to impress the public that it is the speculator in wheat that is to blame, while the real trouble is that we have no speculators in wheat, due to the threat of the farm board to sell their wheat on the lowest market ever known, which has driven all speculators out of the wheat market, and we are now at the mercy of the millers.

There is no use to talk of eliminating the speculator. He is already eliminated. That is what is wrong with the market today. Whenever the speculation is taken out of any commodity that commodity sells at bed rock prices. It has resulted in failure every time it has ever been undertaken. Just stop and think. Why are prices always high on commodities when money is easy? It isn't because the millers would care to pay any more for wheat when money is easy, but it is because when money is easy the speculator has access to it and enters the market and runs up the price. The most disastrous thing that can ever happen to the wheat market in the United States will be to eliminate the speculator. The politicians will tell us the thing to do is to eliminate the short selling. How on earth could we have any buyers on the board of trade without short sellers? For every buyer there must be a seller, and without the short sellers the board of trade will have to close.

The board of trade is the only system in the world by which the general public are enabled to express their sentiments on the market. Most of the general public have no storage for which to buy and store actual wheat. I have none myself. Yet, under this system, I am now buying wheat on the board of trade because I think the higher price is justified. Many other private citizens are entering the board of trade market in the past few days and the price is already beginning to respond. How could this be accomplished without short sellers of wheat? For goodness sake, let us try to induce the speculator to enter into the market instead of forever trying to bar him out. RAY JACKSON.

HELPFUL ADVICE.

Evanston, Ill., July 15.—A few weeks ago I purchased three road maps showing the best route to Macon, Ga., by auto, and I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your assistance in making the trip a success. Everything was just as specified and all roads were O. K. I will always call on THE TRIBUNE touring department for such maps in the future. MARGARET E. TOLL.

FENCED OFF.

Chicago, July 20.—The South Shore Country club recently erected a wire fence at 67th street over a stretch of ground which I believe to be government property, and has stationed an attendant there to keep bathers off the beach, or at least compel them to leave their outer garments [robes and pajamas] on the other side of the fence. This beach is visited almost entirely by people of the neighborhood, a nice appearing and orderly crowd. The ground they have been using is not being used by the club. They have their own private bathing beach; no danger of the people mixing. Therefore this attempt on the part of the club to attempt to deny the people this little neighborhood beach during the sweltering weather is the utmost piece of selfishness.

S. R. HARRIS.

LITTERED BEACHES.

Chicago, July 20.—For the first time this year I visited the Oak street beach yesterday. It was nauseating to look at the sand covered with bits of decayed food left over from some one's lunch. Bathers should be forbidden from strewing the sand with refuse at the penalty of expulsion from the beach. Signs to this effect should be posted all along the beach and baskets provided.

HARVEY MORRIS.

ANOTHER.

Chicago, July 20.—The garbage papers, bottles, etc., scattered about the 79th street beach are unsightly and attract numerous flies. Sometimes one loses matries vainly to clean up the mess. I would suggest that a few fire receptacles be placed about the beach for garbage disposal. The people would be glad to use them. MRS. M. WEISSMAN.

AIR MAIL RATES.

Kansas City, Mo., July 16.—I am only a traveling salesman, so if I appear to be dumb please overlook it.

Every night when I mail in my reports, "Air Mail," to New York, I can't help but think of the smart fellow who figured the air mail rates. What I want to know is this: Why is it that if you send a letter weighing one and a fraction ounces it costs you 15 cents, when you can mail two letters weighing one ounce each, or a total of two ounces, for 10 cents?

It certainly seems to me that one handling of less weight would be cheaper than handling two letters of a greater weight. L. M. B.

HAGGIS AS A STIMULANT.

Chicago, July 6.—We notice it took the mace and 8 or 10 sergeants at arms to calm an Irish M. P. representing a Scottish constituency. Had he been a Scot, representing a home constituency, we presume it would have needed six English regiments and Gunga Din, and he probably would have chewed up the mace and the Doomsday Rod before he was out. EDNA.

BEER AND DEPRESSION.

Chicago, July 9.—Being a visitor in Chicago, I am glad to note, according to your front page cartoon, that the depression has had the skids put under him in Canada, Mexico, Australia, England, Germany and other places where beer is legalized. G. O. NESBITT.

TEXAS RANGERS SHOW OKLAHOMA THEY CAN SHOOT

Bridge Guards Reply to Alfalfa Bill.

Denison, Tex., July 22.—(AP)—Texas rangers engaged in a startling exhibition of pistol, rifle, and machine gun shooting today on the banks of the Red river, where they guard a Texas barrier to the Denison free bridge which Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma is seeking to throw open to interstate travel.

CAPT. TOM HICKMAN.

The display of fast and straight marksmanship apparently was the Ranger's reply to "Alfalfa Bill's" remark that "all the Rangers can do is cuss and shoot off," and his threat to proceed against them.

His Difficult Targets.

Ranger Gass opened the show by shooting a playing card at 20 yards while firing his pistol upside down. Capt. Tom Hickman demonstrated gun shooting from the hip, hitting matches out of 20 at 50 feet. Other rangers fired rifles from the hip, shattering bottles tossed in the air. Machine gun practice was held in the river bottoms.

Witness declared if straight shooting had anything to do with maintaining the barrier at the bridge, which Gov. Ross S. Sterling ordered guarded in line with a federal court injunction obtained by owners of a nearby toll bridge, the rangers had the situation well in hand.

Murray Still Belligerent.

Gov. Murray declared that old Spanish treaties gave Oklahoma jurisdiction over the Texas bank of the Red river. He said:

"If they put anything else in the way of an obstruction of the bridge I will remove it in the face of the Texas rangers and other military authority of the state."

He previously had announced he would send Oklahoma National Guardsmen to the river if anybody tried to interfere with his action in having the Oklahoma end of the toll bridge.

HOUSE COMMITTEE WILL INVESTIGATE CRUISERS' FAILURE

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—The failure of the new 10,000 ton cruisers to function successfully will be the subject of an exhaustive inquiry by the house committee on naval affairs, Congressman Fred A. Britten of Illinois, chairman of the committee, said today.

REPRESENTATIVE FRED A. BRITTEN. [A.-P. Photo.]

Mr. Britten is at Montauk Point until after the visit of the scouting fleet for a week beginning Aug. 10. The eight cruisers, costing $14,000,000, that have been found faulty should be part of the scouting fleet, but more than half of them be laid up.

The naval affairs chairman said today that he had received no complete information on the reasons for the faults in the ship.

Five of the cruisers have developed fissures in their stern posts, but the most serious defect is in their faculty of rolling so sharply that they do not serve the primary purpose of a warship, that of a platform from which to direct an accurate fire. It has been reported that accuracy with the guns of the eight cruisers is impossible at sea.

The work of attempting to make the new 10,000 ton cruiser Pensacola stable enough to shoot from will be completed in about ten days at the New York navy yard, it was said today by Phil Engel, president of the metal trades at the yard. The cost of the alterations will be about $100,000.

F. H. Van Orman, Indiana Politician, Sued for Divorce

Evansville, Ind., July 22.—[Special.]—F. Harold Van Orman, owner of the Van Orman chain of hotels and former lieutenant governor of Indiana, was sued for divorce today. His wife charged cruel and inhuman treatment, specifying that he neglected her. Mrs. Van Orman states that they have maintained separate residences for the last year. She asks custody of the three sons. Mrs. Van Orman ran for mayor on the Republican ticket in the 1929 primary, but was defeated.

Fred Padden a Dupe in Realty Deal, Defense Says

Attorneys before Judge John Prystalski defending Fred Padden, who is charged with conspiracy in the illegal sale of a vacant lot, sought yesterday to prove that John E. Morgan, ex-convict and a state's witness, had organized the conspiracy and that Padden, a real estate agent, was duped along with the real owner of the property, Charles W. Salstrom of California. Attorney James M. Burke offered evidence to show that Morgan and Harris Blumenthal, another defendant and state's witness, framed the sale of the lot, property valued at $12,000, at Glenlake avenue and Bellmill street. Morgan impersonating Salstrom while Padden was ignorant of the impersonation. Morgan admitted that he had been in California and Louisiana prisons.

BULLETS, BOMBS FLY IN ATTACK ON CHINA MINISTER

His Secretary Is Killed in Shanghai Fusillade.

SHANGHAI, July 23.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Two bombs and a fusillade of bullets directed at T. V. Soong, finance minister and vice chairman of the Nationalist government, missed their mark here today, but fatally inured Soong's secretary, Tang Yu-Loh.

Six other Chinese were injured, some of them apparently by Soong's bodyguard in answering the fire of the unidentified assassins. The attack was launched just after Soong and his party arrived by train from Nanking. The bombs failed to explode when thrown, but one of them later was discharged when picked up by a soldier. He was possibly fatally wounded. Tang Yu-Loh was 32 years old and was married recently. He formerly was a student at both Harvard and Yale universities.

Claim Chiang Plans Japanese War.

HONGKONG, July 22.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-shek, president of the Nationalist government of China, was said by the Cantonese insurgent government today to have asked the rebels to join in a war upon Japan in consequence of Corean outrages upon Chinese.

Harassed by new rebellious alignments against the Nationalist regime, Chiang was asserted to have offered to resign the presidency and take command of a force of 500,000 men, to be raised in various provinces and thrown against Japan at the Corean border.

The Nationalist president was said to have seized the recent killing of 100 Chinese in Corea by native mobs as a motive for making war upon Japan, which rules Corea. The Corean riots grew out of an attack by 500 Chinese upon 200 Corean irrigation laborers in Manchuria.

(The Kuo Min News Agency in New York, however, said it had received a Nanking dispatch in which an unnamed high official of the Nanking government declared the report that President Chiang Kai-shek had offered to resign if the Canton government would unite in warfare against Japan, was "absolutely unfounded and preposterous.")

Professing friendship toward Japan, the Canton insurgents sent Eugene Chen, their foreign minister to Japan, to negotiate with Baron Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister. Japan, having recognized the Chinese Nationalist government, agreed to receive Chen only as a foreigner making "a special inspection tour."

Chiang Faces New Menace.

Fully occupied with a two month campaign against Red and bandit armies of Kiangsi province, in which his troops have achieved little success, President Chiang Kai-Shek was called upon to meet a dangerous new rebellion in north China, led by Gen. Shih-yu-san, who was commissioned by the Canton insurgents as commander.

Martial law was proclaimed in Tientsin as Manchurian troops gathered there and nearby to repel Shih's expected attack.

BLIND BREWER IS RELEASED ON BEGGING CHARGE

Charles O. Chamness, 514 West 46th street, despite the fact that he was blind at birth, learned the trade of a brewmaster and worked at it until the advent of prohibition. He appeared before Judge Joseph A. Graber yesterday, charged with begging on the street. Judge Graber dismissed him and his wife, Margaret, also blind, who faced the same charge.

"Through diligence and application this man learned a trade, and then the law takes it away from him and throws him out of a job," said the judge. "I commend him for his honesty in not pursuing his trade regardless of the law. The government is responsible for his loss of work, and should take care of him now."

Judge Graber called in representatives of social agencies and asked them to provide for the needs of the Chamnesses, who have five minor children.

FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS.

The body of Lester Dickout, 45 years old, 614 South 3d avenue, Maywood, an unemployed switchman, was found last evening on the tracks of the Milwaukee railroad at Bloomingdale road and Keeler avenue.

"Here's why I switched —how about you?"

His brow is wet with honest sweat—but not his Camels. Nor will yours be, no matter how hard you work or play.

Whether you labor outdoors in the rain or indoors in the heat, whether you whip a trout-stream, or whatever you do, your cigarettes will never be stained or soggy or unwholesome—if you carry Camels.

Camels are blended of fine Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos, made fine and kept fine, kept always in prime smoking condition.

The new Humidor Pack of moisture-proof Cellophane seals in all the natural factory-freshness—seals it in so tightly that wet weather cannot make Camels damp, nor drought weather make them dry.

When you open your package of Camels, don't remove the Cellophane wrapper. Keep it on until you have smoked the last cigarette. It's put there for your protection.

Do your throat a favor, try Camels for just one day. Once you've compared their cool, smooth enjoyment with the brackish, stale taste of cigarettes packed the old way, leave them—if you can.

Now feels "fit as a fiddle"—has gained 10 pounds, too.

HARDLY enough flesh to cover his frame—yet he couldn't eat! His stomach rebelled at the very sight of food. Always tired, complexion bad—his was a desperate situation!

But today, what a difference! Read the story of Mr. Nash's amazing recovery in his own words: "Before I started using Ironized Yeast my general condition was run-down. My appetite was very poor, my face pale. I was underweight and I practically always had a tired feeling.

"I have given Ironized Yeast a fair trial for 2 months and it has worked wonders for me. My appetite improved after the 1st week and I started to gain weight. After 3 weeks the pallor disappeared from my cheeks and the tired feeling vanished. I gained 10 pounds in 2 months and now feel as fit as a fiddle." Louis Nash, 6332 Kelly St., New York, N.Y.

* * *

This is only one of hundreds of letters we have received from folks once pale, rundown and underweight—from others once embarrassed by skin troubles—and from still others once tortured by indigestion and constipation. All quickly regained glowing health—attractive, well-proportioned figures—thanks to Ironized Yeast!

Builds Up Whole System

Ironized Yeast is really two tonics in one! It not only puts on an average of 5 to 15 pounds in a few weeks according to doctors' reports—but actually "rejuvenates" tired, rundown systems! That's because it contains both brewers' yeast—the richest kind known—and an easily assimilated form of iron!

This specially cultured yeast is concentrated seven times—to give the utmost in weight-producing value. It is then ironized with three distinct types of energizing iron—to strengthen and enrich the blood.

GUARANTEED! If you are "below par", fagged out—if your complexion is dull, blemished—your figure scrawny, hollow-chested—try these pleasant tablets. Then, if after a generous trial you are not absolutely satisfied with your improvement, your money will be promptly refunded. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS! Look for "I. Y." on each tablet. At all druggists. 'THAT'S A LIE!' SHOUTS DREISER AT FILM HEARING

His Outburst at Lawyer Brings Warning.

New York, July 22.—[Special.]—Theodore Dreiser, "bad boy" novelist, almost got himself thrown out of court at White Plains today when he arose from his seat to give the lie to a lawyer engaged in the trial of a case in which he was interested.

Dreiser's book, The American Tragedy, has been made into a motion picture and the author is trying to enjoin the Paramount-Publix corporation, makers of the film, from exhibiting what he insists is an outrageous parody of his masterpiece.

During the argument over the application today Humphrey J. Lynch, counsel for the movie corporation, referred to Dreiser's outburst in slapping Sinclair Lewis, a fellow author, at a dinner some months ago and went on to say that Dreiser had openly boasted of getting front page publicity from the incident.

Leaps Up and Shouts.

This was too much for the temperamental novelist. He sprang to his feet and shouted excitedly:

"That's a lie!"

Justice Graham Witschief rapped his gavel and glared down at the writer.

"You'll have to be quiet or leave this room," he admonished. He then turned to Garfield Hayes, attorney for Dreiser:

"Tell your client, Mr. Hayes," he said with great gravity, "that if he cannot control himself he'll have to leave the room."

Dreiser swallowed hard a couple of times and contented himself with fanning himself with a newspaper. It was a hot afternoon.

Accused of Plagiarism.

Dreiser, who was once accused of plagiarism by Dorothy Thompson, wife of Sinclair Lewis—it was this accusation in fact that led to the slapping incident—heard himself accused of plagiarism as Lawyer Lynch later warmed to his subject.

Lynch told the court that the Dreiser novel was merely a review of the Chester Gillette murder case in 1906 and that "if there was ever a case of plagiarism this was it." Lynch added that "if we placed one-tenth of the flirtation scenes from the book into the picture it could not be produced." He said the company had spent $659,000 to make a picture out of the book, paying $138,000 of this amount to Dreiser.

Calls It "Hollywood Swill."

Lawyer Hayes on behalf of his client assured the court Dreiser's concern was not so much with the monetary end of the matter as with his wish to produce a great picture. The lawyer characterized the picture as "so much bunk and Hollywood swill." He declared that Dreiser had not been consulted on the scenario and that he had his own scenario which the company was unwilling to use.

The court reserved decision.

Mr. Gaw, Civic Greeter, Talks Tonight Over W-G-N

LAND SHARKS USING BOULDER DAM AS BAIT

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—[Special.]—Another drive against promoters selling worthless desert lands in the Colorado basin was launched today by the chamber of commerce and the city real estate board. The action followed disclosures that many midwestern ex-service men who received bonus loans have been victimized by salesmen disposing of hundreds of acres of valueless lands in the Chocolate mountain area of Imperial county. The promoters have been capitalizing on publicity given the Boulder dam project, officials said. After being driven out of Los Angeles a year ago, they made their reappearance in cities farther east and as mail order salesmen.

CHURCH DEFIES VERA CRUZ ORDER TO LIMIT PRIESTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—The Catholic church defied Gov. Tejeda of the state of Vera Cruz tonight. Archbishop Ruiz y Flores, papal delegate to Mexico, declared church authorities would not recognize orders of Tejeda that the number of priests be reduced before July 25 to 13 to comply with a new state law.

"The church will not recognize either the religious laws of the state of Vera Cruz or the ultimatum of Gov. Tejeda," the archbishop declared. "The governor has declared that if the church does not appoint thirteen priests by July 25 he will personally appoint them. If he makes the appointments the church will refuse to recognize them, and if Catholic priests accept Tejeda's appointments they will be excommunicated.

"Gov. Tejeda is violating the terms of the settlement made between the church and the federal government during the presidency of Portes Gil. If necessary we will carry on our religious worship and other functions of the church secretly."

Frank Emerich, Former Tribune Writer, Dead

Frank Emerich, former reporter and editorial writer on the Chicago Inter Ocean, the Chicago Herald, and The Tribune, died yesterday at his home, 400 Deming place, after a lingering illness. He was 57 years old. Burial will be at 4 p. m. today in Rosehill cemetery after services in the cemetery chapel. About ten years ago Mr. Emerich quit newspaper work and for a time was prominent in the fight against "Pittsburgh Plus," carrying it to the Illinois legislature. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Carrie Unger Emerich; one son, Robert L. Emerich of Hollywood, Cal.; two brothers, Leonard, Belmont hotel, and Melvin L., 1530 North Dearborn parkway, and one sister, Mrs. Corinne De Marchesse of New York.

FOUR ALDERMEN FILE OBJECTIONS TO PHONE GRANT

Four of the twelve aldermen who voted against the new franchise grant to the Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday filed their objections to the ordinance with the city clerk. Their condemnations of the measure will be incorporated into the city's permanent records.

The ordinance was characterized in the aldermanic protests as "the most apologetic contract ordinance ever passed by a municipality," and reference was made to the "stench which is sure to come from the passage of this deliberate disregard for the rights of the taxpayers."

The aldermen who filed the objections were Irving J. Schreiber [5th], Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], James B. Waller [43d] and Oscar Nelson [46th]. They cited various points against the ordinance—points which they made during the long debate in the council, among them the alleged failure to obligate the company to pay all the costs of relocating its equipment when subways are built. They also charge that the ordinance is practically a perpetual grant.

TENTH VICTIM OF OIL TRAGEDY DIES AS 3 ARE BURIED

Mount Pleasant, Mich., July 22.—[Special.]—Simultaneously with the holding of the first three funerals for victims of the oil field tragedy of Saturday night, Thomas Lamb, 28, died today, the tenth fatality of the fatal fire. Funeral services for Ruby Melvin, 13, were held here at 10 o'clock this morning, with burial here, while funeral services were being held at the same time in Springfield, Tenn., for Mrs. Walter McClanahan, wife of the owner of the well, and her brother, Marion Fogate. Lamb, who underwent a blood transfusion late Tuesday, failed to rally and died at 10 o'clock. Funerals for other victims with the exception of Lamb will be held today and Thursday.

STUDENT VICTIM OF CAR CRASH TO BE BURIED HERE

Funeral services for James Stone Helm, 21 year old student at Kemper Military academy, Booneville, Mo., who was killed Tuesday in an automobile accident near Jonesboro, La., will be held tomorrow afternoon at Rosehill cemetery, where the burial will be made. The boy's father is James Helm Sr., former Chicago magazine company head and now a Dallas broker. Mr. Helm is spending the summer in Chicago. With two campus companions young Helm was making an automobile tour of the southwest, according to his father, and was killed when the automobile overturned.

Samuel Melnarski, 51, of 2105 Mango avenue, a railroad repairman, died yesterday at the West Side hospital from injuries sustained Tuesday when he was run down by an automobile at Grand and California avenues. The driver of the car, Frank Fenanen, 1116 North Central avenue, was not held. Melnarski's death brought the Cook county auto toll for 1931 to 630.

Son of L. L. Medgyesy, Hungarian Consul, Dies

The Hungarian consulate was notified by cable yesterday of the death, in Budapest, of Peter Medgyesy, 20 months' old son of the Hungarian consul to Chicago, Laszlo L. Medgyesy, 424 Melrose avenue. Consul and Mrs. Medgyesy are sailing for the United States on Aug. 20 and are expected in Chicago on Sept. 5.

Tabloids and Washington Put on Griddle

Least Within Covers of These Two Books.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

THE tabloid newspaper seems to be coming in for a lot of publicity lately. One of the most sensational plays on the New York stage this last season had to do with one. Now another glimpse is afforded in "Hot News," by Emile Gauvreau [Macaulay]. The author formerly was editor of the Graphic and is now editor of the Mirror [both Gotham tabloids], so he knows whereof he speaks.

EMILE GAUVREAU.

"Hot News" is in terse, breezy sentences that fall sharply like the rat-tat-tat of a machine gun and continue to the end of the book. It is minus any literary style and is full of the red hot adjectives with punch, the kind that paint pictures that characterize tabloid journalism. If you can read 125 pages of that sort of thing you can enjoy this book.

It tells about Peters, a young newspaper man who brought his wife and baby to Mammoth City and built it into a most sensational tabloid, the property of Richard Bunnyweather [a notoriously wealthy publisher, whose constant whip over Peters' head is circulation; his one aim in life to increase it. The methods he used, the stories he printed and the way he put them over make up the book.

It was not enough for the Comet to get the news and print it hot; it must get the news. If nothing was happening in the town it was up to the reporters to create a story out of whole cloth, and this it did with a regularity that was only equaled by the number of libel suits into which it was constantly plunged. But a suit for libel for a million really didn't ruffle the editor at all.

The paper was so wild, so dirty, so free from scruples that professors asked to be allowed to spend time in its offices in order that they might make a survey of the tabloid's methods and its readers, as they considered it "the most significant phenomenon of its kind in the journalistic period."

"They were surprised to discover," writes Mr. Gauvreau, "that the city room, where all the news went through on its way to the presses, was not, as they suspected, a den of lowbrows and rakes. The copy desk, surprisingly enough, was made up exclusively of college graduates, writing in indifferent headlines with diabolical cunning to catch the crowd. . . . Bright, intelligent, and quick witted men of their type practically starved to death on the conservative papers. It got twice as much as our mere rookies or competitors. When their friends teased them for being on the staff they replied, like Bunnyweather: 'Why, we're making people read the paper and before!'"

Another new book that will doubtless interest a great many people who were on the "broadcast" on things is "Broadcasting Merry-Go-Round," published anonymously by Horace Liveright. It is filled with quantities of vegetable matter that have long ago lost their usefulness are hurled, figuratively speaking, at all the prominent men in the national capital. Scarcely a person escapes unscathed.

Jazz and gossip that never made the headlines are given with great frankness, and while no scandalous stories are printed, still a lot of names are removed, a lot of plain talk indulged in. It is impossible to discuss such a book as this unless one knows the identity of the author, which one is thoroughly familiar with the ins and outs of political and social life in Washington. Many things ring true, while others may have a personal bias.

The author writes in an entertaining style. He goes behind the scenes and purports to tell you the reason why Dolly Gann-Alice Longworth left the Daisy Harriman-Ray Long row, and for other nationally known folks. He has a lemon for Mrs. Hoover, another for Mr. Stimson, a third for Andrew Mellon, "the man who stayed too long." His few words remarks about Lindbergh do not add to the glamour of that gentleman's reputation for courtesy.

Amusingly funny are excerpts of after dinner speeches made in the house of representatives, "the monkey house," by some of its members. I defy you to read them without laughing out loud.

Everybody in the house is indescribably funny, says Mr. Anonymous. "It is a chamber of low humor, impossibly childish assertions made as statements of fact, violent partisanship, clamor, boorishness and burlesque. Members run up and down the hall laughing and shouting at one another. A few minutes of this, only a few seconds, are given to speakers. They rush to the floor to put out a few remarks and then ask for permission to 'extend their remarks.'"

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

There is no beauty, no sweetness and light in "The Public Enemy."

Here is racketeering stripped of all romance and all glamour by the sharp knife of realism. Here is the furtive, vicious malefactor, pouncing bloody handed from assassination to assassination, portrayed with no soft lighting effects. "The Public Enemy" is the last word and, you feel, a true one in gangland exposés.

We who for months have been compelled to view and review underworld melodramas that came tumbling onto the screens one after another at breakneck speed have grown to find the duty onerous. The stories are, of necessity, so much alike! Only personalities differ and provide each tale with a semblance of variety. Edward Robinson, tough, evil, and funny, dominated "Little Caesar." Leo Carrillo, lovable and deadly, made "Hell Bound" worth seeing. And so on. Comes James Cagney in, and, as "The Public Enemy," is tough, evil, deadly, unfunny, and never for one moment lovable or pulse-stirring. The compleat gangster! Through baleful, toad-like eyes he stares upon a world that he hates and which hates him—till his enemies play a winning card and cast his horrible corpse back on the breast of the mother who bore him.

"The Public Enemy" is a keen, unsparing study in criminal psychology. The narrative seizes on its main character, Tom Powers, when he is a tiny boy and carries him on and up—which is, paradoxically, down—through a sordid adolescence to manhood that is a stigma on the word.

He lives like a rat. Like a rat he dies. Had anybody asked me suddenly as I left the theater what the picture made me think of, my unhesitating reply would have been:

"Rats and rat poison!"

[May I never be called upon to take an intelligence test!]

So much for the story. You know it.

What should interest you is the fact that James Cagney acts as he does because he knows his underworld. The son of a saloonkeeper, he was born and reared in the "Guerilla Jungle" of New York. Its associations never made a criminal of the carroty-headed young Irishman, but he emerged sated with knowledge of its ways. His education included much distorted knowledge of things politic, strategic, vandalic, diabolic, alcoholic, chaotic, despotic, terroristic. "Ic's" a-plenty in the bad lands' course of learning! But the jungle knows no ethics. . . .!

Kubec Glasmon, who, with John Bright, wrote the story, for years ran a drug store in Chicago frequented by the sort of folks he tells about. He informed me that, from behind his counter, he observed, received confidences and made mental notes. Finally he wrote a book called "Beer and Blood"—or was it the other way round? —which Warner Brothers snapped up. From it "The Public Enemy" evolved.

Hokum which, however, doesn't prevent "The Public Enemy" from being the greatest—because the honestest—gangster cinema ever made.

QUALITY: Excellent.
ACTING: Splendid.
DIRECTION: Highly intelligent.
PHOTOGRAPHY, SOUND, SETS, SCENERY, COSTUMES, Etc.: Fine.

STORY: The biological urge of a Russian grand duke for the leading lady of a Chinese troupe performing in Moscow, who is also beloved of a young officers of his staff, brings dire results.

REMARKS. The tale is effectively presented, with incidental music and dancing. Anna May Wong, whom we used to see and admire on the silent screen when she played with her husband, Sessue Hayakawa, is an appealing emotional actress. She can both sing and dance, which she does in this movie. One wishes that she would drape her legs for the latter, because, truth is, the lady is a bit knock-kneed. She presents you with the unique experience of listening to a Chinese woman singing a German song in a Russian cabaret. Somehow it makes you feel a little nutty. The lines are all in German, but the story is entirely comprehensible to non-Deutschverstehers without reference to the English synopsis on the program. You'll like the dancing and the music.

See you soon!

NEW NEVADA BISHOP HEARS DIVORCE COLONY CALLED BARBARIANS

Los Angeles, July 22.—(AP)—The youngest Catholic bishop in America was consecrated head of the new diocese of Nevada today, as a throng of well wishers heard that state described as "that utopian Mecca of ceaseless, seething, marital confusion."

The Right Rev. Thomas K. Gorman, 38 year old of Pasadena, who became a bishop following an unusually successful editorship of "The Tidings," a Catholic paper, will reside in Reno.

Reference was made to the divorce laws of Nevada by the Very Rev. Bernard J. Dolan, chancellor of the Los Angeles diocese, who delivered the consecration sermon.

"If Barbarism prevails in Nevada today," he continued, "it is because other states have failed in their task of civilizing the Barbarians."

Mr. Dolan said the "Barbarians seek surcease in that utopian Mecca of ceaseless, seething, martial confusion, made possible by the laws of Nevada."

"We hold no brief for Nevada," he added, "and we cannot condone the laxity of morals whether in the individual or in the state where Bishop Gorman is called upon to rule. Laws that facilitate the evasion of one's sacred duty to God, to home and to family should find no place in civilized society."

Science Still Ponders Riddle of Fixing Sex

Dr. Ezra Allen Explains Present Theories.

Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—Sex seems to originate either in a control of oxygen, of the heat production of metabolism, of a still unidentified substance, or in chromosomes, according to a summary of the latest scientific studies reported to the biological laboratory here.

The summary is by Ezra Allen, Ph. D., associate professor of histology-embryology of New York Homeopathic Medical college and Flower hospital. It deals with sex development in mammals, including human beings.

One definitely known fact about origin of sex, said Dr. Allen, is its relation to a peculiar shaped chromosome. Chromosomes are threadlike bodies in all living cells, which determine hereditary characters. They are common to all plants and animals. Man has 48 chromosomes in each cell.

But when a human life begins in the union of two cells, one male, the other female, there are only 24 chromosomes in each of the uniting cells. Their sum makes the normal 48, a number which remains constant through all the thousands of millions of cells that later develop into an adult man or woman.

In the original male cell one chromosome sometimes is different in size from the other 23. Scientists know it as the Y chromosome. Just about exactly half the male cells have the odd size Y, while the others have a 24th chromosome like the other 23.

If the Y chromosome cell unites with the female cell, the sex is male. If the other type unites, a female develops.

"For some 20 years," said Dr. Allen, "the problem of sex was thought to be settled in some way by the presence or absence of the Y chromosome, but within the last 10 years evidence has been accumulating to indicate that other chromosomes take part in sex differentiation. In its form thus modified, this is the chromosomal theory of sex determination."

But now scientists find they can reverse sex in lower orders of animal life, and even produce both sexes in the same individual. So other explanations for sex are developing.

"Goldschmidt," said Dr. Allen, "as a result of crossing different races of gipsy moths, was able to produce any degree of intersexuality. He accounted for sex differentiation by assuming a male and a female producing substance in addition to the chromosomes.

"Oscar Riddle has proposed a difference in the rate of metabolism as more fundamental. It has long been known that the higher rate of metabolism is characteristic of the male. This theory has much evidence in its favor, as sex may be reversed by conditions which bring about a change in the fundamental metabolic rate."

The oxygen theory is proposed by Joyet-Lavergne and based on the fact that in part of the cell the male has a higher oxygen potential than the female.

"It would seem fair to conclude that at the present time," said Dr. Allen, "sex is regarded as not unalterably fixed in the fertilized egg, and that most adult mammals are possibly neither wholly male nor wholly female, but each individual may have one or more touches of either sex."

U. S. 1930 MARRIAGES DECREASE 8.5% AS DIVORCES DECLINE 4.2%

Washington, D. C., July 22.—(AP)—Marriages decreased 8.5 per cent and divorces 4.2 per cent in the United States during 1930.

The census bureau, completing compilations three months more quickly than in any previous year, today tallied 1,128,180 marriages in 1930, as compared with 1,232,559 in 1929. The 1930 divorces numbered 191,630, as against 201,468 in 1929.

Marriages had increased 4.2 per cent from 1928 to 1929.

In addition to the usual computations, the census bureau included a "request number," the relative number of marriages to each divorce. For the entire United States, 5.9 marriages were reported for each divorce, as against 6.1 in 1929.

Nevada had only 2.3 marriages to each divorce, but even then it led all the states in rate of marriages per 1,000 population with 67, as against a rate of 9.2 for the United States.

New York and the District of Columbia, each with only one cause for absolute divorce, reported, respectively, 57.5 and 24.5 marriages to each divorce, thus leading the list.

150,000 Urge Mother Seton Be Named Saint

American Women Carry Petition to Pope.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

ROME, July 22.—The initial step toward proclamation of the first American saint was taken today. A delegation of fifty American women, representing the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, with headquarters in the United States, arrived in Rome to present to Pope Pius twenty-nine books, containing 150,000 signatures to a petition asking him to authorize further consideration of the process of canonization of Elizabeth Ann Bayley Seton, known throughout America as Mother Seton. The delegation will be received by the pope tomorrow.

The delegation includes women from New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Montreal, Baltimore, Cincinnati, St. Louis, San Antonio, Ottawa, Wilmington, and Chicago.

The process for the canonization of Mother Seton was begun some thirty years ago by the late Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore. It was resumed by Msgr. Curley as soon as he succeeded Cardinal Gibbons as archbishop of Baltimore. Progress, however, has been extremely slow. Now, however, an effort is being made to hasten it, through the pope's personal intervention. Probably another ten years will elapse before all formalities are performed.

First it is necessary to complete the diocesan process begun in the archdiocese of Baltimore, which has the object to inquire minutely into all phases of the life of the person it is proposed to canonize. When the diocesan process is completed its findings must be submitted to the congregation of rites in Rome. There the so-called apostolic process begins. The pope appoints a "cardinal monente," under whose care the entire evidence is reviewed and new witnesses are called to clarify any points which remain obscure. A promoter of the faith, or so-called "devil's advocate," is appointed to raise every possible objection to canonization, while a number of advocates empowered to plead their cases before the congregation of rites answer his objections and do everything possible to further the cause of canonization.

After several reviews of the evidence, the case goes to the general congregation of rites consisting of cardinals and consultors meeting under the chairmanship of the pope. If the vote in this congregation is favorable, the pope issues a decree proclaiming the heroic nature of the virtues of the person whom it is wished to canonize, who must have performed at least four miracles during his or her lifetime. For this purpose the entire process detailed above must be repeated.

If after all that is accomplished and beatification follows a papal decree, it is necessary to prove that at least two miracles have been performed after beatification by the person whom it is proposed to canonize. As soon as sufficient evidence has been gathered, the entire process already twice gone through is repeated, ending with the pope issuing a decree of canonization.

ITALIAN CONSUL, HERE SEES BENEFITS FROM DUCE, POPE DEBATE

A new conception of life in its relationship to church and state will grow out of the present conflict between Pope Pius and Mussolini in the opinion of Guiseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general at Chicago. The consul spoke yesterday at the luncheon of the Collegiate club of Chicago in the Great Northern hotel.

Mr. Castruccio discussed the basic differences between Il Duce and the Vatican. His views, the consul said, were those of a private citizen and an interested onlooker rather than those of an official agent of the Italian government.

Summing up, the consul said that the conflict arises from a contrast between material and spiritual ideals and because these two ideals are irreconcilable the controversy between the adherents of both will continue as long as "men are men."

"When the concordat was signed two years ago, returning $100,000,000 to the Vatican and giving the pope extraterritorial right to the Vatican City, we hoped that peace would be reached," Mr. Castruccio said. "But this could not be because of the conflict between the material and spiritual.

"It is not a disagreement in the matter of faith. It is rather a difficulty which cannot be overcome because of this contrast between needs and aspirations.

"Mussolini knows that we must fight to maintain the unity of the state," the consul declared. "The state can be compared with a boat. If the occupants quarrel among themselves the boat is likely to sink and all will be lost. If the state is wrecked we are all wrecked."

"The present controversy is not a dangerous one," he added. "We welcome it, because we know that a duel between men like the pope and Mussolini will bring about a new conception of life which will be of benefit to us all."

Sally Takes 100 Children Today to See Marie Dressler

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Today holds much in the way of enjoyment for the one hundred boys and girls who have won invitations to my party this afternoon at the Chicago theater. We're going to see a marvelous picture, "Politics" with Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, the funniest pair on the screen and we're going to actually meet William Hall, the famous movie star, who is at the Chicago theater this week acting as master of ceremonies. With all this to look forward to I hope that not one of you who has been invited will find any reason for staying away.

It's an important day, too, for my young friends who want to go to Ravinia on next Thursday for our "Army and Navy" day party. I shall select my guests this morning so I hope every letter is in my office by this time. It will be such a lovely party, too, for the program will be staged on the broad, green lawn of Ravinia and we can view it from our places which will be in the open. The infantry will come down from its barracks in Fort Sheridan and the Blue Jackets will journey to Ravinia from the Great Lakes Naval Station to entertain us and we'll even have detachments of marines and the cavalry to perform.

The writers of the hundred best letters will be invited to this delightful party and their names will appear in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. Be sure to watch for it!

Doctor Makes Hidden Germs Easy to See

A. I. Kendall Thrills Experts by New Method.

In a lecture delivered before a distinguished gathering in McKinlock campus, Dr. Arthur I. Kendall, professor of bacteriology at Northwestern university yesterday made public a discovery which his colleagues hailed as the most important victory over disease that has been achieved since the discoveries of Louis Pasteur.

DR. A. I. KENDALL.

The reported significance of the discovery is contained in a new method of finding and isolating bacteria which hitherto have remained invisible.

Briefly, the discovery comprises a new method by which bacteria can be filtered out and isolated. According to Dr. Kendall's colleagues at the university, this discovery probably will open the way for a more thorough and exact knowledge of such diseases as influenza, rheumatism, infantile paralysis and sleeping sickness.

While the scientist's experiments so far have been limited, he postulated in the summary of his paper that a majority, if not all, known bacteria are subject to this new method of isolation.

Applause, unusually spirited and prolonged for a scientific gathering, was accorded the mild mannered professor as he concluded his lecture and stepped from the rostrum. As the applause died down, Dr. Edward C. Rosenow, head of the bacteriology research division of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., rose and declared:

"We have just listened to the revelation of a great discovery. Dr. Kendall has found a way to make old bacteria take on new form. That in itself is a great accomplishment for a lifetime. The future will show the greatness of his contribution to science."

Dr. Kendall is 54 years old and has been a member of the staff of the Northwestern medical school since 1910. The experiments which gave rise to his discovery have been conducted for a year with rabbits and with patients at the Passavant and Evanston hospitals who were suffering with typical diseases. Through simulating as closely as possible the actual conditions that occur in the human body, Dr. Kendall is said to be able to develop a culture medium which he calls "K" medium. That will change many bacteria from invisible to visible form, thus revealing them to the eyes of scientists for the first time.

The essential ingredient of this medium, according to Dr. Kendall, is a small intestine of man, swine, dog or rabbit, chemically treated. The scientist is now preparing a second paper in which he will describe completely his "K" medium so that its manufacture and testing will be possible in other laboratories.

"The discovery places at the command of the physician a means of determining exactly the character of the microbe causing disease," was another comment heard in the halls of the medical school.

Opera with Its Plot from Scotland Has Revival at Ravinia

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The mood of midsummer calm now resting on musical affairs, including those of Ravinia, brought it to pass last night that the music center on the north shore should uncover those relics of a bygone operatic era that go under the name of "Lucia di Lammermoor."

It is no doubt the duty of every well conducted opera company to pay attention to specimens of the past as well as tendencies of the present. Ravinia performs "Marouf" and "La Rondine," and prepares to present "Peter Ibbetson." It also does "Lucia."

One can hardly say that even such experts of the lyric stage as Florence Macbeth and Mario Chamlee, not to mention Mario Basiola and Conductor Gennaro Papi really revivified "Lucia." At the same time they did marvelous things in the way of galvanizing its aged joints to make it take on some semblance of action.

True, the work has its musical high spots. There is the famous Sextet, for one. Miss Macbeth had all the brilliant glories of the Mad scene; Mr. Chamlee was given his solo among the grave stones. All these were sung with uncommon beauty of tone and extraordinary technical finesse. Incidentally, one of the musical high spots was the harp solo played by Joseph Vito in the orchestra during the first scene. It was a revelation of what first class harp playing can be. By these incidents the performance of "Lucia" is most fondly remembered.

Marie Sidenius Zendt appeared in a recital at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon, in company with Hans Hess, the cellist. Mrs. Zendt's appearances were brief, being confined to Bellini's "Qui la voce," Bruch's "Ave Maria," and some Danish songs, but it was the occasion of some of the most exquisite singing of the season in matters of purity of tone, expressive turn of phrase, and projection of language. Mr. Hess in some Spanish works, also more extended pieces by Bantock and Boellmann, displayed a fine, resonant tone and authoritative mastery of his instrument.

No Harm in Making a Siren of Yourself, If You Feel the Urge

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It is simply amazing what women can do with, and to, and for, themselves these days.

There disappeared from a certain circle about three months ago a woman whose hair was at that ugly graying stage where it is neither gray nor the original shade, but a motley looking thing, discouraging to arrange. She was a badly groomed person all the way through. She had let her figure go and just generally registered "slack" all over.

Anyway, she disappeared to Europe, where, 'tis rumored, among other things, she got a face lift. She swears she didn't. Only, the complete change for the better gives rise to the face lift suspicion.

The woman has means. She turned herself over to a beauty doctor, did what she was told about reducing, and shed eighteen pounds. Every day she got a facial and every day she had that head of hers treated to a scalp massage. Then she had her hair colored—the cleverest bit of coloring work I've seen.

When the beauty doctor got through with her she turned herself over to one of the most famous Paris dressmakers, who saw to it that she was hatted and shod perfectly. She came back looking for all the world as if she'd found and bathed in the fountain of youth. But the point in telling the story is that she said she could have done it just as well right here at home. But she didn't.

Recently I read about a certain well known author whom an old acquaintance ran into accidentally. He commented on the new type of attractive woman said author was representing this year. Details were omitted, but I judge she'd taken on the hair coloring, figure, and dress of quite an opposite type woman.

It isn't hard to believe that some day in the future we will be changing our beauty style very much after the fashion of dress style changes. And what is there to condemn about the experiment of making an entirely new type of siren of yourself if you feel the urge. It isn't the change, but the upkeep, that will deter a lot of women from the experiment, I imagine.

Anyway, as I say, it is just amazing what a women can do with, by, and for herself, given the urge to be a stunner.

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

Food Talk.

Mrs. H. P. asks that directions for making a fresh peach icing suitable for a white cake be printed in this column.

Peach icing may be of either of two varieties, a white mountain boiled type or a confectioner's. The former appeals to those who enjoy cake with a thick fluffy icing, and this kind of icing is nice when there is no cake accompaniment. This kind of icing is almost as good as a peach ice cream between the layers and on top the cake.

An icing sufficient for a two layer cake requires 1½ cups of granulated sugar and ⅓ cup of water. Put these into a smooth surfaced pan, stir until the sugar is dissolved, and wipe down any sugar that adheres to the sides of the pan. Place over a flame and adjust the thermometer on the side of the pan. Boil at a moderate rate of speed to 250 degrees F. without stirring. Should crystals form on side of pan wipe them down with a wet cloth wrapped securely around the tines of a fork.

Cool the sirup until the bubbles disappear, then pour slowly over the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, beating continuously during pouring. Plan the work so that the whites have been beaten just when the sirup is ready to pour on. Whip until very stiff.

Have prepared one cup of chopped fine flavored peaches of the free stone variety. Add to the icing. The peaches should be freshly peeled and chopped, so that they may not become discolored. As soon as the peaches are added the icing becomes considerably thinner. Continue beating with the rotary egg beater until the consistency is stiff enough to hold its shape. This should not require more than three or four minutes of beating. It may be necessary on a warm day to let the icing stand for a while in a bowl of cold water.

Add ½ teaspoon vanilla. Vanilla, or a little almond, or pistachio flavor is particularly good with peaches. Spread the icing between the layers of a freshly baked yet thoroughly cooled cake, then over the top and sides. If the sirup for the icing is cooked to the stage suggested, the icing will be of the proper stiffness. But there is only one sure way of knowing when 250 degrees F. is reached and that is with a thermometer.

Judging the sirup by a spinning thread is not an accurate test, because sirup begins to spin a thread far below this temperature and the sirup must be cooked to this temperature to be able to take care of the juice in the fresh peaches.

Let Home Go Without Extra Curtain, but Keep Up with Husband

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What do you think of a husband who has a wife that goes to business every day so they can live in a better apartment and have things decent? She spends her money carefully and on things for the home. He goes out night after night and refuses to take his wife with him. He comes home with drink on his breath, and the suspicion is that another woman is enjoying the fruits of the wife's economies."

We think of the husband, as every one would, as a pretty rotten break to get with the marriage license. On the other hand there may be his side to the story. And there is the problem behind that again of complete incompatibility of temperaments.

The wife may be the kind who, although having married with eyes open to the fact that she was marrying a gadabout sort, is bent on converting him quickly into the home parking species. And she may have gone about reforming him in the wrong way. Granted her economies are all based on such legitimate things as making the home more attractive, there are in these partnership arrangements other things to be considered than the house furnishings. Temperamental adjustments, for instance.

If a woman marries a man who wants to go out evenings, she is better off if she arranges to be the woman he goes out with by looking as if she, too, enjoyed the outings. By seeing as if she enjoyed them. Then, between times, she can manage to get the home circle an appeal by having guests in for the evening. The point is that you cannot turn a complete loving gentleman into a home radiator overnight, if ever.

Woman's love, of course, is for the home she can show off proudly to her friends. But under certain marriage circumstances it might be better for the stability of the companionship to compromise with the gadabout temperament and let the house suffer the want of a new rug or curtain.

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and death of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation within the family. A porter's lodge, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of opening a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Forman Winstead, only son of Henry Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. The Rutherfords don't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined Sally's milkman helps her to make the Shack a success before she discovers by that time she is receiving the court of Lowndes Jennings, "a man of her class." Lowndes asks Sally to go to his apartment to look at ancient glass.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

OUTRAGED PRIDE.

The car went swiftly to a quiet street and stopped before an old house, one of the old Charleston houses, with verandas, the lower one of which opened a door opening upon the street. Lowndes opened this and led up through stairways at the end of the porches to the third story veranda which was the penthouse to his rooms. A deferential Eph met them, receiving his master's hat and greatcoat.

"O Lowndes, how lovely!" she exclaimed at sight of the large living room, softly lighted. "But you have got such perfect taste!" She ran about, like a child. "This is the same glass, only larger specimens," she exclaimed excitedly. She stood there looking around her like a pleased child.

"Sally! I want to see you sitting in my chair, at my table, under my roof! O Sally, please!" he cried. And gently he forced her into his own favorite chair, and took her coat and hat. The lamplight played on her ruffled brown hair, her flushed cheek, her wide, brown eyes with a gleam like that of wine held to the light. "Darling, darling, darling, to have you here, under my roof! The sweetest, dearest, most beautiful girl in all the world!" he exclaimed rapturously. Sally always went to his head.

The enraptured young man fell on his knees beside her chair and taking her soft, warm face between his palms, pressed his own face against hers. "Sally, Sally! And I have to leave you!" he cried poignantly. "How shall I bear parting from you, darling?"

"It will be only for a little while Lowndes, dear," she consoled him. "The Bahamas aren't at the other end of the world, you blessed goose!" "No place away from you is at the other end of the world," he told her fiercely. "Sally, put your arms around my neck, sweetheart. Let me feel that you're real, that you're here!" She clasped her slender arms around his neck with innocent passion and was in turn clasped close beside her.

Presently Eph knocked respectively and brought in, unbidden, a marrel-ous meal on an old pewter tray, so that Lowndes had the delight of being served with his beloved under his own roof, of watching her serve him, deftly arranged a small table and Lowndes sat opposite Sally. Never nectar he ate? He didn't know. He did know that never again would he be able to recapture the flavor of that food.

Set in the rush bottomed chair.

It was a gay, happy, intimate meal. They lingered over it. When Eph had finally removed the table Sally wandered around the room, from object to object, exclaiming over this, admiring that. Lowndes kept beside her, following her joyously around her. He was proudly possessive; he felt that he had snatched a few exquisite moments from frowning fate, and he was ridiculously happy. Sally was appreciatively examining a quaint old print of a ship, when the downstairs bell rang. Lowndes' arm dropped from her, and he turned with an exclamation of dismay. Eph had entered the room and caught his master's dismayed glance. He knew exactly what to do. Gathering up all the girl's possessions, he beckoned her, and she followed him automatically into a smaller room.

A moment or two later she could hear the laughing voices of several men come through the closed door of the room into which she had been shown, a small bedchamber, clean and very simply furnished with old chairs and matting on the floor. Her hat, coat, purse and gloves lay on the bed, which was covered by a white spread. All this she could see in the light that came through the transom above the door.

Somebody was laughing loudly in the outer room, and somebody else was joining in the laughing one. Sally recognized the voice—it was Rodney Hall, the most prying and inquisitive man in town, a veritable gossip! No wonder Lowndes had been dismayed at the thought of Rodney Hall discovering Sally in his rooms! For a moment she had a mad sense of astonishment, of unreality, of being trapped.

Sally had obeyed Eph's gesture and Lowndes' quick look automatically, without thought, not understanding, not at all frightened, but merely obedient to what seemed to be Lowndes' unspoken wish. But now as she sat in the rush bottomed chair beside the door which she herself had bolted, she experienced a rush of dismayed astonishment, of dumb surprise, of something akin to panic. It all but stupefied her. Why was she here, behind a bolted door, in a colored man's bedroom? How, in heaven's name had such a catastrophe occurred to her? It had come about so swiftly, changing a happy and natural circumstance into something stealthy, clandestine, that her head reeled. She put her hand to her forehead, to discover that it was damp. The situation was impossible, unbearable; worse yet, unpardonably ugly. She shouldn't have come here at all, she told herself angrily. And she began to ask herself unavoidable and unanswerable questions: Why had Lowndes put her in for this insufferable concealment? Why hadn't he treated her openly? Why hadn't he told those boys in the next room the simple truth: that she, his promised wife, had come here tonight on a matter of business. They would have understood. They knew her and wouldn't think of questioning her word. Nobody could misunderstand. Why, then, had Lowndes allowed her to be hidden here in Eph's bedroom, as though her presence must be concealed, as though it were wrong for her to be found there? It was intolerable, it put her in a false and absurd position. Her pride, her honesty, her personal dignity recoiled and revolted, as a child from scalding water. She began to suffer then the first pangs of the pain that she must suffer because of Lowndes Jennings.

How long those visitors never go! Presently she ventured to peep through the transom to see if by any chance they were making some movement of departure. Then she heard him speak in his clear and penetrating voice:

"So you're going to the Bahamas with them? And then the date is to be announced! I knew that girl meant business, Lowndes, the first time I saw her with her. My aunt, you're a lucky devil!"

"I don't know what you mean," said the goaded Lowndes, gruffly.

"Say, you fellows, Lowndes doesn't know what I mean!" jeered the other. "Well, old thing, for your enlightenment I'll say I mean wedding bells, white satin and orange blossoms, beautiful bridesmaids, tables of presents, a slice of a wedding feast, rice, old shoes, and old man Reinert footing the bill—that's what I mean, as well you know! Let me repeat, you're a lucky devil, Lowndes! Not every deserving young man comes by a really soft snap like Cosma." And he laughed lightly, and sipped his glass. "And I sincerely trust you're good enough for her, old scout. That young lady deserves the best."

"The young lady I marry will deserve the best. And I also hope I'll be good enough for her. At least, I'll try to be," said Lowndes grandly, adding darkly, sitting there behind the door of Eph's room, did hear?

"The report is true, then, Lowndes? I've been hearing it for some time. I knew the announcement was imminent. I have reason to believe that your family are quite aware of the rumor, and they have never troubled to deny it."

Lowndes concealed his annoyance and apprehension as best he could. In his mind he damned them all heartily for blundering asses. He managed to reply with smiling nonchalance:

"What's the good of my saying anything? All of you seem to know much more of my private affairs than I do."

"O, it's true enough, the rumor of Lowndes' wedding-to-be," said Rodney authoritatively. "Do you deny it, Lowndes?"

"I don't deny that I hope to be married after a while," said Lowndes calmly. "That was a good answer for you!

"Engaged to Miss Reinert?"

Lowndes fixed his eyes upon the speaker disapprovingly. "I am mentioning no names," he said coldly.

"You do so hate to boast, don't you?" said Rodney, with mockery. "But I know the report is true. The girl is young, pretty, healthy, wealthy. She has to pay a price for all that—a thumping big price! Wherefore, Cosma is going to lead her to the altar."

"Don't be such a jealous ass, Rodney," said Sanford Hope sturdily. "If Cosma marries the young lady, she'll get her money's worth. Ten to one she makes him a good husband."

"Plenty to one she makes him be one," said Rodney, and laughed. "Ask the boss of the ranch."

Lowndes said nothing, but his expression showed that he was displeased. Hope hastily changed the conversation, and as Lowndes still pleaded headache, and really seemed a bit restive and nervous, within the hour the men left. Had Sally, by any chance, heard what that blithering ass had said? The door had been closed, of course, but then, Hall had the sort of voice that could pierce granite, much less wood!

Miss Eleanor Follansbee to Wed July 25

BY THALIA

THE marriage of Miss Eleanor Follansbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee of 39 East Schiller street, to Helmuth H., Freiherr von Erffa of Schloss Ahorn, Germany, and Cambridge, Mass., is to take place very quietly without any fuss or feathers at all on Saturday morning in New York City.

According to Mrs. Follansbee, it's going to be pretty nearly a "justice of the peace" wedding, with no attendants and just members of the family present. The ceremony is to be read in the apartment of a friend of the Follansbees, Mr. Martin Egan, and will be followed by an informal wedding breakfast party.

Freiherr von Erffa is studying at Harvard summer school, so they'll just take a short honeymoon on Cape Cod and then go to Cambridge. They're to have Elmwood, formerly Amy Lowell's house and now owned by the Kingsley Porters of Boston, for two months, and will then go to housekeeping in a small apartment near the university. Freiherr von Erffa will begin being an instructor in the fine arts department at Harvard in the fall.

There's some confusion about his name and title. He's quite generally called Baron, but that isn't accurate, as Freiherr is a German title a few degrees up in the scale above a baron. Americans can't seem to get it in their heads that Freiherr isn't his name. He is taking out American citizenship papers, but that doesn't affect his title, and so the complication will continue.

Miss Follansbee, who has been with her mother, at the summer place, "Across the Lake," at Traverse City, went east a few days ago for a visit with Miss Mariquita Villard, daughter of the Harold G. Villards of New York City, at New Canaan, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Follansbee are going east today for the wedding. Miss Eleanor is having a pre-wedding party in New York tomorrow evening.

Millinery Styles Lean to Second Empire in Small Way.

It really looks as though these ridiculous and charming little Empress Eugenie, sit-on-the-top-of-the-head hats that are indicated in the advance millinery styles are going to be taken up, although somebody who knows all about fashions and trends and such things told me several weeks ago that people in the trade thought they were much too extreme and would have to be modified considerably before they'd be accepted generally. Mrs. Warren Wright Jr., was observed wearing a chic black one at the races the other day, and several others have been seen, also at the races.

The Tavern is to have a midsummer dance a week from tomorrow night. The Tavern, as the announcement says, is well up in the stratosphere, and is the coolest place in town for social diversion, as its members have found during the recent hot spells. There's usually a breeze on the terrace and always one on the "boat deck" even on the hottest evenings.

The assurance, just recently given by his doctors, that "Mose" Moss is going to be all right, even though it will be a long, long time before he's entirely fit again, is a cheering relief after the days of uncertainty that followed the terrible plane accident at Palwaukee field on July 4, in which Milo Lovgren was killed and Mose was so badly hurt. Everybody likes Mose awfully well and they were pretty well sunk about the accident.

Mrs. W. E. Clow, Daughter and Friend Resting in Wisconsin.

Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., her daughter, Francise, and Marjorie Horton, Mrs. Samuel Rinaker's daughter, have gone up to the Island club in Wisconsin for a week's rest. Mrs. Clow has been slowly recovering from a long siege of pneumonia, and the girls are pretty tired after all the day and night rushing around they did during the polo matches.

Peregrinatory—Miss Marjorie Montgomery Ward and Mrs. Fitch Harrison Haskell of New York City, who are motoring in the west, stopped at the Yosemite National park for a week's visit. They are taking the route from Yosemite up the Redwood highway to Oregon and Washington, and from there into Canada. They plan to be back in Chicago about the middle of September. . . . Chicagoans who are scheduled to be aboard the Europa when she sails tonight include the James Minottos and their youngsters, Edith Cummings and Eleanor Holden, Mrs. James Clow, and Miss Louisa Burrows . . . recent arrivals at Baden-Baden in the Black Forest were Mrs. Armin W. Brand, Miss Jane Brand, and Mrs. Frank R. Rahn of the Drake, Mrs. R. H. Darrell of Highland Park, Mrs. Philip B. Hoyt, and the Edward F. Swifts. . . .

The Clarence Norton Goodwins of Lake Forest are giving a series of dinners this week for their various house guests. Tonight they are having a dinner for Brig. Gen. Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe, K. C. M. G., a brother of the Baroness Unger-Sternberg, and tomorrow evening they are to entertain for George Harcourt of the Royal Academy and the Royal Society of Portrait Painters, who is doing a portrait of Mary Regnery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Regnery of Hinsdale. On Saturday they'll have still another dinner for Mr. Harcourt's two daughters for Miss Regnery.

The marriage of Mary Tilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Tilt, to Frederic C. Bartlett Jr. is to take place this afternoon at the Charles A. Tilt apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive with only a small group of friends and relatives present. Mrs. Arthur D. Bissell is to be her sister's only attendant, and James Simpson Jr. will be Mr. Bartlett's best man. A reception will follow the ceremony. Mr. Bartlett and his bride are sailing in a few days for Europe, and will join Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Sr. in London. On their return, they are to reside in Mr. Bartlett's father's apartment at 2301 Astor street.

Pure Milk Group Gives $250 for Feeding Children

The Pure Milk association, composed of 20,000 dairy farmers in the Chicago territory, yesterday presented William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, with a check for $250 to be used in providing pure milk to needy school children.

This makes a otal of $1,250 the association has presented to the schools. President W. E. McQueen presented the check in behalf of the association.

Funds used in the provision of free milk was derived voluntarily last Christmas. The association members contributed ten cents from every hundred pounds of milk they sold. The money, amounting to $10,000, has been portioned out through the various relief agencies during the summer.

Mary Garden Asks Writ Against Perfume Makers

New York, July 22.—(AP)—An answer to an action brought by Mary Garden, opera singer, objecting to continued use of her name on cosmetics, was filed in the Supreme court today by Parfumerie Rigaud, Inc. It declared the singer gave the right to use her name to Dr. F. S. Mason, American agent of the French perfumers in 1910 and a legal right to it was contained in patents granted in 1918.

Mothers Asking Longer Visits at Algonquin

There are stacks and stacks of letters that come to the United Charities every day, but they are not all appeals for aid. Many are letters of appreciation for help given, penciled on scratch paper, usually by the hand of a mother whose cares are lifted for a time during a vacation at Camp Algonquin.

"I am doing fine out here with my three children," a mother wrote. "I want them to gain. The air is lovely and I need a rest so bad that I wish you'd let us stay two weeks longer. It's doing us a lot of good, because in the city I couldn't gain a pound. I've gained three in less than two weeks."

From Mrs. G., whose husband has been unable to find work since Christmas, 1929, came the following:

"I think it would be wonderful for the twins and Jeanette if we could stay two weeks longer."

In both cases the mothers had to be refused longer vacations because the waiting list is already so long that the requests can not all be filled. In order to make room for the greatest possible number the 200 allotment of undernourished children who stay all summer was cut to 100, so that more mothers could go every two weeks.

Your gift will help finance these vacations, which are needed more this year than ever before. Effort is made to build up the families with wholesome food to counteract the ravages of the past winter of unemployment and undernourishment.

The swimming coach, Harold Sweeney, and the instructor, Guy Williams, superintended the events, and the winners were awarded medals, bracelets, rings, and pencil sets.

The fathers and sons baseball game which followed the meet was a 5 inning game, with the fathers leading up until the end of the third inning, when they looked as though they might give out. Playing on the fathers' team were John Coleman Jr., Hempstead Washburne, Robert Gardner, Benjamin Bryan, George Blossom Jr., Leslie Wheeler, David Peck, Thomas Ryan, and Donald Douglas.

On the boys' side were Leslie Wheeler Jr., Billy Mann, Stuart Harwood, Hobert Chatfield-Taylor, Benny Bryan, John Coleman III., Ted Wacker, Charles Spalding, and Kenneth Harlan. Philip D. Armour coached the game, and Lake Forest Officer Joseph Dunakin, who was on duty nearby, was called in to umpire the game.

The audience included the T. Philip Swifts, the Philip Armours, the Vaughn Spaldings, the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bennett, the Alex Revells Jr., the John Curtises, Mrs. Lawrence Scudder, Mrs. Farwell Winston, the Ralph H. Pooles, the Gilbert E. Porters, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dick Jr., Mrs. Arthur Pope, Mrs. Wallace Winter, and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Secretary Hurley and Secretary Lamont were the ranking guests at the dinner tonight by Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, at the Metropolitan club as the opening festivity of the annual convention of the National Aeronautic association. Senator Bingham is the association's president. The sessions will open tomorrow in the Italian garden of the Mayflower. Amelia Earhart Putnam, vice president, was the only woman guest at the dinner. Orville Wright was in the company. Senator Morrow, still a guest at the White House, attended as one of the governors of the association. His son-in-law, Col. Lindbergh, who is a member of the advisory board, was not able to be present.

Ambassador Charles G. Dawes left the White House this morning for New York to sail this afternoon for England.

Mrs. Walter Schoellkopf of Buffalo, wife of a former first secretary of the American embassy in Madrid, who has recently been ordered to the state department for duty, returned here today from Europe, Mr. Schoellkopf having preceded her. They will occupy their new home recently completed here.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 22.—[Special.]—A five foot five Chicago girl, Frances Dee, is the envy of all the other leading women and stars who know her. Frances, who was a member of class of 1931 at the University of Chicago, left college, however, in the middle of her course to become an actress. She can eat anything she wants, at any time, and doesn't get plump. Her weight always stays at 115.

I can vouch for Frances' appetite, because I ran second to her over the Paramount lunch table just an hour after Frances ate breakfast.

She told Peggy Shannon about her two meals in an hour and Miss Shannon and the other girls who are trying to stay thin nearly mobbed her. Miss Dee possesses one of the much sought long term contracts. Others are Miss Shannon and Sylvia Sidney. Those two divide the rôles that had been promised to Clara Bow. Poor Joan Crawford never eats more than two square meals a month.

Willie Hoppe, the long time record holder at balkline billiards, is the newest sports and pastimes champion to invade talkies. He will demonstrate for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, through slow movies.

Walter Huston's son, John Huston, has prepared the screen story and dialogue for Walter's next appearance, which will be in the rôle of an old New England lighthouse keeper in "Heart and Hand." William Wyler will direct.

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Prince Vasili Romanoff, 24 year old brother of Grand Duke Alexander of Russia, today obtained a license to wed Natalie Galitzine, 23, also of the Russian nobility. They are to be married Saturday at Beechurst, Long Island.

Prince Vasili, who prefers to be known as Mr. Romanoff and does not use his title here, until recently was employed by the Sikorsky Aircraft corporation.

He is the son of Alexander and Zenia Romanoff and a nephew of the late czar of Russia. He was born in what was formerly St. Petersburg, which in turn became Petrograd and finally Leningrad, as Russia underwent political changes. Miss Galitzine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Galitzine of New York.

Russell Pierce and Bride Starting for Argentina

Russell Pierce, former director of publicity at the University of Chicago, left yesterday with his bride, the former Elizabeth Humphrey of 4826 Dorchester avenue, for Buenos Aires, following their marriage at St. Paul's Episcopal church, 50th street and Dorchester avenue.

Mr. Pierce for the last three years has been co-manager of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising agency's Argentine office. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago. There he was a Chi Psi. Mrs. Pierce attended the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Virginia had just become an aunt for the first time and from her actions we all thought she was not very well pleased. Recently while arranging fresh flowers in a vase a large red ant fell out and ran across the table toward her. I called to her to destroy it. Instead, she calmly picked it up and carried it to the door, saying as she went, "I won't kill you this time, 'cause I'm an aunt, too."

A little girl returning from school was asked by a neighbor to take two letters to the mail box. She was told to put them in her coat pocket so she wouldn't lose them.

She said, "O, I can't! My pocket leaks."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

An Uncomfortable Moment.

Recently an elderly woman was sitting next to me on the train. As things were quiet she fell asleep. I sat reading a book and toying with a rubber band which held the packages down. Suddenly the rubber band snapped and hit the lady in the face. She awoke screaming as if she had been shot. The only thing I could do was to apologize and sit there on pins and needles until I reached my destination. However, this episode has taught me never to play with a rubber band.

Problematical Child, Who Takes Things Not His, Up for Solution

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It is not an uncommon thing for a perfectly normal child to take things that are not his. So the following letter of today, and tomorrow's answer to it, may be helpful to many parents. Naturally, a few changes have been made, so identities are protected:

"My Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have two daughters—Vivian, who'll be 12 this month, and Ellen, 11 next month. My friends tell me that our girls are exceptions and that there is not a doubt but that we are raising them to be fine young women.

"Really, they are not bad like some unruly children we know, but here is my problem:

"Ellen, my youngest girl, insists on taking nickels and dimes from my purse or anywhere I might have money. When I ask if she took it she denies it, but I am able to tell by her sweet little face. So I say, 'Why, Ellen, mother can just see on your face that you did.' Then she will say 'Yes' and promise to never do it again. But she has promised lots of times and yet does it again.

"I do not spank her for it. I try to tell her how wrong it is.

"Her daddy and I have talked so much that we are at a loss to know what to do next.

"Is there any way that you know of that I can make her quit this terrible habit? She only takes things from me. I suppose she thinks it does not matter if she takes things from mother.

"I will surely appreciate any information or suggestions from you."

It seemed well to give this letter in full, as this is a common sort of difficulty—but doing so makes it necessary to answer it in tomorrow's column.

In solving problems like this, fundamental suggestions will be found in the booklets suggested in our short child management reading list.

Will Discuss Russia.

The Chicago Woman's club announces an informal dinner this evening. Mrs. Ethel M. Colson Braselton is to be the principal guest and will speak on "Glimpsing the Russian Mass," reviewing a number of books on Russia.

The single flaw in American women's charm . . .

ON the continent they say of the American woman that she has all the charms of women of other nations—save one. The women of England have unrivaled beauty of skin. For 142 years Pears' Soap has been their great favorite.

Send for a free cake. Watch its full, generous lather gently bring the natural color to your skin. Just write your name and address to Lever Bros., Dept. PG-6, Cambridge, Mass. At all drug and dept. stores—wherever toilet goods are sold, Pears' Soap, unscented, 15c. Scented, a trifle more.

Wool Is Fashionable for Hot Weather Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Why do men keep their boyish freshness longer than women retain their girlish equivalents? According to certain of the French clothes caterers it's because man wears more protective clothes when in action. That is the reason that thin wool is being stubbornly promoted for feminine sports clothes designed for hot weather wear.

Wool cloth, no more cumbersome than a tulle face veil, say the experts, is sufficient to protect women from the horrible dangers of exposure after exercise, so they would make it the fashion to wear wool.

Whatever the reason for its vogue, the veil-thin woolen frock or suit that is fashionable in Paris is a mighty alluring version of something to wear. Plenty of it, and lots of women testify that they feel just as cool in this kind of wool as in cotton, and that, actually, it fortifies the health, keeps the doctor away, etc., etc.

The Paul Poiret frock sketched today is a blue ribbon entry from the season's crop of transparent wool outdoor dresses for summer. It is made of lapis blue wool georgette, picked up by details of white piqué applied in an original way.

The yoke that runs around the neck and down the top of the short, short sleeves is made of white piqué, as are the cuffs on the sleeves. The circles of white below the scalloped edges of the yoke are made of piqué appliqued on with lapis blue silk thread. These circles have a blue embroidered dot in the center. The skirt yoke is trimmed also with the white piqué circles.

The wide belt is made of blue wool voile stitched in white and has a white buckle. The skirt is box plaited at front and back.

OTHER SIZES IN PROPORTION

It is today and has been for 16 years the first-choice tire of the world.

The vote, nation-wide and uninfluenced in any way, showed a preference for Goodyears nearly 2¼ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

If you want safety and mileage and style in full measure in the tires you buy now, you needn't deny yourself on account of cost.

It is the smartest-looking equipment you can put upon your car, and it'll pile up performance for you that only top-quality can give.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Tom Odell came across yesterday with some of the stuff that made him famous. They were on their toes for eight innings, but they weren't contented and they showed it in the ninth when they broke loose on a breaking ball which tied the score and ruined old Tom Zachary. Then they bounced back in the eleventh, and with the aid of a ground error's single off Woody English's bat, rallied home a run that beat the Braves, 5 to 4.

The triumph, coupled with the double loss of the Giants at Cincinnati, lifted the Cubs to third place. But they still are seven and one-half laps from the top, which is more important.

Two extra innings were staged in the ninth by Dan Taylor, Charley Grimm and Pinch Man Stephenson, who figured as if Pat Malone was saved to another defeat. He had fooled enough, but wasn't sufficiently skilled to keep the McKechnie nine from touching hits in the first of their innings for all their runs. Especially these four tallies loomed big because the Cubs, most of the time, pitifully weak against Zachary's offerings, ruled off only six hits in nine innings. Half of these in the ninth produced a pair of runs.

Errand Keeper Gets Assist.

The triumph was successful and indirectly gave Guy Bush a win on the heels of work, mainly because of Billy Hemsley. With one out he went carefully and shot one of Socks Smith's speedy balls along the left field foul line for three bases. Hartnett was up to be sacrificed for Bush, but he did a spring. They walked him on purpose, Jurges lined to center, but Bernie Friberg, batting for English, and the pinch hitter collaborated. Woody English sharply toward third and Urban was just about to grab the ball when it hit a pebble or something, went over his head and permitted Hemsley to score with the deciding run.

In order to the rescue yesterday, Grimm relieved himself of the necessity of starting today. Ed Baecht will be

THE GUMPS—SCOOGE AT BAT

JUDGES CANCEL REFEREE'S VOTE FOR MICKEY

25,000 Fans Pay In $200,000.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—Mickey Walker gave Jack Sharkey a weight advantage of almost thirty pounds and a pretty thorough licking in a fifteen round fight at Ebbets field this evening, but the announcer, an elderly man with a cracked and feeble voice, toiled up into the ring and spread his arms indicating that the officials had decided on a draw.

The boys were fighting for a title existing only in the imagination of the New York prize fight commission known as the heavyweight championship of the world for New York state.

Walker weighed 193½ pounds to Sharkey's 198½. Notwithstanding a handicap in inches and pounds he carried the quarrel to Sharkey all the way and outscored him by the difference between fifteen dollars and fifteen cents.

The referee, Arthur Donovan, gave the decision to Walker. George Kelley, one of the judges, voted for Sharkey, while Charley Mathison, the other judge, called it a draw.

25,000 Watch Bout.

The fight was conducted in the name of the New York Milk Fund, which conducts a large show every summer to raise money to buy milk for the slum kids. The Brooklyn police made valiant efforts to beat the customers off and tie them up in traffic jams but they were badly outnumbered and, at a guess, some 25,000 persons invaded the Brooklyn baseball plant. James J. Johnston, who managed the entertainment, said he guessed the receipts were about $200,000, of which Sharkey would receive 30 per cent and Walker 20 per cent. There was no federal tax because the revenue law exempts the receipts of charity fights.

There were a lot of the familiar among-those-present types around the ringside, including the cherubic Dudley Field Malone. Gene Tunney was present, too, sitting with Bernard Gimble, the department store magnate.

Sharkey Fights Timidly.

Sharkey fought a timid fight. He was not fat, but he was toting a substantial band of flesh around his middle, the accumulation that comes with full maturity and doesn't come off again.

Towering over Walker like a steeple over a woodshed, Sharkey spent much of his time sending punches straight down at the bobbing target of Mickey's bruised head, in the manner of a man throwing shoes out a window at a singing tomcat in an old fashioned funny paper.

Walker blocked many of these blows, squatted under many others, and soaked up some with a curious rolling away motion which eased the impacts. But even when Sharkey caught him square with all the power of his big, loose frame and all the fury of his hysterical nature, Walker took them without noticeable embarrassment and whirled in to cross him on the jaw or beat him on the body with such abandon that Sharkey became discouraged.

Walker Ignores Low Blows.

Sharkey whipped in several low right hand swipes of the kind that set Max Schmeling to groveling and moaning in his corner when they fought for the heavyweight title just a year ago, but Mickey ignored them, though the crowd hollered at Sharkey to keep them on the fairway.

The little fighter was by far the more quarrelsome party all the way but the fight seemed to turn definitely toward him in the seventh round when Walker, swinging in under Sharkey's cautious defensive works with the low roll of a vaudeville babboon on roller skates, suddenly let fly a long right hand swing to the chin. Risque, Turf's Prima Donna, in Mood for Race; Wins Matron

BY FRENCH LANE.

Just when it seemed that Risque, temperamental prima donna of the turf, had tossed away the filly championship of the year by passing up her engagement in the Arlington Oaks, she came back at Arlington Park yesterday and while in one of her best racing moods galloped to a spectacular victory in the Matron handicap.

The race, with a gross value of $14,250 and worth $10,850 to Mrs. John Hertz, who owns Risque, engaged all the best fillies and mares in America. Except for a brief furlong soon after the start Risque showed her flying heels to her rivals and again appeared as a likely champion.

Beats Manta by a Length.

She came galloping down the stretch in her best stride in front of Manta, the Kentucky champion, by a length. Driving hard in third place but far back of the two leaders was Cousin Jo, the Kentucky Oaks winner. Con Amore, never beaten before in a race for mares, staggered home fourth, and Martha Jones, which had taken the brief lead at the start, was floundering, but was fifth. Valenciennes, coupled with Risque in the Hertz entry, was sixth, while Sweet Scent, Her Grace, and Beautiful Doll came up as the rear guard.

The track was heavy from overnight rains—so heavy that it required 1 minute and 42 seconds for Risque to run the mile. But she likely would have won just as handily on a fast track, for some of her best races have been turned in on a pasteboard racing strip.

After her brilliant effort in the difficult going Risque got a big ovation, for the Hertz entry was played rather stoutly by the big crowd. The spectators didn't think Risque could win, but based their hopes for a triumph on Valenciennes, which had run a powerful race behind the old champion Sun Beau last Saturday.

Valenciennes Refuses to Run.

But Valenciennes laid her ears straight back and wouldn't run a lick in the early stages. Risque seemed to realize the big burden of the fight was resting on her shoulders, so she began stepping very fast soon after the field was away from the gate in good alignment.

It would take a lightning fast horse to keep pace with Martha Jones for a furlong, but Risque nearly did it and after the first furlong Risque jumped on past Martha Jones and she was never headed from there until the finish.

Risque's big job was not to beat Martha Jones, but to hold Manta safe in the furious drive down the stretch. Manta had been running third while Risque and Martha Jones were putting on their hair pulling match for the early lead, and Manta was saving ground as they wheeled around the lower bend and headed into the stretch. Less than a length back of Risque and Manta, Cousin Jo also was beginning to move up with one of her old time rallies.

Risque Responds to Whip.

Steffen went to the whip on Risque and she responded, but he raced her well out from the rail in order to avoid the more soggy going in close where Manta tried to come through. Risque responded to the punishment and pulled out into a two lengths lead. In the closing strides, when Steffen realized Risque had conquered Manta, he eased up the Hertz color bearer slightly.

In the mutuels Risque paid $3.96 to win, $4 to place and $2.85 to show. Manta was at $4.42 to place and $3.48 to show. Cousin Jo's show price was $3.98.

The Matron stakes proved to be one of the big mid-week attractions of the Arlington season and about 18,000 were on hand as Risque made her victorious drive.

Con Amore, which went to the post as the favorite, could not keep up with the dizzy pace and while she was running fairly well in the stretch she was not a dangerous threat. Her Grace ran fairly well in the early part of it, but fell back and ran disgracefully for the rest of the distance. Evidently she didn't like the going.

JACK HUTCHISON BEATS AYTON JR. 1 UP IN 37 HOLES

Man and boy the Hutchison-Ayton golf rivalry has been in progress for twenty years and now with both Jack and Laurie approaching the end of long tournament careers, their sons, Jack and Laurie Jr., have taken up the gauntlet.

Yesterday these two youngsters engaged in a 37 hole struggle in the finals of the Chicago District Golf association's junior tournament at Evanston with the honors finally going to young Hutchison, 1 up, when Ayton had a dead stymie for a 5 while Jack was down in 4. The boys waged a battle befitting sons of two fathers whose golf has made them famous for many years both in this country and in their native Scotland.

There was little to choose between the lads during the regulation 36 hole play. They were all even at the end of the first nine and at lunch time the match was still a no decision affair. Jack had 75 for his morning work and Laurie Jr. had 76, due to his taking 5 on the par 3 12th. Each player won five holes out of the 18.

Have 74s in Afternoon.

The afternoon was a repetition of the morning play, neither lad being able to retain a sustained advantage. They had identical scores, 38—36—74, four over par. Their cards for the last 18:

Par—Out	444	345	344—35
In	443	544	434—35—70
Ayton—Out	444	534	644—38
In	344	643	444—36—74
Hutchison—Out	434	445	543—38
In	453	544	434—36—74

Twice Laurie Jr. was two up on Jack on the final 18 but was unable to hold his lead. Two birdies in a row gave young Ayton a two hole advantage on the 20th, but Jack won the 25th and 27th to square matters at the turn. He had a birdie 3 on the 27th while Laurie was down in the regulation 4.

Ayton Takes Lead Again.

Again young Ayton took a two hole lead by winning the 28th and 29th. He had a birdie 3 on the first and par 4 on the next, but Hutchison came right back to even the count by winning the next two holes. Ayton captured the 33d, they halved the 34th, and Hutchison won the 35th to again square accounts.

It was on the 36th that the Junior Ayton proved that he retained a portion of the golfing genius of his dad. Hutchison holed out in 4, par figures. Ayton's ball rested 15 feet from the hole and he needed this putt to go down in 4 to keep the match square. Sizing the ball up like a veteran, he gave it a tap and saw it roll straight into the cup.

Old Salts Chase Cruising Scribe off Deck in Storm

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Schooner Quicksilver II., Off Point Betsie, Mich., Monday, July 20.—Old Point Betsie, third base in the Chicago Yacht club's twenty-fourth annual race from Belmont harbor to Mackinac Island, pushed its long arm out of a gray haze early this morning to welcome the fleet which had battled its way through some of the most fickle weather in the history of the long haul.

After having been becalmed for several hours yesterday (Sunday) morning, the boats finally got under way and were about ninety miles along the course when they encountered some ugly looking clouds, deployed along the western horizon. Those trouble bearers struck with a resounding smack about 6 o'clock last night, and every ship in sight of Quicksilver II. doused its sails like a washwoman in a Monday morning shower. A pelting rain accompanied the blow from the northwest and it was after midnight before the elements finally subsided.

100 Miles from Home.

The Quicksilver and her companions rolled and staggered through the rain and sea even as so many parties who have overstayed their visit to Joe's place of an evening but still knew the way home. Home for them was Mackinac Island, 281 nautical, or 331 land, miles from Chicago, and they were headed for it tonight. After they rounded Point Betsie and found themselves in the Manitou passage, they had traveled more than 200 of those land miles and still had more than 100 to go.

The first boat to be put on the spot by the storm was Bemisa II., E. F. Knight's center board schooner from Toledo, O., the largest vessel in the fleet. To the watchers on the Quicksilver, which was about four miles on the starboard side of Bemisa., it appeared that the Ohio boat had been hit below the belt, for it threw up its arms in distress after the blow and went flapping along with only one sail showing.

The Cook Has His Joke.

The trusting landlubber had been below chatting with Cook Clark, and had no premonition of what was happening until a great scurrying about on deck took him above. The entire crew was at work setting up a defense for the onrushing clouds. Skipper Peirce advised the landlubber to take an inconspicuous station if he insisted on staying above. The novice perched on the top rung of the companionway and discovered that every move the crew had made, profiting by the Bemisa's distress, was perfectly timed, so that the Quicksilver showed she could take it when the squall struck her.

She was soon pointed back on her course with all drawing canvas set, and the port watch went below for what the starboard party, having dined prior to the storm, reported as baked beans. This proved to be a conspiracy between Cook Clark and the starboard watch, for the former unveiled a roast chicken, asparagus, potatoes, apple pie, and tea. That agreeably balanced dining table proved its real value at this point when the Quicksilver was lurching through the rambunctious sea and rain. Albert Jr. and Mr. Grebe were seated at one side of the rocking top, with Bunny and the landlubber on the other. Dr. Blatchford held the most strategic position of all, sitting at the skipper's end of the table where he could jungle his victuals with less difficulty than those on the sidelines.

Youngsters Like It Best.

When Cook Clark had been complimented by all present, they went above and donned the weather gear which every one aboard was now wearing—slickers and sou'westers. Albert Jr., Bunny, and Jimmy preferred bare feet to shoes and socks and continued to man their stations thus this morning. It was this trio which seemed to relish the squall more than anybody else aboard. When the original storm's little brother came out of the west and tossed a couple of left hooks at the Quicksilver, those three young salts, veterans of a cruise from New London, Conn., to Bermuda, shouted "Look at her go now!" And the Quicksilver II., kicking up spray ten feet high on either side, also enjoyed the going, her every move seeming to say, "This is a setup, boys; let's go!"

Waves Climb Aboard.

The fisherman's staysail, a large, high set canvas rigged between the two masts, was taken down during the second blow, for the squall appeared to feint at the main body of the sails and then aim a kind of right cross at the fisherman staysail, very nearly stretching all of the canvas on the rolling sea for a nine count.

The landlubber meanwhile had gone up into the charthouse, which is situated in front of the wheel on the after deck. While he was there the boat tilted at a 45 degree angle and the waves climbed over the starboard rail until that sector of the deck was very much awash and the crew was forced to lash the two dories more heavily lest they go overboard. The mainsail boom swung far out over the water, its aft end dipping at every 20 feet like some giant oar. The boat was at such a precarious tilt that a single step over the starboard rail would have landed one upright on the waves.

This was the sort of stuff, pondered

STRESS SAFETY OF CONTESTANTS IN TRIBUNE SWIM

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Every precaution has been taken to insure the safety of the boys and girls who will compete in THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard swimming championships Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln park lagoon. Life guards from the American Red Cross and from the Lincoln park force, and physicians and nurses will be ready to take care of the hundreds who will try to win champion-

The course, which will be laid out in the lagoon Saturday afternoon, will start opposite the Lincoln Park Boat club and the finish barge will be 100 yards south. Oscar Knop, director of small parks and recreation for the Lincoln park system, has arranged for 20 lanes, each at least seven feet wide.

Guards to Accompany Swimmers.

Ropes, stretching from barge to barge, will mark the lanes. They also will provide convenient parking places for any of the youngsters who can't finish. However, life guards in boats will accompany the swimmers in each heat, while others patrolling the shore will be ready to plunge in and aid any swimmer in distress. The only danger, of course, arises in the number who will be in the water at one time. In order that no swimmer will be overlooked, each guard will select a swimmer in each race and follow him.

The lagoon last year had an alternating current which made the course exceedingly difficult for the youngsters. This difficulty has been removed with the opening of the outlet into Lake Michigan at the jacknife bridge.

Names Red Cross Guards.

Dr. H. W. Gentles, chairman of the first aid and life saving committee of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, has named a corps of guards for THE TRIBUNE meet. The men will be in charge of Dr. Paul Samson, former swimming star at the University of Michigan, while Mrs. Katherine Whitney will direct the girls. The corps, which has donated its services, follows:

SOX LOSE, 3 TO 2, TO BOSTON, THEN TRIUMPH, 9 TO 3

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 22.—After some dismal pitching exhibitions in Philadelphia and Washington, Manager Donie Bush was agreeably surprised with two superb six hit performances here today. But the White Sox suffered a hitting lapse in one and the day's effort availed nothing more than an even break with the Red Sox.

Red Faber was the unfortunate loser in the opening game, 3 to 2, when Bennie Tate dropped the ball, permitting Earl Webb to score the winning run on Sweeney's double in the ninth inning. In the second game Tommy Thomas achieved a decisive 9 to 3 victory.

Tate Spoils Faber's Day.

Faber lost his duel with Danny MacFayden on his mates' shortcomings rather than on his own. The Boston curve artist was touched for seven hits and was constantly in trouble. However, the White Sox were lethargic in the pinches. When they did meet the ball squarely in the last few innings, Oliver, Webb, and Reeves interfered with miraculous catches.

In the ninth inning Webb singled with one out after a 2-2 tie had prevailed since the fourth. Sweeney doubled off the left field fence and Webb raced for home. Sullivan handled the relay from Fonseca perfectly, only to have Tate fumble the ball after he had tagged Webb.

Watwood Gets Five Hits.

The White Sox pounded Ed Morris and three successors for fifteen hits in the second game. Johnny Watwood led this encouraging assault with five hits, including a double and a triple.

FIRST GAME

Chicago grabbed a two run lead in the first inning of the first game, thanks to an error by Reeves. Sullivan singled off Sweeney's hands and stopped at second when Reynolds fined a single to left. Reeves then messed up Fonseca's double play grounder and Sullivan galloped home. Reynolds scored as Watwood forced Fonseca.

Faber set the Red Sox down in order for two innings and was touched for the first hit in the third. It led to nothing more, however, than a twin killing. But the Red Sox came on to tie it in the fourth. Reeves was hit by a pitched ball and scored on Rothrock's double. Webb singled to drive Rothrock across.

Sox Fail in Pinches.

The Chicagoans' failures in the pinches began to get really serious about this time. The leadoff man in the second and third reached first to be stranded. Watwood doubled to right with one gone in the fourth. As that accomplished nothing, Tate went one better with a triple to pry open the fifth, but even that reaped no results.

Thereafter sensational defensive play ruined possible Chicago rallies before they got started. Reeves leaped high in the air to spear Fonseca's liner in the sixth, which Watwood followed with a single. Webb made a desperate jump to knock down Tate's drive and hold it to a double in the seventh. Tate was then trapped at third on Faber's bounder to the box.

Oliver Turns Robber.

In the eighth Sullivan brassied a tremendous wallop to center that appeared good for a triple only to have Oliver make a one handed leaping stab which nullified Fonseca's subsequent single.

Faber meanwhile had hurled hitless ball from the fifth through the eighth, only two reaching first on walks. The ninth then brought its fatality.

SECOND GAME

Three extra base hits enabled the White Sox to gain a two run lead in the first inning of the second game also. Webb lost Blue's fly in the sun and it dropped at his feet for a double. Sullivan cracked an honest two bagger down the right field line, scoring Blue. Watwood then tripled to center, scoring Sullivan.

Webb singled and Oliver drew a double when Fonseca and Watwood missed their signals in the second inning. But it served for little more than an interruption, as the White Sox resumed operations in the fourth. After Cissell and Grube fanned, Thomas singled. He scored quickly on Blue's single and a second double by Sullivan.

Boston Finally Scores.

The margin was increased to five with two more in the fifth. Fonseca and Watwood singled and Kerr scored them with a double down the right field line. That brought the massive Kline in to the game and the uprising ceased.

Boston finally scored off Tommy in the seventh. Webb and Sweeney singled. As Fonseca fumbled Sweeney's hit Webb went to third. He scored on Miller's infield out. Boston got another run on a walk and a single in the eighth. Durham got by undamaged in these two innings.

Chicago drove over four more in the ninth inning when Gaston relieved Durham. Reynolds led with a double and scored on Watwood's fifth straight hit, a single to right. Kerr walked and Cissell finally got a single, bouncing the ball off Miller's glove to score Watwood. Thomas then hit a double to center, scoring Kerr and Cissell.

ENGLISH'S SINGLE DEFEATS BRAVES IN ELEVENTH, 5-4

Malone's had first inning opened with Maranville singling past first base. Richbourg singled to right center and Cuyler whipped the ball to Hornsby, to head off Maranville at third. But Umpire Pfirman judged him safe. A pass to Berger filled the bases. Worthington hoisted a fly behind first base. Jurges, either because he lost it in the sun or forgot how the infield fly rule operates, let it fall to the ground. As soon as Maranville sensed what was going to happen he dashed for the plate, arriving there ahead of Jurges' throw. Worthington, of course, was automatically out.

Old Earl Sheely was next. He singled to left, scoring Richbourg and putting Berger on third. Malone then began to pitch. He retired Urbanski on a popup to Hemsley in front of the plate and Spohrer on a short fly to Jurges.

Hemsley's Triple Wasted.

Business was so dull for the Cubs in the first few innings that only Taylor enjoyed a closeup of first base. He walked in the second. The next Cub to attain base running distinction was Hemsley. He tripled to the right center field screen to start the third. That's where he stayed, however, as Malone grounded out to Sheely, Urbanski threw out Jurges, and English flied to center.

Barton, with the aid of the sun, promoted himself into the exclusive base running class in the fourth. He hoisted a fly to right. It came down in a spot other than the one in which Richbourg was reaching for it. By the time Richbourg blinked the sun out of his eyes, Barton was on second. Neither Hornsby nor Taylor could get the ball out of the infield.

Barton Gets Second Double.

All Malone yielded from the start of the second inning to the end of the fifth was a lone single. The Braves then put two hits together with a pass in the sixth inning for their second pair of runs. English raced into left to make a backward catch of Berger's fly. Worthington then singled in the same direction. Sheely flied to Barton and Urbanski walked. Spohrer lined a two base hit to the corner of the left field bleacher to score both Spohrer and Worthington. Three strikes for Maguire ended the inning.

English's innocent looking single to Maranville in the sixth started the Cubs on their first scoring foray. He was forced on Cuyler's tap to the pitcher. Barton dented the right field screen for two bases, Cuyler halting at third. Hornsby rallied to the occasion with a single to right, Cuyler and Barton scoring.

Barton was forced to slide and in so doing knocked over Spohrer, who let the ball get away. Hornsby went to second on the error and Spohrer went away for repairs. Hornsby died on second for the want of help from Taylor and Grimm.

Stephenson's Single Ties Score.

The Cubs were so helpless in the seventh and eighth innings that there was no reason to suspect they were about to revolt when Taylor led off in the ninth with a hit past Maguire. Grimm doubled to left center scoring Taylor and the offensive was on. Hemsley flied to center. Stephenson was ordered to bat for Malone and Teachout ran for Grimm. Bud raced home with the tying run a moment later on Stevie's single through second. Jurges lined out and English prolonged the rally with a hit, sending Stevie to third. But Selbold stepped in here and fanned Cuyler.

You couldn't have gotten a dime for the Cubs' chances of weathering the Braves' half of the tenth. Bush started by passing Berger. Worthington bunted toward third and the defense became panicky. Blair, who had taken Grimm's place, forgot to go back to first and when Hornsby threw no one was there. Jurges managed to knock down the ball, but Worthington was safe and Berger was on third. On Sheely's bounder to short Berger was nipped at the plate. Urbanski fanned and Cronin grounded to Hornsby for a force out at third.

DAVIS CUP PLAY.

So the United States is out of the Davis cup challenge round for the first time since 1919. That state of affairs was brought about when Great Britain downed the Americans 3 matches to 2 for an unexpected upset in the interzone finals. Such a result properly should find one steeped in chagrin. It produced no such effect on The Wake.

American tennis is in a state of transition. Our old Davis cup players are gone. "Big Bill" Tilden, "Little Bill" Johnston, R. N. Williams, Vin Richards, Francis Hunter, and John Hennessy no longer are amateur internationalists. When we lost the international bowl to France in 1927 after holding it since 1920, it was apparent that a new and younger school of experts must be developed to win back the old trophy.

That we won two out of five matches against the young French experts in 1927 and 1929 was only begging the question. It was a case of building up from the bottom. That is what is taking place. Our youngsters have not yet the tournament experience and skill to accomplish this, but they are a promising lot. If they continue, it will not be surprising to see the Davis cup in its former habitat within the next few years.

So far as we are concerned, we do not begrudge the British their victory. Time was when Britain, and later Australia, dominated the net situation. Great Britain held the cup from 1902 to 1907. Those were the days of the famous Doherty brothers. Then came the stylist, Anthony Wilding, and the steady Norman Brookes of Australia, who reigned for several years. Wilding was perhaps the "prettiest" player to watch ever on the courts with the possible exception of Billy Larned, American.

That Davis bowl will return to America some time. The Wake is positive of that. Meantime, if the British should defeat the crippled French holders in the challenge round, it would be a good thing for international tennis. France, with full strength a-court, is stronger than Britain. It has not full strength in the challenge round, according to reports from abroad.

Watch Your Step.

Oh hark, you haughty Cardinals
From the old St Louis town,
Comes the news the Brooklyn Robins
Are trying to knock you down.

They're playing the game like champions
In the National pennant race,
And you'll have to get your best hits
If your team stays in the race.

They have Lefty O'Doul and Herman,
Dazzy Vance and Bissonette,
Who can pitch and hit like wildfire
And they haven't weakened yet.

So around the last of August
When the pennant race gets hot,
When the Giants and Cubs are fighting
For their share in the pot,
You'll have to keep your heads up
For the Robins are alert.
They want that series money,
And they don't care who they hurt.

Helper Murphy.

McGRAW RETURNS TO GIANTS BUT THE REDS WIN, 4-3

Cincinnati, O., July 22.—[Special.]—John McGraw returned to the leadership of the Giants today after a three day suspension but his presence was not sufficient to halt the Reds, who won the series opener, 4 to 3. Red Lucas kept the Giants' eight hits well separated. Score:

SKIPPER CHASES LANDLUBBER OFF DECK IN STORM

the landlubber as he peered through the rain flecked porthole of the chart-house, out of which Conrad wove such tales as "Typhoon" and "The Nigger of the Narcissus." But the crew refused to allow him to become too enthusiastic over the storm, tossing it off as a summer squall, but withal a goodly blow.

Before the rain settled down to steady business about 8 o'clock, those aboard the Quicksilver were offered a contrast in sunsets. On Saturday night they had seen the sun drop off into some hidden slot like a golden coin, leaving a splash of color resembling, first, strawberry ice cream, then chocolate, along the southwestern horizon. Last night [Sunday] it was only a skinny, red rent in the gray of the western wall, and except for pink daggers of lightning stabbing the blackness throughout the night, and the red and green sailing lights of the Quicksilver II., it was the only color seen until 10 o'clock this [Monday] morning, when the tardy sun reported for duty.

The Wind Gets Playful.

When the port watch came on deck at 8 o'clock last [Sunday] night, Mr. Grebe took the wheel, and the fickleness of the wind began to exert itself in earnest. The compass, glowing from below with a brass hood atop it for protection, became a roulette wheel with a double reverse spin on it, and Mr. Grebe was vexed no little. First the wind was west, then southwest, then suddenly northwest, and the crew worked overtime attempting to satisfy its whimsy. This contrariness continued until 4 o'clock this [Monday] morning, when the wind showed its real disposition by deserting the ship for a while and then returning to terse the sails only to run off again.

After their frolic of last night and early this morning, the breezes sobered up and the Quicksilver was rolling right along late this [Monday] afternoon, having passed Frankfort and the Point Betsie lighthouse, with only Bagheera and Elizabeth for company, and they fairly well astern.

Chicago Cricket Club Wins from Toronto Team, 110-100

TORONTO, Ont., July 22.—[Special.]—For the second time in two days the Chicago Cricket club engaged in a close game today, defeating Grace Church, 110 to 100. Webb, Gealy and Harburg all made double figure scores for Chicago. In seven games played on the tour, Chicago had won five and lost two. The last game of the trip will be played against Windsor in that city Friday.

WALKER FIGHTS 15 ROUND DRAW WITH SHARKEY

Judges Cancel Referee's Vote for Mickey.

punch set Sharkey back on his heels and he stumbled several paces to the rear, where the ropes stayed him.

The eleventh was another bad round for Sharkey and the most eventful of the fight. Here Walker let Sharkey have a hard right uppercut to the chin and Jack went lurching to the ropes on wobbly legs. Walker tore after him, head down, throwing overhand punches to the jaw with both hands, and when Sharkey wearily put his hands up, Mickey whaled him on the ribs.

Mickey Keeps Tearing In.

Not until the start of the twelfth round did Sharkey show anything like a sustained attack. Apparently realizing, for the first time, that he was in danger of taking a licking from a fighter he seemed to regard disdainfully at the outset, Sharkey finally cut loose with a show of punching power.

Mickey's Eye Cut.

Walker's left eye was gashed in the fifth round just after he had been hit while off balance and bounced to the floor and up again without a count and though the plain, amateur surgery of Abe Attell and Jack Kearns in his corner staunched the wound for a few rounds, he finished the fight with his vision on that side badly fouled.

In Sharkey's corner, the fat John Buckley, his manager, had leaned over the ropes to shriek at Donovan as early as the first intermission to watch Walker's seconds for foul play, and the repartee between the two groups of vicarious gladiators was full of charm and vigor all the way.

Anton Cermak, the mayor of Chicago, who occupied a seat in the deep obscurity of the eighteenth row, had announced that he was going to invite the winner of this evening's bout to fight Max Schmeling next summer at Soldiers' field, where Tunney and Dempsey drew almost $3,000,000 in the golden age of pugilism. In as much as there was no official winner, he might decide to invite both men to fight Schmeling simultaneously, which would be a fairly even match.

Not Exactly Pleased with Seats.

Mayor Cermak was indignant at a slight upon his official dignity by Mr. Johnston, the official promoter, a confidential man in Tammany hall and the Col. House of James J. Walker's administration in New York. Almost a month ago Mr. Cermak wired Johnston the price of 100 ringside seats for this occasion. Mr. Johnston gave Mr. Cermak and one small group of his friends a cluster of seats back near the Brooklyn Dodgers' dugout and sprinkled the rest of the Chicago Democrats among the common customers in the outfield.

However, Chicago was not entirely snubbed, for Spike O'Donnell had a place in the third row.

Mr. Kearns Has an Idea.

After the fight, Jack Kearns, managing Walker, said he would go before the New York prizefight commission and ask the boys, in view of the apparent injustice of the decision, to reverse the officials and declare Walker the heavyweight champion of the world for New York state. This is a goofy idea, of course, but the New York commission is partial to goofy ideas and Mr. Kearns will never be sent to jail for not trying.

Each Thinks He Won; That Makes Battle a Draw

He was racing home to his family in a fashionable suburb of Boston in his car, restless to get away from an hour after Mickey Walker had him to a draw in fifteen rounds. But before he went, in remarkable contrast to the jubilation in the Walker dressing room, Sharkey relieved his mind of his thoughts.

"I was a better fighter four or five years ago, when I was fighting fifteen times a year, than I am now," he said. "I laid off too long and it hurt me. But I'm not going to try to take any credit away from Mickey.

"He's a great little fighter and don't let any one tell you he can't hit. I thought I won, but it will go down in the record books as a draw for Walker, and that's what counts. He's good enough to whip Max Schmeling if he ever gets the chance."

Walker grinned and went about the business of getting dressed and away.

"It was a good fair fight all the way," Mickey said, "and I could fight fifteen more rounds like it right now. Sharkey never did hurt me, but back. I cut easy and I bleed a lot and I suppose that looked bad and counted against me. I thought I won all right, but that don't matter."

PUBLIC LINKS CHAMPION LOSES IN THIRD ROUND

Tom McInerney of Jackson park, defending champion in the fourth annual midwest public links tournament, was eliminated by R. R. Meader, 1 and 2, in the third round at Marquette park yesterday. McInerney was down at the turn, and although he squared the match at the twelfth, he never could pass McCauley.

Al Megeff, runner up to McInerney last year, and Sterling Dawson of Lincoln park, a member of the Chicago team which will compete for the U. S. public links title, drew the largest gallery of the day, with Dawson winning, 3 and 2.

The 18 hole quarter-final matches will be played today. The championship battle Saturday will be over 36 holes. Yesterday's results:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.

R. R. McAuley defeated Tom McInerney, 3 and 2.
John Gibson defeated James Wade, 5 and 4.
A. Andregsen defeated Roy Quayle, 3 and 1.
Sterling Dawson defeated Al Mead, 4 and 2.
H. Nilles defeated Harry Pole, 1 up.
Roy Garland defeated Cap Allessio, 3 and 1.
H. Mathiesen defeated Red Taylor, 2 and 1.
R. A. Bowker, defeated Claude Sell, 1 up.

FIRST FLIGHT.

R. Albeck won from William Johnson by default.
J. Swann won from C. Johnson by default.
Tom Jones defeated Fred de Cesare, 1 up and 4.
H. Kosjinsky defeated J. Grant, 4 and 3.
Laurie Shutts defeated Joe Sadek, 3 and 2.
R. Johnson defeated Olaf Magnuson, 4 and 3.
Lyle Hoffman defeated R. F. Johnson, 1 up.

MRS. NICHOLAS WINS DISTRICT GOLF WITH 8

Mrs. G. F. Nicholas Jr. of Lincolnshire won low gross in the open event sponsored by the Chicago Women's District Golf association at Glen Oak yesterday. She had 44—8—47 for the 18 holes. Low net was won by Mrs. A. E. Shields with a 41—8—33.

Three tied for low gross in the second flight with 91. They were Mrs. O. M. George, Glen Oak; Mrs. C. J. Quinten, Mohawk, and Mrs. C. A. McDyer. Mrs. C. N. Wheeler of Crystal Lake had low net with 104—11—93.

Mrs. T. F. McCarthy and Miss Mary Dreffer of the home club tied for low gross in the third flight with 10[illegible]. Mrs. George Herron of Acacia and Mrs. C. F. Sargeant of Knollwood tied for low net. The former had 116—25—89, and the latter 117—28—89.

MACKS CONQUER INDIANS, 7 TO 3, BEHIND WALBERG

Rube Holds Cleveland to Six Hits.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 22.—[Special.]—It was Rube Walberg's turn today and he made it easy for the Athletics to conquer the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 3, by limiting the opposition to six hits. The Macks put on a four run rally in the seventh to clinch the contest. Al Simmons hit his thirteenth. Score:

MOON MULLINS—HOME, SWEET HOME

CHET WILLIAMS, WITH 152, VICTOR IN HULLABALOO

Bob O'Link's Hullabaloo yesterday saw Chet Williams of the home club, with a 36 hole low gross score of 71—81—152, capture the chief honors of the two day meet. After leading the field in the first day's play with a par shattering 71, he required an 81 to complete yesterday's 18 holes.

Burton Mudge of Knollwood also had a 152 but Williams won the toss and the first prize. Mudge likewise weakened yesterday, taking a 78 whereas he went around in 74 on Tuesday. Bob Gardner had a 75 Tuesday, but yesterday he could do no better than 80.

Brady Wins Low Net.

William Brady, low net winner on Tuesday, continued to shoot steady golf to win the low net honors for the two day play. He had a 36 hole low net total of 174—34—140. A foursome composed of G. A. Winn, W. N. Brady, and A. M. Elliott, all of Bob O'Link, and J. B. Campbell of St. Louis won the low net foursome award with 609 for the 36 holes.

Williams' erratic play yesterday can be laid to his work on the greens. He three-putted continuously. He negotiated the first nine in 39, three over par, but took a 42 on the way in.

Mudge Has Low Gross.

Mudge had the best low gross score for the second day's play with a 78. He slipped through the first nine with a 37, due largely to his fine work on the fifth and sixth holes where he had birdie 4's. The route home, however, was filled with difficulties and he took a 41. He traveled this same nine Tuesday in 37.

His card—OUT	544	346	443	37

Low net foursome—G. A. Winn, Bob O'Link; J. B. Campbell, St. Louis; W. N. Brady, Bob O'Link, and J. M. Elliott, Bob O'Link. Total, 609.

Low net partners—G. W. Griffith, Bob O'Link and Judge Hayes, Bob O'Link, 286.

Low net 36 holes, second flight—J. M. Bazzett, Chicago Golf, 171—30—141.

Low net—C. B. Hazelwood, Bob O'Link, 85—14—71.

Low net, first flight—J. B. Campbell, St. Louis, 88—17—74.

Tuesday Winners [18 Holes].

Low net—E. W. Moore, 87—17—70.

Low net, second flight—R. L. Vail, New York, 89—16—73.

GLEN VIEW WINS FROM KNOLLWOOD GOLFERS, 23 TO 4

Glen View golfers scored a 23 to 4 victory over the Knollwood Country club team yesterday in a North Shore Golf league match. In other matches, Evanston defeated Briergate, 18 to 9, Wilmette won from Skokie, 14½ to 12½, and Illinois triumphed over Westmoreland, 17 to 10.

North Shore and Bob O' Link, the league leaders, were scheduled to play Tuesday, but the match was postponed because of the "Hullabaloo" held on the Bob O' Link course.

C. J. Jackson Wins Chicago District Golf Meet with 68

C. J. Jackson of Navajo Fields won the fifth Chicago District Golf association handicap event yesterday at Olympia Fields over No. 4 course, with a score of 32—24—68. This was the best golf Jackson ever has played.

H. C. Frey of the home club, with 37—18—69, was one under par for 18 holes and played with Capt. Bill Russell, who lost the draw for third low net to K. M. Schmid Jr. of Medinah. Russell had 37—17—70 and Schmid, 41—11—70.

Dr. J. Earl Harris of Calumet had the best gross of the day with a 75, which was tied by Art J. Patterson of Midlothian, but the doctor was lucky on the draw. Scores:

Drought Sends Wary Trout Into Hiding

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peshtigo River, Wis., July 22.—This trout stream is so low that today you can almost walk down the middle of the rapids without getting your feet wet. Big bowlders, which under normal water conditions would be completely or partially submerged, stick their dry heads out of the water.

It's great wading for the trout fisherman but this morning when we started to work with our fly rod on one side of the stream while Paul Davis of Chicago began to cast on the other side, it didn't take long to prove to us that about all we were going to get was good walking and wading. Low, warm water has driven the trout to spring holes and the cooling waters at the mouth of spring creeks.

The brook trout is smart. No uncomfortable, warm "upstairs" for him when the temperatures goes to 95 and 100. Whereas several weeks ago the rapids were filled with trout, with the arrival of hot weather and subnormal stream conditions the smart fish migrated to a cool "cellar" which, in the language of a trout, is a deep hole where a spring brook pours its "ice water" into the main stream like a cold air system feeds refreshing, washed ozone into a modern building or theater.

ARGENTINE POLO FOUR SWAMPS DETROIT, 22-4

Detroit, Mich., July 22.—[Special.]—The Santa Paula international polo team today won a spectacular victory over the All-Detroit four, composed of a select group from local teams, 22 to 4.

Alfredo Harrington of Santa Paula, was the high scorer with eight goals to his credit. Gazott, giant substitute player, was second with six. Andreda and Juan Reynal each scored four. The lineup:

SANTA PAULA.		ALL-DETROIT.
Harrington	1	Paums
Gazott	2	Nicholds
Juan Reynal	3	Shaw
Andreda	Back	Lacey

Score by chukkers:

Santa Paula	252	332	41—22
All-Detroit	002	001	10— 4

MISS ROESSLEIN AND PRO'S CLUBS WIN 2D MATCH

Miss Marge Roesslein, Lincoln Park, sailed through the second round of match play in the Cook county women's golf tournament yesterday at Cog Hill by defeating Mrs. James Faltus, Cog Hill, 3 and 2.

Miss Roesslein, using another set of borrowed clubs, shot a 42 for the outgoing nine, two over par, and was even with Mrs. Faltus, who had a 43 at the turn. Each won, lost, and halved three holes on the first nine.

Scores Birdie on 14th.

Miss Roesslein won the next three, but on the par 3 No. 13 her tee shot caught the water and Mrs. Faltus won with a 4. On the 14th Miss Roesslein's birdie 4 again gave her a three hole lead, which she retained through the 16th, where the match ended. Their cards:

Miss Roesslein, out	554	358	644—42
Mrs. Faltus, out	668	255	534—43
Miss Roesslein, in	556	546	4
Mrs. Faltus, in	667	458	4

To replace her clubs which were stolen Miss Roesslein borrowed a set from her pro, Harold Johnson, who lightened them to the proper weight.

Mrs. Darr Wins.

Another Lincoln park player who displayed good golf yesterday was Mrs. Claire Darr, whose 42 on the first nine gave her the three hole lead which enabled her to defeat Mrs. Adah McNeil, Marquette, 3 and 2.

Mrs. S. M. Patterson, for three years champion at Southmoor, shot a 43 out, taking her match from Mrs. A. W. Bergman, Cog Hill, 5 and 4. Mrs. Marie Capera, Jackson Park, playing in her first championship tournament, defeated Mrs. Thelma Kurry, also of Jackson Park, on the 20th hole.

34 Putts Low.

The nonqualifiers' medal play was won by Mrs. Julia Zimont, Jackson Park. The 18 hole putting contest was won by Mrs. P. L. Hoppenrath, Cog Hill, with 34 putts. She had 5 one putt greens. Summaries:

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Justin Leads Taps Day at Westward Ho

Frank Justin of Edgewood Valley led the field home in Westward Ho's annual Taps Day yesterday with a 37 hole gross score of 112. Justin shot a 75 on his first 18 holes and added a 37 on the last nine for his total. A large regiment of players answered Taps, 194 turning out for the tournament.

Holes in one are seldom made during regular tournament play, but Harry W. Banbury of the Aurora Country club proved that it can be done by holing his tee shot on the 140 yard seventh.

CLASS A—A. Anderson, 122—15—107; Al Hale, 114—6—108; A. R. Wilson, 122—12—110; C. J. Gorman, 124—14—110; J. Lyford, 127—17—110.

Entries for the Fort Dearborn handicap, the 2 year old stake to be run on Aug. 15 at Hawthorne, closed with 40 named, it was announced yesterday by the Chicago Business Men's Racing association.

The distance is a mile and a sixteenth and the added money is $5,000. The Fort Dearborn co-features on that afternoon with the Illinois Owners handicap and has drawn the leaders of the 2 year old division now in training in the middle west.

The field is likely to be the biggest of the season in a 2 year old stake. Neither Twenty Grand, Mate, nor Spanish Play was named. Spanish Play is entered in the Illinois Owners on the same program.

Bostwick Enters Filly.

The A. C. Bostwick-Greentree stable "feud" may be continued in this stake, however, for the owner of Mate has nominated his filly Scuttle, while Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, owner of Twenty Grand, will be represented by Lightning Bolt. Col. E. R. Bradley's standard bearer in the Fort Dearborn will be Burgoo.

With Latonia closing a week from Saturday there will be an influx of owners from that track and this is reflected in the entries. The Hawthorne meeting opens a week from Monday.

Knight's Call Named.

Some of the better known nominations for the Fort Dearborn are: Knight's Call, Scuttle, Don Leon, No More, Burning Up, Oswego, Betty Derr, Scotland's Glory, Siskin, Cousin Jo, Ladder, Morpheus, Canfli, Pittsburgher, Ilium, Joey Bibb, Epithet, Lightning Bolt, Segure, Camp Prince, Boys Howdy, Royal Ruffin, and Burgoo. Others named are: Hillsborough, Sir Percival, Skiffy, Hyannisport, Hopefield, The Mongol, Bosafabe, Sister Mary, Shasta Broom, Try It, De Swasey, Mopeco, Chief John, Voltagreen, Rolling, Quartre Bras II., and Sweet Scent.

SONNY WORKMAN UP IN CLAIMING RACES; WINS TWO

New York, July 22.—(Special.)—Jockey Raymond Workman, who has ridden some of the best horses on the American turf, rode in claiming races at Empire City today and scored two victories, one of them in the race having the place of honor on the card.

The program was given over to six claiming events. E. F. Sanford's Parnell Bound, Workman up, won the fourth race. Workman's other winner was the Newbury stable's Imperial Air in the second.

Parnell Bound has been campaigned more strenuously than most other horses both as a two and three year old, and now at four he still is going strong. He outclassed his opposition, winning by five lengths. The combination of Workman and Parnell Bound opened at 1 to 2 and closed at 7 to 20.

Over the six furlong course the race was all over but for the official okay at the half way mark. There Parnell Bound was in front and the farther he went the farther he led. At the end Workman was easing him.

Those that finished back of the winner had a hot time of it to land second, the place falling to the California stable's Donie which had a nose the best of Time Enough. Another nose back Benish Way crossed the line a very tired fellow after having led in the early stages. The time was 1:11 3-5. Parnell Bound's purse amounted to only $700.

100 to Compete Today in Builders' Golf Tourney

More than 100 will tee off in the first annual golf tournament of the Allied Builders of Chicago at Glen Oak Country club at Glen Ellyn this afternoon. Seventy-five prizes will be awarded. A banquet will be held in the dining room of the club immediately after the presentation of the prizes.

GALLANT KNIGHT DISPLAYS SPEED IN CUP WORKOUT

Gallant Knight turned in a brilliant workout over the heavy Arlington course between races yesterday afternoon for his engagement in the Arlington cup on Saturday. He worked a mile and an eighth in 1:57, running faster in the late stages than he did at the beginning. But, despite this good drill, there was every indication that Sun Beau will go to the post as the favorite in the cup race.

Brownell Combs, owner of Manta, and J. T. Looney, owner of Martha Jones, were a couple of disappointed spectators of the renewal of Matron Stakes. They traveled from Kentucky to see their colorbearers perform.

Liberty Limited, said to be the best of the costly 2 year olds in the stable of the Waggoners from Texas, worked six furlongs in the mud yesterday in 1:17. Dick Vestal has brought the Texas colt up to good racing condition after a long training ordeal. He is to go in the Post and Paddock Stakes.

Boots Durnell, who once trained for the kings and queens in Europe but who hasn't been able to command a smile from old Lady Luck all season, had something to chuckle about yesterday when Gala Flight, which he developed for Griffin Watkins, the Illinois turfman, scored a handy victory in the San Antonio Purse. She conquered some of the best of her age and sex here and ran as if she is to be a topliner for the rest of the season.

Charles McCulloch, chairman of the board of the Arlington Jockey club, entertained P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central railroad, and R. F. Starbuck, vice president, and P. R. Joyce, chairman of the board of the Chicago Great Western railway, in the Post and Paddock club yesterday.

The Fox Chapel stud's entry of Acrobate II and Fichet ganged on Ben L. Behr's Tod Sloan in the Spring Brook steeplechase. Fichet raced into a lead of 25 lengths at the end of the first mile. Then, when the killing pace caused him to drop back, Acrobate II took up the running and proved to be an easy winner. Tod Sloan beat the tiring Fichet for second money but could not get close to Acrobate II.

Gormond, after winning three straight at Arlington met his Waterloo in the last race yesterday. He was nowhere with the leaders when the run down the stretch started. The favorite players groaned long and loud. But Bub McFarland, staging a rush in the stretch, got up to beat Paula L. Both were outsiders in the betting.

Tannery, which hasn't been heard from since the Washington Park season, appeared on the track yesterday morning and in the muddy going turned in a good workout of 42 seconds for three furlongs. He looked so good that most of the clockers were of the opinion he will be back at the races within a few days.

The fans were treated to an unexpected thrill in the Spring Brook steeplechase, second on the program, when Fair Bob, who was in a contending position at the time, threw Jockey J. Swann at the tenth hurdle. Tod Sloan's bid for the lead in the stretch was handicapped by interference from the riderless Fair Bob, which finished the circuit.

ALEMITE
MOTOR OIL
TESTED, PROVED AND PERFECTED BY THE NATION'S LEADER IN SPECIALIZED LUBRICATION FOR MOTOR CARS!

There are 10 years of experiment and test back of the discovery of the Alemite Process of refining motor oils. Yet you will discover in the first 10 miles of driving why this amazing new Alemite Motor Oil—made from 100% Pure Pennsylvania Crude—is superior—safe—sure!

You will note New Power—Greater Gas Mileage. For it seals in compression and power with amazing new efficiency.

Exceptionally rich, full-bodied. Unusually "oily." Clings doggedly to motor parts with fullest protection under all conditions of service and temperature.

Heat Resisting! High motor temperatures, hot summer weather and high speeds will not break down its rich lubricating qualities or thin them out.

No Impurities to cause sticky valves and stuck piston rings. Your motor will run cleaner because it minimizes carbon deposits.

GEN. MOTOR'S 2D QUARTER AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

Earns Dividends in First Half.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Poor business is to be had even in periods of depression if a drive is made for it. That about epitomizes the experience of the General Motors corporation, which sold more cars and derives a larger operating revenue in the second quarter of this year than during the same period in 1930.

Moreover, the company earned its dividends comfortably and more than recovered the deficit of the first quarter, so that earnings for the first half of this year exceeded dividend requirements.

During the three months ended June 30, General Motors sold 419,650 cars at home and abroad, compared with 396,894 in the second quarter of 1930. Sales to American dealers were 382,827, compared with 356,129. Total sales for the first half of this year were 734,207 cars, compared with 764,-[illegible] of last year. Sales to American dealers totaled 675,674, compared with [illegible].

During the second quarter of this year, American dealers' sales to consumers totaled 361,683 cars, compared with 337,130 a year ago; while for the first half of 1931, sales totaled 593,564 cars, compared with 657,329 in the same period in 1930.

Net Is $55,122,767.

Net earnings of General Motors for the second quarter of this year were $[illegible], equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.22 a share on the common stock. This compares with operating earnings of $53,386,768, or $1.17 a share, for the second quarter of 1930. However, the latter figure does not include a nonoperating and nonrecurring profit of $9,517,943 derived from the sale of 1,275,000 shares of common stock to the General Motors Acceptance corporation. This profit brought total net earnings up to $60,-[illegible], or $1.34 a share on the common stock.

Net earnings for the first half of 1931 totaled $84,123,176, equivalent to $.85 a share on the common stock. Dividend requirements were $1.50 a share. Net earnings for the first half of 1930, not including the nonoperating profit of the second quarter, were $98,-[illegible], or $2.15 a share, and total net earnings, including the nonrecurring profit, were $107,982,428, or $2.32 a share.

Sloan Is Percentage of Sales.

"Sales of the automotive industry as a whole to consumers in the United States were approximately 27 per cent less in the second quarter than a year ago," he continued. "Sales of General Motors cars to consumers were 2.5 per cent less than a year ago. The more favorable comparison of General Motors sales is accounted for by the fact that the corporation is enjoying a somewhat larger percentage of the market available than was the case last year. This improvement in percentage has been well maintained.

"While progress has been made in clearing from operations further economies, the influence on net profits has been offset by the shift of demand to lower priced units, reflecting the general circumstances prevailing during the period under view."

General Motors also improved its cash position by nearly $67,000,000 during the first half of this year. Holdings of cash, United States government and other marketable securities on June 30 aggregated $245,856,-668, compared with $179,037,071 on Dec. 31, 1930, and $175,693,782 on June 30, 1930. Net working capital on June 30 was $328,651,750, against $281,037,-636 on Dec. 31, 1930, and $290,577,234 on June 30 last year.

Hupp Reports Loss.

A net loss of $396,198 for the quarter ended June 30 was reported by the Hupp Motor Car corporation. This loss, after charges and depreciation, compares with a net loss of $640,911 in the preceding quarter and with a net profit of $442,304, equal to 29 cents a share on 1,512,092 shares, $10 par common stock, in the June quarter of 1930.

The net loss for the six months ended June 30, 1931, was $1,077,110 after charges and depreciation, as compared with a net profit of $509,053, or 33 cents a share, in the first six months of 1930.

Discusses Benefits From Electricity on Farms

BY SCRUTATOR.

Much pioneering has been done by electric utility companies in extending central station power into agricultural areas, but to date the surface has barely been scratched. Probably no other development offers greater hope for agriculture.

As the power area pushed further along country roads farmers will find it possible to substitute modern methods for those of the kerosene lamp and windmill era.

In the last six years the number of farms served by high lines has been quadrupled, but still only ten per cent of the nation's farms are reached. On Jan. 1, 1931, about 640,-000 farms were served with electricity, against 166,159 at the beginning of 1924.

Extension in 1930.

During 1930, a year of drought, business depression and exceedingly low prices for produce, electric service was extended to some 90,000 additional farms, the greatest annual increase on record.

But getting the wires to the farm gate is not the whole problem. Ways and means must be found to adapt this kind of power to needs peculiar to the farm.

The committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture, in its eighth annual session at the Sherman hotel yesterday, discussed a report on farm electrification research compiled by George W. Kable, its director of research.

"Agriculture is our one industry not yet electrified," said Mr. Kable. "Farming is full of opportunities for applying electricity to the solution of problems of chemistry, physics, biology, bacteriology, economics, and chemistry. Only the more simple applications of electricity have been solved. The hard problems, those about which we know little, those which apparently are not economically feasible, the real problems of research are still ahead."

Receives Close Attention.

Many of these, however, are bound to be solved, for, Mr. Kable reported, the use of electricity on farms is now receiving the full attention of a hundred investigators, while a thousand more are devoting time to specific problems.

Dr. E. A. White, director of the committee, predicted that ultimately three million farms would be electrified.

"On the basis of present knowledge of the numerous possible uses for electricity on the farm it is entirely conservative to say that a good farm should use 500 kilowat hours per month. This would give us eighteen billion kilowatt hours per year for American agriculture."

Equipment required to use this energy, he said, would represent an investment of three billion dollars, not to mention the capital required to provide facilities to generate the electricity and bring it to the farms.

Possible fields mentioned as suitable for research include destruction of insects, which cause an annual loss estimated at two billion, hotbeds and soil heating, and electric power expansion.

Agriculture is an enormous power user. The department of agriculture has estimated that some sixteen billion annual horse power hours are employed in farm operations. At present electricity furnishes less than six per cent of that power. The immense opportunity for expansion of electric power use is thus apparent.

Social Side Prominent.

The social effect of electricity on the farm family is not to be overlooked. Good roads and automobiles have taken the farmer out of the mud and have broken the monotony of farm life. The improvement in sanitation, reduction of drudgery, and greater enjoyment of the home resulting from the wiring of farms will increase the attractiveness of life in rural districts.

Money spent in farm electrification benefits not only farming and the electric power companies but manufacturing and merchandising concerns as well. Extension of electric services into country districts also improves the power company's load factor. This results in greater economies in operation and makes possible reductions in rates to all users.

EXPECTS INCREASE IN TOTAL DEMAND FOR REFINERY GASOLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—An increase of 3.7 per cent in the total demand for refinery gasoline during the second half of this year over 1930 was estimated today by the American Petroleum institute committee on refinery statistics and economics.

Domestic demand, it was estimated, will increase by 5.7 per cent, but a drop of 10 per cent is expected in export consumption.

The committee estimated a decline of 2.4 per cent in total demand for crude oil, but said it looked for a 6 per cent increase in exports. Domestic crude oil requirements were placed at an average of 2,393,000 barrels a day.

It was held that 27,184,000 barrels of gasoline at refineries on Oct. 1 would provide adequate working stocks and, contemplating an increase of 3,100,000 barrels above working stocks between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31, the committee set 30,284,000 barrels as the economic limit for such stocks at the end of the year.

The committee warned that while late reports indicate reserve stocks of gasoline are being drawn upon heavily, the fact remains that if present refinery operations are continued through the early part of the period and then experience only the usual four quarter reduction, stocks are apt to be 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 barrels higher than the recommended limit.

HEAR PARAMOUNT DIVIDEND MAY BE PAID IN STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—As a measure to conserve current assets for repurchase of common stock under guarantees, the Paramount Publix corporation may pay the next quarterly dividend in stock instead of in cash, it was reported in Wall street today. No confirmation of the report could be obtained at Paramount Publix offices. The stock now pays 62½ cents a share quarterly.

Guarantees for repurchase of stock were made in connection with property acquisitions. Payment of $4,875,-000 for 65,000 shares at 75 is due September 10; $2,550,000 for 30,000 shares at 85 on Jan. 1, 1932, and $4,-100,000 for 48,246 shares at 85 on March 1, 1932, a total of $11,525,000.

It was pointed out the only alternative to payment of a stock dividend was to sell $10,000,000 additional debentures, the cost of which financing was considered likely to be too high with Paramount's 6 per cent debentures quoted in open market around 90.

Grain Men to Vote Today on Clearing House Rule

A vote will be taken today on the proposed amendment to the Board of Trade's clearing house rule which would prevent corporations, other than those who were members April 2, 1929, from joining the board's clearing house. The main fight is centered against the Farmers National Grain corporation's recent purchase of a controlling interest in the Updike Grain company of Chicago, which gives them the privilege of placing their operations through the Updike company and its clearing house privileges.

Those opposed to barring corporations from the clearing house say it will place the board in direct violation of the grain futures act, which provides for admission of corporations to all licensed exchanges. To exclude them would be a violation of the law, which might result in the board losing its license, it is claimed.

Poor Sales, Good Outlook Mark Machine Tool Trade

Good prospects, but poor sales characterize the week in machinery and machine tool markets, American Machinist reports. Impending automotive model changes today present the livest prospects for business, while othr industries still lag, it is stated. School demand, ordinarily a negligible item, is gaining prominence in reports from many centers. Demand for used tools is dull.

Wrigley Co. Earnings Exceed Dividend Needs

Net earnings of the William Wrigley Jr. company and subsidiaries for the quarter ended June 30 were approximately 29 per cent larger than in the preceding three months and were about 52 per cent in excess of quarterly dividend requirements. In the same period of last year the seasonal increase in nonconsolidated earnings amounted to 14 per cent.

The consolidated net income for the three months ended June 30 was $3,-057,222, after depreciation, taxes, and all other charges, equal to $1.52 a share on the 2,000,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. This compares with a net income of $2,365,961, or $1.18 a share, in the preceding three months, and brought the total for the first half of 1931 to $5,423,182, or $2.71 a share.

Stern Points to Latent Demand for Good Bonds

What fall and winter business hold in store for American business is the topic engaging the attention of barbers, bankers, and millions of other persons in all stations of life whose welfare will be directly affected by the course of trade in the next few months.

Carefully avoiding highly optimistic generalizations, Lawrence Stern, head of the La Salle street investment house bearing his name, yesterday invited attention to a few facts concerning his own business which may give an inkling of the present trend.

"Actual sales experience on the part of bond distributing institutions furnishes what is perhaps the most reliable index of the current conditions in the bond market," Mr. Stern said. "For that reason I have been particularly interested to note that the sales department of Lawrence Stern & Co. has recently encountered a very definite interest on the part of investors in bonds of a high grade which yield somewhat more than the low returns currently available on the highest type of 'gilt edge' bonds.

Seek Higher Yields.

"This is particularly true of the larger and more discriminating investors who have begun to feel that there may . . . be many excellent opportunities which have been overlooked. For many months there has been an excellent market for the highest grade of issues yielding a low return, but the market for the average good investment bond—yielding, say, 5 to 5½ per cent—has been limited. Today we find that the more thoughtful investors are becoming dissatisfied with the extremely low yields which are available on the bonds which have been popular in recent months.

"The development is of particular interest when it is remembered that during the last periods of depression a strong bond market has invariably been the forerunner of a general upturn in business. Generally it has been found that the rising tendency in bonds proceeds in stages. First, a period of strength in the highest grade bonds which are legal for institutional investment or which approach that class, which in turn is followed by a rise in good investment issues bearing a slightly higher interest rate."

Witness First Stage.

For the last several months, Mr. Stern thinks, we have witnessed the first stage of this development. Low yield issues have shown consistent strength in the face of an otherwise ragged market. While the recent market for other issues hasn't broadened to such an extent as to be definite and conclusive, the movement is encouraging, he says.

"We feel that the sales experience of our organization indicates a beginning of such a tendency and we are inclined to believe that the chances favor a continuation and broadening of this trend during the autumn months. Such a development would, of course, prove highly important as a forerunner of general improvement in the national economic situation," Mr. Stern added.

CAR LOADINGS GAIN 95,702 DURING WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 22.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on July 11 totaled 763,581 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today. This was an increase of 95,702 cars above the preceding week, when freight traffic was reduced owing to the observance of Fourth of July. It was, however, a decrease of 152,404 cars below the corresponding week last year and a reduction of 303,833 cars under the same week two years ago.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week of July 11 totaled 291,790 cars, an increase of 35,475 cars above the preceding week this year, but 63,845 cars under the corresponding week in 1930 and 129,931 cars under the same week in 1929.

Denies Remington Plans Purchase of Winchester Co.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—George Bingham, vice president of Remington Arms company, denied today any deal is under way for the purchase of the bankrupt Winchester Repeating Arms company of New Haven. It was learned, however, that the bondholders committee had been seeking a purchaser of Winchester's manufacturing facilities and that Remington as well as several other leading munition and arms manufacturers had been consulted.

LOWER INCOME FOR ELECTRIC BOND & SHARE

Net income of the Electric Bond and Share company available for dividends and surplus for the twelve months ended June 30 amounted to $36,860,346, compared with $41,095,006 for the preceding twelve months. The former total is equivalent to $1.95 a share on the common stock outstanding as of June 30, against $2.46 a share earned on the common shares outstanding on June 30, 1930.

Igvestments owned as of June 30 last aggregated $811,020,000 at market value. This amount, plus the company's net assets and after deducting $100 a share for all outstanding preferred stock, was equivalent to about $38 a share for the outstanding common stock. The balance sheet carries investments at $913,320,581 as of June 30, compared with $874,103,046 as of June 30, 1930.

Dividends on the common stock are paid in stock at the rate of 1½ per cent quartely, these dividends being charged against surplus of the company at the rate of $10 a share for each share of common stock issued as dividends.

Power Implement Firm Omits Preferred Dividend

Minneapolis Moline Power Implement company has omitted its quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the preferred stock which is due Aug. 15.

Directors of Montgomery Ward and company declared the usual quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on the class A stock, payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 20.

WALL ST. LACKS NEWS TONIC SO MARKET SLIPS

Volume of Trading About Million.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—Stocks were puny today. With nothing in the news picture, either at home or abroad, to provide a stimulant for constructive operations, traders took the selling side and prices melted away anywhere from 1 to 5 points.

The bears lacked energy to press their advantage, however, and the reaction was a leisurely affair, a good proportion of the dealings evidently representing the liquidation of holdings by traders discouraged over the failure of something dramatic to take place at London on the strength of President Hoover's latest proposals bearing on the German crisis.

Volume was around 1,000,000 shares. Wall street obviously is still willing to lean to the optimistic side with a little encouragement. At any rate professionals committed to the downside are very cagey about putting out any lines that can't be quickly drawn in, with the situation on the other side fraught with such possibilities.

U. S. Steel Drops.

There were two or three items in the domestic newsbag calculated to dampen enthusiasm, too, today. United States Steel common was under the cloud of a possible dividend reduction at the regular quarterly meeting to be held next Tuesday and affected by reports of a further decline in steel trade operations. As a result it ranged more than 3 points lower on active trading. American Can had the burden of a report that operations of canners are contracting and sold off more than 4 points. General Electric, another outstanding pivotal, dipped rather sharply following publication of its earnings report, showing 75 cents for the six months, just 5 cents short of dividend requirements.

Railroad shares suffered from further poor earnings reports and probably in some slight measure from threats of labor troubles in the coal regions of the Alleghanies. Reports of seven of the carriers for June showed net railway operating income off 12.6 per cent from the corresponding month of last year, as compared with a drop of 40.4 per cent for all the roads in May. Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island and other conspicuous issues of the group lost from 2 to 4 points or more.

62,400,000 Tons of Dynamite

It has been estimated that the amount of electric energy used in the United States in 1930 was equal to the energy of 78,000,000 tons of dynamite!

The power of the kilowatt and the ease with which it is controlled has made the demand for electricity to perform multiple tasks one of constantly increasing proportion.

UNITED STATES ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER SHARES

MORE FINANCING BY INSULL FIRMS IS ANNOUNCED

Gary Electric, Peoples Gas to Receive Funds.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Two more important pieces of financing by the Insull utility interests were announced yesterday. An $8,000,000 issue of first lien collateral 5 per cent bonds of the Gary Electric and Gas company will be offered shortly by Halsey, Stuart & Co., it was learned following the listing of the bonds by the Chicago Stock Exchange.

The second piece of financing by the Insull group was a $15,000,000 issue of 2½ per cent notes, due July 30, 1932, of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, which was sold to the same banking house.

Cites Previous Financing.

Several large pieces of financing have been carried out by the Insull company in the last week. Earlier this month a $16,000,000 issue of first and refunding bonds of Peoples Gas was brought. Previously the Commonwealth Edison company and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois refinanced extensively.

Proceeds of the latest Peoples Gas financing will be used for proposed additions and other corporate purposes including the retirement of all bank loans, Samuel Insull, chairman of the board, said. This sale completes the present debt financing program of the company, he added.

The Gary Electric and Gas issue is intended to reimburse the company in part for the purchase of the Gary Heat, Light and Power company, which was acquired last May from the United States Steel corporation. The bonds will be offered at approximately 92½ in denomination of $1,000 only.

List Southeastern Gas Bonds.

The governing committee of the Chicago exchange also listed yesterday $6,000,000 principal amount of first lien sinking fund bonds of the Southeastern Gas and Water company. This company was incorporated recently and merged with Inland Utilities, Inc. Proceeds of the present issue will be used to pay the interest due on the convertible debentures of Inland Utilities which was defaulted Dec. 1, to retire maturing money liens, bank loans and notes, and to provide funds to take care of reorganization expenses besides supplying additional working capital for the company.

STOCKS LOWER HERE

Trading on the exchange yesterday was comparatively quiet. Stocks were bringing from a fraction to a point less when the day closed. Traders showed little inclination to push operations, however, and in no instances did severe recessions develop. North American Light and Power shares were again actively dealt in as the price eased to 67¾, erasing the improvement made in the preceding session. Motor accessory shares were dull and easy.

STEEL REVIEWS SEE SIGNS OF SEPTEMBER RISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 22.—Steel ingot production for the country as a whole is estimated to have fallen to 30 per cent of capacity, off 2 points in the last week, but the weekly steel trade reviews today report a growing feeling of hopefulness that a decided turn for the better will be witnessed by September. One hopeful sign mentioned is the movement to stabilize prices.

"Steel producers entertain no illusions of the genuinely encouraging upturn before late August or September," says Steel.

"So little is July falling off from June in respect to shipments that hopefulness of a decided turn for the better by September is spreading through the producing end of the steel industry," the Iron Age notes. "The belief is now very general that present levels of output will continue through August without material change.

"Reduced requirements of the automobile builders, the completion of rail contracts, and the falling off in large gas and oil line projects account largely for the curtailment. Two blast furnaces are scheduled to go out at Ensley this week and one steel company stack may be banked in the Chicago district. The automobile industry will reach the low of the year in August, with a production expected not to exceed 175,000 cars.

"The movement to stabilize prices gained by the wide adoption last week of a reduction of $1 a ton for bars, plates, and shapes. In the case of bars particularly some revision downward on contracts was required, but the tonnage so affected was probably not very great and, following so shortly the new classification and prices for sheets, that seem to have been accepted almost without deviation, the price action respecting the heavy tonnage products has had the effect of measurably improving sentiment."

INT'L SALT CO. BUYS CONCERN IN N. Y. CITY

New York, July 22.—The International Salt company has acquired the Independent Salt company of New York City through the purchase of its capital stock. The Independent Salt company is the oldest and largest [illegible] in the metropolitan [illegible] with [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] of the International Combustion Engineering company's books and probably will submit a proposal for certain assets of International Combustion soon. Westinghouse is said to be interested chiefly in the boiler division.

The Knox Hat company and C. E. Anderson have sold their interests in the capital stock of the Long Clothing and Furnishing company and the Long Hat corporation to Louis Gutterman, who operates a chain of furnishing stores known as the Knickerbocker shops. The Long chains at present comprise 46 units.

Top cattle forged above the $9.00 line yesterday when a bulge in the market for light weight steers and yearlings carried $30 lb averages to $9.10, the highest paid for cattle since the middle of May. Yearlings averaging 936 lbs sold at $9.00, but few heavier beeves were eligible to more than $8.00.

Eastern demand was good, but outside buyers met stiff local competition for best grades. Armour and Swift paid the highest prices of the day for yearling stock. During the first 23 days of July, shippers purchased 32 per cent of Chicago cattle receipts, against 25 per cent during the same period in 1930. Since Jan. 1 shippers have purchased 30,000 more cattle at Chicago than in 1930. Butcher stock held fully steady yesterday, baby beef heifers selling up to $8.85. Calves were unchanged.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.60.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were bid $7.60 on the "to arrive" market, but no offers to sell were made. September lights were offered at $8.00, and mediums for that month were offered at $7.85 and carried bids of $7.25. December lights were offered at $7.25, mediums at $6.80, and heavy at $7.00.

The extreme top and general average prices of hogs were unchanged on the cash trade yesterday, although there were instances of 5@10c gain in light and light butchers during the first rounds of trading. The top at $7.80 was paid for 170@210 lb averages, while extremely heavy butchers exceeding 400 lbs in weight ranged downwards to $5.00, and 500 lbs packing sows had to sell as low as $4.00 and occasionally slightly below that figure, indicating the wide spread in prices. The general average remained unchanged at $6.15. Although 9,000 were estimated left in the pens at the close, most of them were being held off the market in hopes of continued light receipts the remainder of the week. Five western markets expect 40,500 for today, against 45,400 last Thursday.

Lambs Mostly Steady.

Bulk of lambs changed hands at steady rates yesterday, buyers holding most slaughter stock down to a $7.50@7.60 basis in spite of the substantial reduction in supplies. The trade came almost to a standstill during the forenoon when salesmen held stock sharply higher and were in hopes of moving the bulk of top kinds back to the $8.00 line on abbreviated receipts. One lot of lambs to a city butcher brought the price early, but they were of outstanding quality. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. Feeding lambs were slow sellers, but quoted steady.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders who have considered that the spring wheat crop in the Dakotas, especially the western section, as well as eastern Montana, might make a fair crop, have changed their minds. Reports from those sections indicate that the crop not only of wheat, but of all grains, is disappointingly small, and that with railroads putting in reduced rates they realize that the spring wheat crop is one of the lightest in years. On the other hand, the big winter wheat crop is regarded as largely offsetting losses in spring wheat and that there will be plenty of wheat for all domestic and export requirements, with a good surplus besides. Trade sentiment is more divided and the disposition is toward more conservatism in selling, confining such operations to bulges. The trade, however, is not heavy, and the market is susceptible to price changes, with more disposition to work on the bull side.

One of the closest observers in the wheat market says at the present time trade pays more attention to temporary local conditions, cutting primary receipts 4,445,000 bu yesterday, as compared with 6,682,000 bu last year, showing a holding tendency on the part of the farmer.

In the Ukraine district of Russia the spring wheat crop is medium and it is expected the harvest will be smaller, according to Broomhall report.
